Pequot. B67

Presented by Mrs. Elbert B. Monroe. Pequot. B67

Presented by Mrs. Elbert B. Monroe.

The S S D P P

The Possibility and Reality of Magick, Sorcery, and Witchcraft, demonstrated.

VINDICATION

Of a COMPLEAT

History of Magick,

SORCERY, and WITCHCRAFT.

Dr. Hutchinson's Hiftorical Essay, Now Bishop of Down and Connor, in the Kingdom of Ireland.

IN TWO PARTS.

PART I. Containing an Examination and Anfwer of the Politions laid down in that Book.

PART II. An Essay of the Nature of Material and Immaterial Substances. How Immaterial Substances may affect one another, and alter Matter, or work upon Human Bodies; proved by Reason, Philosophy, Moral Proof, and the Testimony of Scripture.

By RICHARD BOULTON, Sometime of Brazen-Nofe College in Oxford.

Deut xviii. 10, 11. There shall not be found amongst you any one that maketh his Son or his Daughter pass through the tire, or that useth Divination, or an Observer of Times, or an Enchanter, or a Witch. Or a Charmer, or Consulter with Familiar Spirits, or a Wizard, or a Necromancer.

LONDON:

Printed for J. Roberts, near the Oxford-Arms in Warnisk-Lane. M DCC XXII.

Price Two Shillings.

bu

a

THE

PREFACE

TO THE

READER.

AVING formerly wrote a Compleat History of Magick, Sorcery, and Witthcraft; containing a Collection of the most Authentick, and none but well attested Relations, of the Practice of those Diabolical Arts; and having ving given an Account in the Preface and Introduction, of the Design and Usefulness of that History, (to which I refer the Reader, ) which was defigned for the Service and Good of Mankind; not only by representing the Barbarity and pernicious Effects of fuch wicked Practices, but also to deter others, and breed in them an Abhorrence of fuch notorious Crimes, which are offensive, and contrary to both the Laws of God and Men, as well as destructive to the Souls and Bodies of the Guilty, and obnoxious to Mankind, who suffered in all Ages, by fuch evil Doers: I am not a little furprized, that one whose Business is, as a Shepherd of the Flock of Christ, to difcourage Vice, and pronounce the Sentence of his Master against such wicked Practices, as might do fuch Damage to those who are, or ought to be his peculiar VIOL

1

1

d ıl-

er

he ly

ní.

es,

us

ra-

en,

nd

to

by ur-

2 lif-

en-

red

to cu-

iar

ipse

liar Care: I say, I am not a sittle surprized, that he should write an Essay on that Subject, to discourage so good a Design; especially to misrepresent so useful a History, as if it might do some Mischief.

Having been some Time out of England, and not seeing this Essay, I was obliged to lye under the Doctor's too severe Cenfure: But coming to London this Spring, and meeting with that Book, I thought my self obliged to vindicate both my self and my Design, and to clear my self of such ungrounded Resections. Upon which Thoughts, reading the Doctor's Book, I found, that he had avoided, both giving Reasons to justify his Charge, as well as offering any Arguments to maintain his Cause; opposing moral Proof, and the Testimony of Scripture, with his bare ipse dixit, or positive Assertions to the contrary; using cunning Institutions, and slight Evasions, instead of Arguments, to lessen the Credit of Authentick Relations, and to bassle the undoubted Testimony of Holy Writ.

A 3

0

123

ar

pe

ro

th ter

ab

ou

N

VCI

Upon this View and Judgment made of his Essay, I began to write the following Vindication of my Compleat History of Magick, Sorcery, and Witeberaft; in which, I prefume, I have made it appear, that his Charge was altogether Groundless, and without Reason; and that what I have offered, is grounded upon Reason, moral Proof, and the Testimony of Sacred Writings; and confequently, not likely to do Mischief, but Good. I need not fay, that his Esfay is consequently likely to do much Harm; because, if what is contained in my Hiftory,

e

4

0

,

f

.

f

y

n

-

r

d

d

*

t

is

:

i-

7, flory, is confirmed by, and confentaneous to what is contained in Scripture, it will follow, that what he fays in his Essay, is the contrary.

Tracking of the Matthe on the

The Scripture, in sundry Places, mention and condemn the Practice of Magick, Sorcery, and Witcherast, as also the Use of Charms and Enchantments, and tell us of the Appearance of Samuel's Ghost, and often mention the Apparition or Appearance of Spirits; as the Angel which rolled away the Stone from the Door of the Sepulchre; and the Devil, who tempted our Saviour, and carried him about; and what we have delivered in our History, are Relations of the same Nature, well attested.

The Scriptures likewise tell us of several possessed with Devils; to prove all which, test and worlding Gods who is to pro-which, we have quoted the several Texts relating to these Diabolical Artistices and Practices; and as the Scripture tells us of Possessions, we have also cited several Histories of the like Nature in our Compleat History.

1

1

1 -1

1

t

1

I

t

T

p

I

b¢

We shall further observe, in Vindication of what we have offered, that if the Scripture hath taken Notice of such Things, and condemns them; to terrify the Wicked, and to breed an Abhorrence of Evil Actions; and that the World may be aware of the Devil and all his Works, and guard themselves from being deluded and led aside from the Service of God: I say, if such Things may warn us to beware of the Devil, and sear and worship God, who is to protect us from such Evils; our History containing Relations of the same Nature, will be of the fame Ufe, and will do no Micchief, but GoodigO erofod ods Anisge 73

nd

us

ra

mca.

if ich

CT.

b

the

ind

OM

er-

127

ind

iin

vil

bo

But, on the contrary, if the Doctor's Effay diffuades us from believing fuch Relations, will not the Disbelief of fuch Histories tend to breed a Disbelief of parallel Histories in Scripture? And if we disbelieve Sacred Writings, must not all Religion be flighted ? And then, will not the Doctor's Effay be likely to do no Good, I hope, he will not take is faidhiMitud Estay is incompleat, because it contains

Upon these Considerations, I leave the Reader to judge, how juffly the Doctor hath laid his Charge; or; whether I might not apply the Censure more properly to his Effay; but this will be deed cided by the following Sheets; wherein I have quoted Texts of Scripture, to confirm . firm what Arguments I have made afe of against the Doctor's Opinion

But the Doctor complains of the pompous Title of that History, because I call it a Compleat History. The Reason why I call it Compleat, is, because it contains a full Account of all those Hiflorical Relations, which are mentioned in the best Authors, and which are best attested, and most worthy Notice: And I hope, he will not take it amis, if his Essay is incompleat, because it contains several Relations of no Value, trumpt up with the Advantage of cunning Infinuations; as if Truth was of less Value, because some Stories or Relations may be Impositions: At that Rate, nothing must te Right, because some Things are Wrong; and my History must be Invalid, because in Li his

ł

p

n

be

H

tia

an ki

Bu

co

mi

jus

Tr

fig

lati

thr

do

his Relations are of no Force; or my Arguments must be insufficient, because his are contrary to the Testimony of Scrie pture. On the Management and the second s 1

t

-

d

A

d

is 15 pt

ßė,

DE

ıft

54 ife

his

Another Charge the Doctor lays againful me is, that my History is writ partially; because it contains only an Account of Historical Truths; and to prove this Patiality, he hath collected some improbable and invaluable Stories; as if the not taking Notice of fuch, made it imperfect! But I understand not how this can be counted Partiality; for though God Almighty lets the Sun shine upon the Ur-2 just, as well as the Just, yet in History, Truth is only to be regarded; and my De fign was only to take Notice of such Rev lations as carried the Face of Truth, throwing away the Rubbish, as Builders do in creeting new Houses; which, fince the the Doctor hath been pleased to take up, he is welcome to retain it; and I shall think my Structure never the less compleat, for want of it; my Design not being to impose upon the World, but to write what was true and useful.

me is, that my History is west parcially The Doctor, I fee, throughout his Book, is for excusing and extenuating the Sin of Witchcraft; and to that Degree, that he would have us believe no fuch Thing, though the Holy Scripture mentions it in several Places. And though his Tenderness is so great, to bear these wretched Creatures harmless, I am forry the Doctor should think, that to deny the Authority of the Scripture, is the best way to carry a good Conscience, void of Offence towards God and Man; which in Effect he must do, if he denies what God by his Prophets and Apostles affirms to be true; tille

1

V

V

2

"

.

-

P

p fe

hi

to the READER.

231

Hg.

מרל

939

0 om

isd

le l

e,

h

n-

is

(e ry

ne

eft

of

in bo

be

e;

true; who often mention the Sin of Witchcraft as an abominable Crime, and pronounce the Punishment of Death against the Practifers of it; tho the Doctor would have them excused, and left to the righteous Judge (p. 65.) at the last Day : Of greater Tenderness and Clemency than God Almighty! who expressly (Deut. 18!) fays, A Witeb fall not live.

And though (Page 227.) the Doctor would make Party-Business of believing what the Scripture declares for Truth_ and fays, "One Side lays hold of them, " as Arguments of greater Faith and Orthodoxy, and closer Adherence to Scri-"prure;" yet I shall never blame any Party for their close Adherence to Scripture; and wonder the Boctor, in Eff feet, should lessen its Authority to serve his Argament or Opinion, or endeavour 8300

(a)

xiv The PREFACE

to alter the true Intent and Meaning of the express Words. The Scripture shall always be the Standard of my Faith, and the Foundation of my Belief.

would have them exculed, and left to the long and tedious Preface; I must refer him to the following Sheets, for a further Account and Answer to the Doctor's Essay, and Vindication of my History, which are divided into Two Parts,

In the First Part, I have examined and applyered his Book in Vindication of my own; in doing of which I instit on nething but Reason. Moral Proof and the Testimony of the Old and New Tellimons; which I hope are sufficient to prove his Arguments invalidant his ludgment erroneous. But if the Doctor will as his Book seems to do one really in does, does, call the Authority of Scripture in Question;

KN

of.

ill

d

WO

90

10

8 73

W

d

Ya

Do

di

بنع

O

P

15

M

5

In the Second Part, I have considered the Nature of Material and Immaterial Substances; and the Power of Immaterial Substances in altering Matter, and affecting Human Bodies: The Design of which is to prove what the Scripture fays, consonant to Reason and Natural Philosophy.

ras I

But here I would have it understood, that what I have said of the Nature of Material and Immaterial Substances, and the Power of the latter in altering, or affecting Matter, is only so far as relates to our present Purpose and Occasion; reserving a more large Enquiry for another Subject, for which those Thoughts are chiefly design'd.

THE

(az)

Ħ

my The PREFACE, &c.

If what I have said is satisfactory to the Candid and Impartial Reader, and to convince the World of the Integrity and Usefulness of my Design in publishing that History of Witchcraft I write in Vindication of, I shall think my. Time not ill spent, and shall be obliged to the World for their Candid Reception.

I am

But here I would have it underflood, church of The READER of Janis of Material and Invariental Substances, RICHARD BOULTON.

another Sobject, for which those Thoughts are chiefly defign'd.

(33)

or affecting Matter, is only to far as

THE

en k

b

0

2 ters, robite's conflit of a Chronolyis

Table : and Offenorious on which ToH Est at boninghos

CONTENTS.

Witches in Suffolk, Salem, Be Andover in Mey-England And Tall AH bois, # PART J.

CHAP. I.

Remarks on wil emarks on abbat the Doctor bath Said in his Dedication; shewing the Injustice of his Reflection on our Complex History of Magick, Sorcery and Witcheraft, and the Erroneousness of his Arguments, HAP. VI.

Remarks on with Ach Healand fail marks on the First Chapter of bis Historical Esfay, A321 加州田田田 CHA

CHAP.

The CONTENTS.

CHAP. III.

Remarks on his Second and Third Chapters, which consist of a Chronological Table; and Observations on what is contained in that Table, p. 31

CHAP, IV.

Remarks on what he hath faid of the Witches in Suffolk, Salem, Boston and Andover in New-England, at Mohra in Sweden, and the Witches of Washois,

CHAP. V.

Remarks on what the Doctor hath said of the Viyal before my Lord Chief Bare Hale, of Richard Dugdate, or the Survey Dæmoniack, and the Case of Jan Wenham, in Hertfordshire,

CHAP. VI.

Remarks on what the Doctor bath said Teats, Marks, Charms, Want of Teat Of and swimming Witches, CHA

CHAP.

The CONTENTS

CHAP, VII.

Remarks on the Doctor's Twelfth Chapter, of what Kind of Witchcrafts they are, that are spoken of in Holy Scripture, p. 128.

cal

15

3.1

LDO

id o

II

Tradement in web Sales H 3 Almit ber

Remarks on his Thirteenth Chapter, of the Laws of Nations, 143.

PART II.

CHAP, I

Thoughts of the Nature of Material and Immaterial Substances, conformant to Philosophy, Scripture, and the Articles of Faith, according to the Church of England,

CHAP. IL

Of the Power of Immaterial Substances in altering Material Substances and Hurmum Bodies; consonant to Reason, Philosophy,

The CONTENTS.

losophy, Scripture, the Creation of the Universe, and the Formation of Human Bodies: With a Conclusion of this Dottrine, apply'd to sustain the Belief of the Scripture, which affirms the Truth of the Dostrine of the Reality of the Arts of Magick, Sorcery, Witchcraft, &c. with a final Period of God Almighty's Judgment in such Cases, p. 173

PART II.

Larry of Marions,

ERRATA.

PAge 1. Line 12. for as as was, r. as well as. P. 8. 1. 38. for make, r. prove. P. 53. 1. 38. for the Scripture otherwise, r. the Scripture testissies otherwise. P. 85. 1. 38. dele which. P. 93. 1. 16. for he, r. she. P. 125. 1. 12. for Latinal, r. Lachrymal. P. 166. 1. 16. for discovered, r. disordered. P. 168. 1. 22. dele not only.

CHAP. IL

lo ophys

of the Power of Immaterial Sublances in altering Material Subfigues and the aum bodies ; consonant to Renson, Pie-

1

THE ### INTRODUCTION.

the

uth the &c.

73

lele

La-

for-

H E Diabolical Practice of Magick, Sorcery, and Witchcraft, hath been so long exercis'd in the World, through so many Ages and Countries, and their ill Effects been so prejudicial to Mankind, that no Body can reasonably question the Truth of such mischievous Arts, who contemn not the Evidence of moral Proof, the undeniable Testimony of Scripture, and the most evident Demonstration Reason can make use of.

To demonstrate their abominable ill Essets, as as was pernicious Practices, we, some Time ago, wrote a History of Magick, Sorcery and Witchcrast, in Two Volumes, consisting of well attested Matters of Fact, to detect and discourage these vile Abusers of Mankind. The Design of these Papers was for the Service of the Publick, and not only to lay open the Wickedness of some, and to discover by what unlawful Methods Mankind have been abused, but also to deter others from impious Crimes, and wicked Performances of the like Nature.

But this good Intention was not long put in Execution, before it met with some Opposition from a Man of Learning and Judgment, though in this Point very much mistaken, in a Book entitled, An Historical Essay concerning Witcherast.

The Author of this Essay having unjustly represented our History of Magick, 55c. as if it were B likely likely to do some Mischief, we think our selves obliged, both in Justice to our good Intention, as well as the Service of the Publick, to look into, and entine how well this Author hath made his Charge good, and how strenuously he hath defended his contrary Opinion; which being done, we shall endeavour to make it appear, upon what reasonable Grounds we have proceeded in that Work, and upon what reasonable Foundations the Belief of the Reality of such Practices may be consirmed.

In pursiting of which Intentions, we shall take the following Method, dividing the whole into Two Parts.

In the first Part, we shall, in Answer to what the Author hath offered against what is delivered in our History, examine what he hath said in his Dedication, and shew, that what we have recited there cannot be the Spring of the Corruptions of Religion, nor the Perversion of Justice, but the contrary, being the sober Belief of good and bad Spirits, which he owns to be an Essential Part of Christian Belief.

Secondly, We shall shew that imaginary Relations cannot corrupt or pervert either Religion or Justice, having too weak an Insluence to gain Credit or Assent, since they may be easily distinguished from Realities well attested, of which our History consists.

Next, we shall make it appear, in answer to the false Conceptions of Melancholy Dispositions, that the Temper of the Humours and Disposition of the Spirits, may be altered by the Instuence of evil Spirits; and that our learned Author hath brought only ridiculous Relations to lessen the Credit, and diminish the Validity of authentick Truths.

We shall further proceed to shew, that the Arguments he hath offered, are either invalid, or Suppositious, or against himself, not distinguishing betwixt

I

f

S

A

I

tl

d

d

m

D

P

h

01 et

ei

M

te

th ha

ce

of

T

Sc

ae

Sw

th

de

[ 3]]

twixt Realities and Suppositions, and that afflicted Persons are incapable of Feigning and Counterfeiting.

We shall further take Notice, that in the progress of his Discourse, Arguments against himself are only slightly handled, or ediculed, and incredible Suppositions insisted on to lessen the Belief of an Historical Account of Matters of Fact.

obli

lla

era.

arge hi

en

able

uptake

Two

the

our edi-

ere,

(eli-

itra-

rits,

tian

ions

ice,

Af-

rom

con-

the

hat

the

Spi-

nly

mi-

gu-

up-

beixt Next we shall consider, that his Chronological Table consisting of real Truths, as well as Impositions, those impositious Relations ought not to lessen the Belief of real Truths; since, as we noted before, Counterfeits and Realities ought, and may easily be distinguished.

We shall next shew the ill Consequences of the delays in putting legal Justice in Execution, by committing all Judgment to the Righteous Judge after Death, where we shall make it appear, that his own Politions are Arguments against himself.

We shall further take Notice, that the Reasons he offers for the Decrease of Witches, are erroneous; Punishment rather discouraging that vitious Practice; and though there are as many Devils now, yet either they are undiscovered, or act after different Methods; former Practices being discouraged and detected by Laws, and terrify'd by Prosecutions; nor is there any Reason the Devils should be supposed to have forsaken our Age, the Vices of this present exceeding the Crimes of former Ages.

Next we shall make it appear, that what he says of the Power of Spirits, and Transmutation, or Transformation, is consuted by the Testimony of Scripture, and our Saviour's Miracles, where Spirits acted in Human Bodies, and afterwards in a Herd of Swine; and then we shall farther make it appear, that he perverts the Sense of Scripture and Providence, and contradicts himself.

Next, tho' he endeavours to lessen the Credit and Belief of the Actions of Spirits, by charging them with often acting foolishly, we shall make it appear, that this ought not to gain the Advantage he proposes, but is an Argument on our Side, and answer for the Confirmation of the Truth of some Relations, that might otherwise seem ridiculous, since we find that the wisest of Spirits have acted foolishly, as in making War against Heaven, and tempting our Saviour, as well as in other Actions which we shall recite.

In the next Place, we shall consider his Negative Rules, which seem to be calculated in favour of those detestable Practices. We shall further consider the remaining Part of his Book, and represent the Weakness of his Arguments; and lastly, take a View of his Sermons...

Having thus finished the first Part, and examined what the Author hath said in respect of Witchcrast, we shall next proceed to the Second Part, where we shall further shew, that to determine the Power and Possibility of Witchcrast, we are to consider:

First, The Nature of Substance, Material and Im-material.

Secondly, That Immaterial Substances may alter

Matter, and affect Human Bodies.

The Possibility of which we shall prove by Observations in Natural Philosophy. We shall likewise consider the Testimony of Scripture in both Old and New Testament, to prove the Effects of evil Spirits.

with Metaphyfical Arguments.

And to shew further the Power of Immaterial Substances over Matter, and how the latter may be affected by the former, we shall consider the Works of the Macrocosm, and compare them with those of the Microcosm, in the Formation of the Universe, and Human Bodies, and Observations in both, contrary to the common Laws of Nature.

A Vin-

lai

po

an

A Vindication of a Compleat History of Magick, Sorcery, and Witchcraft, &c.

In Answer to

Dr. Hutchinson's HISTORICAL ESSAY.

PART I.

CHAP. I.

Containing Remarks on what he hath said in his Dedication.

and nem ear, prowen find s in

Sa-

tive hole

the

r of ned

aft, we and

Im-

lter

Ob-

vife

and rits,

rial

be orks of of

on-

in-

HE Author of this Historical Essay, in the beginning of his Dedication, tells us, that his Collections and Observations had lain by him several Years; and, it may be had still slept in Obscurity, if a new Book, which very likely might do some Mischief, had not lately come forth in Two Volumes, under the Pompous Title of a Compleat History of Magick, Sorcery and Witchcraft.

Iam

ill

m ye

be

do

th

he ar

PE

Ty

tv fo

th

ni

be

tic

ar

be ar

10

w

Sp

tie

m fre

gi

th

Pa

Oi Ju

I am obliged to the Learned Doctor for the Pompous Representation he makes of so compleat a History, and am glad he esteemed it so powerful, as to wake his Collections and Observations out of their secure Obscurity; yet from what I shall offer, I do believe they might have as well slept on, since that new Book was very unlikely to do Mischief, but might rather be hindred from doing Good, by the Opposition of his rouzed Observations, and which to me seem of a more mischievous Kind. To determine this, we are to consider further what the Doctor hath said against our History, or in Favour of his own Essay.

Page the Second, he fays, " I think it a Point " very certain, that tho' the fober Belief of good "and had Spirits is an Essential Part of every good " Christian's Faith, yet Imaginary Communications " with them, have been the Spring both of the "worst Corruptions of Religion, and the greatest Perversions of Justice." This is a very severe Reflection, especially since he says it is our History is likely to do some (which we take to be this ) Mis-In Vindication therefore of what I have wrote against this Charge, I shall ask the Learned Doctor, whether, if a good Christian is to believe the Existence of good and bad Spuits, he is not also to believe, that good Spirits may do Good, and bad Spirits do Mischief; and whether, if they can produce good or evil Effects, they can do and execute their ill Deligns, without a Communication with those Bodies they act upon? Now, since they cannot be good or bad without good or bad Actions, their Actions denominating them one or the other, they consequently must have a Communication; but these are not imaginary Communications, but real ones; and these real evil Communications may produce evil Effects; yet the Belief of their Existence and Communication cannot produce ill Effects, though their acting by Communication may; Instances of which our History consists of; yet we think such Instances unlikely to do Mischief, being, as our Author owns, the Belief of every good they cannot be diff

Christian.

17-

i-

O

lo

at ut

10 0

r-

or

is nt

d

d

13 ft

e-

is [-

re

d

-

le

of 0

e

T

15

F

e

Now if the Communications of evil Spirits may do Evil, they may corrupt Religion, by perverting the Actions of the Flock, or influencing the Shepherd, which is a certain way to corrupt Religion, and hath too often taken Place; but they cannot pervert Justice, without making an ill Judge or Jury; for Justice may take Place upon a Criminal, not-withstanding an evil Communication with the Perfon, which is an Evidence of the Person's Guilt; so that a Criminal may be influenced with an ill Spirit, and Justice only taking Place, cannot be said to be perverted; nor is Religion concerned, where Ju-flice is only put in Execution.

But our Author fays, Imaginary Communications corrupt Religion and pervert Justice; to which I answer. That fince what is only in Imaginaion cannot be real Actions, they cannot produce real Effects, and consequently cannot affect either Religion or Inflice, having no Effect at all. Besides, supposing we should believe Things to be true, which are not, this confisting with sober Belief of good and bad Spirits, must come under the essential Part of a good Christian, and confequently cannot corrupt. Religion, tending to the same Effect with Realities, in respect of sober Belief, though the Judgment may be deceived, in distinguishing Realities from imaginary Communications; fo that imaginary Communications having the same Effect upon the Mind, do not alter the Disposition of the Mind, but act upon it as Realities, having an equal and parallel Influence; nor can imaginary Communication ons pervert Austice, fince they are too weak to byais Judgment, which every Judge, I hope, may be en-tu

m

fe

OI

aı

CC

CC

e: et

23

1

n

10 ta

PI

do

ca

fi

as

w

Tf

N

fi

ta

eı

m

VE

ft

C

as

ca

dowed with: But if through the Weakness of Judgment, they cannot distinguish betwixt Realities and Imaginations, they must either be unsit for the Judgment Seat; or imaginary Communications must be so like Realities, that they cannot be distinguished, and then the Judge is still supposed in the Right, because the Case carries moral Possibility along with it, which is sufficient to gain Assent, and justify that Judgment, which appearing to be morally Good, cannot be erroneous, or said to be perverted.

He further fays, "How many miserable Creatures have been hanged or burnt, as Witches and Wizards in other Countries, and former Ages? In our Nation, even since the Reformation, above a Hundred and Forty have been executed, very much upon the Account of one ill translated Text of Scripture." To which I answer, that if they were executed upon moral Proof, that amounts to Certainty, and consequently that Judgment must carry Truth along with it, and the Crminals must receive just Condemnation; which proves Witches and Wizards miserable Creatures, as the Author stiles them.

But if they were executed upon the Account of an ill translated Text of Scripture, their fatal Ends were owing to the Neglect and Carelefness of those who ought to take Care of the Translations, and not suffer the World to be missed and misinformed through their Mistakes; so that whatever Miscarriages happen upon that Account, are owing to fuch as fuffer such Translations to be printed and published; and Religion and Justice must be perverted by those Perfons, not by the Communications of Spirits, or the Belief of them; and then the Author brings his own Function in Guilty, and not the Righteous Judgment, nor the History of Historical Truths. But fince the Author does not make that Affertion, or produce that ill Translation, this Accusation must turn turn upon himself; which being wrongfully charged, must either tend to pervert Justice, or corrupt those settled Notions of Religion, which depend upon our Faith, grounded upon Texts of Scripture, as they are published to the World.

ig-

nd

lgbe

ed,

ht,

ith

nat

od,

ea-

nd

:5?

ve

ery

ext

ете

er-

TY

ve

nd

les

an

ere

ho

uf-

gh

Per

nd

-15

he

116

us

ut

10

ift.

He further fays, " If the same Notions were to a prevail again, no Man's Life would be safe in his " House; for the fantastick Doctrines, that support the vulgar Opinions of Witchcraft, rob us of all at the Defences that God and Nature have placed, for our Security against false Accusations." To which I answer, that the Notions of Witcheraft can hurt no Man's Life, without moral Proof; nor do they rob us of the Defences for our Security; for the fantastick Doctrines, as I said before, are too weak to prove real Communications; and imaginary ones can do no Harm, being insufficient to raise Belief; nor can false Accusations easily take away our Security. fince the Characters of good and bad Men, as well as their Actions, eafily distinguish them, and shew whether they are influenced by good or evil Angels. If they are good, their Light will so shine before Men, that they feeing their good Works, will not eafily suspect them to be guilty of bad ones; and will take off the Force of such falle Acculations; whereas evil Men, who do the Works of Darkness, must be milled by evil Angels, and their Works will discover what manner of Men they are. The Circumstances of Actions assist in the Judgment of moral Credit; and the Reputation of the Accused, as well as of the Accusers, goes a great way in laying the Foundations of firm Belief; fo that a Judge and Jury cannot easily be mistaken, when Circumstances are well weighed and confidered.

He further says, that "In Prosecutions for Witchcraft, if any wicked Person affirms, or any crack'd brained Girl imagines, or any lying Spirit makes her believe that she sees any old Woman, or other Person, pursuing her in her Visions, the Defenders of the vulgar Witchcraft, tack an imaginary, unproved Compact to the Deposition."
To which I answer, that the Reputation of Evidences may eafily be discovered by the Neighbourhood they live in; and it may easily be distinguished by a Judge, what Credit is to be given to their Testimony, and by Circumstances, how far the Persons accused, may deserve and merit the Accusation laid to their Charges. As for Brainfick Persons, those are commonly known by Men of Judgment in Phyfick, who ought to be confulted in such Cases; and they must be mad themselves, or senseless, that cannot diffinguish diffracted Persons from such as are possessed with Devils. But at the same Time the Doctor supposes the Girl Brainfick, he acknowledges a lying Spirit may make her believe what the affirms, which is an acknowledgment of Possessions, though he pretends to argue against them; so that he is obliged to allow, what he would argue impossible and imaginary, to support his Assertion; a strange way of arguing.

He fays, " Sickly Visions—are grounded upon the Dregs of Pagan and Popish Superstitions." But if they are fickly Visions, I suppose them to be grounded upon Distempered Brains, which are different from other kind of Visions; and which when real, cannot be faid to be grounded upon Pagan or Popish Superstitions, except he will affirm that the Bible is Paganism or Popish; since both the Old and the New Testament witness what Matters of Importance have often been discovered by Visions in Dreams, as in Ezek. 13. 16. The Prophets of Ifrael, which prophely concerning Jerusalem, and which see Visions of Peace. Likewise Hosea 12. 10. we find the following Expressions, I have also spoken by the Prophets, and I have multiplied Visions, and used Similitudes by the Ministry of the Prophets. Again,

. . . . .

6

....

1

I

foel

he

12-

n.

vi-

bod

red

Te-

ons

aid

ole

hy-

ind

an-

are

0-es a

ms,

ugh

e is ible

nge pon

ils.

be

iffe-

hen

1 OI

the

and

por-

in

rael

fee

find

y the

1 Si-

Joel Joel

Joel 2. 28. I will poor out my Spirit upon all Flesh, and your Sons and your Daughters shall Brophess; your old Men shall dream Dreams, and your young Men shall see Visions. And 2 Cor. 12. 1. I will come to Visions and Revelations. Where we find that Visions have been frequent both in the Old and New Testament, which were neither the Effects of sickly and distracted Brains, nor are grounded upon Paganism, nor Popula Superstitions; Suggestions below the Dignity of one, who must be well acquainted with the Holy Scriptures.

He further adds, that "As the very Nature of the Subject carries both Horror and Difficulty, posulte Men, and great Lovers of Ease, will turn away their Thoughts from it with Disdain." Here the Doctor hath different Thoughts from any I ever retained; for I always thought that Men of polite Learning were seldom Lovers of Ease, or frighted with the Horror of a difficult Subject, but commonly employ the greatest Industry on such Occasions. The next Page, speaking of the Prosecution of Witches, he fays, "That though the common Pro-" fecution of Witches was a fad Impiety, the greatest " Part of the Clergy winked at it, and let it pass:" And foon after he adds . " Though Reverence to " our Acts of Parliament, and the Influence of an " ill translated Text, and fear of loose People carrying the Notion too far the other way, may " have made some pious Men too fearful in oppofing the vulgar Opinions, yet in the main, I be-" lieve our Church of England, and its Clergy, have as little to answer for as any." How our learned Author can call the Profecution of Witches a fad Impiety, I do not well understand; except the Works of that Diabolical Spirit, by whose Power they ac, include Piety; then indeed it is impious to discourage vitious and evil Practices, and those Actions which D. min which we commonly call Good, must be impious. It will be necessary then to change the common Signification of those Two Words, Pious and Impious, and what we call Evil must be called Good, and Good Evil; and then it will be a Sin to do what is Good, and meritorious to commit Wickedness: But otherwise, if it be impious to punish ill Practices, it must be Piety to Sin, and by this Rule we must worship Satan, and despise our Maker. But I find the greatest Part of the Clergy were of a different Mind, and rather chose to encourage the Punishment of those evil Practices, and Works of abominable Transgressors.

And I am glad, that a due Reverence and Regard to an Act of Parliament, and the dangerous Consequence of carrying the Notion too far the other way, yet influences some pious Men from encouraging such Mistakes, as this contrary Opinion, which the Doctor espouses, might bring us into; for if such wicked Practices were once connived at, the Consequences would be much more fatal, than the Punish-

1

2

t

2

ment of Witcheraft can prove impious.

To determine then, whether the Punishment of Witchcraft, or the Connivance at it, would be of the worst Consequence, we shall consider briefly the Inconveniences on both sides.

And first, if that detestable Practice be punish'd, it must, as in all other criminal Cases, deter all E-vil-doers from pursuing the like: Nor can it be any Crime to inslict such Punishments, where there is Legal and Moral Proof; and the Laws will restrain them from what their obdurated Consciences cannot be a sufficient Guard.

Whereas, on the contrary, if the World was let loose to perpetrate and commit all manner of Evil, as the Devil and their own Inclinations would suggest, it would soon be over run with the worst of vicious Practices, and Witchcraft would soon be as nife.

rife as ever. I have heard it reported, that it was and perhaps is, a Scheme of the Romans, to debauch this Nation in their Principles, that they may be ready to receive any new Impressions, and change their Religion upon any offer'd Occasion; whereas, if their Consciences are tender, and their Principles unshaken, they will be apt to adhere to their first receiv'd Maxims and Tenets. This Project hath already too much taken place; and I wish the Church of England, and its Clergy, may have little to answer for in this Respect.

Now if the Sins of Witchcraft, and other such like Crimes, are discouraged, and their Practices exposed and laid open, the Terror of such Crimes will make the Vulgar sear the Devil and his Works, and with more Earnestness implore the Divine Assistance to withstand them; so that we think our History may be less mischievous than our Author's Historia.

cal Effay.

us.

on pi-

od,

nat

Is:

ra-

ule

at a

he

of

DI

n-ler

ch

if

n-

h-

of

he

1-

d,

E-

1Y

is.

ot

et

i

g-1-

a c

Before we leave our Author's Dedication, we shall further observe, that he takes notice of a Canon, which " subjects to the Penalties of Imposture, any " Clergyman who should undertake to use Prayers " for Casting out of Devils." But we find in Scripture, that our Saviour neither discouraged his Disciples, nor any body else, from such Practices, if they did it in his Name. He cast out Devils himself, and fuffer'd others to do the like; being accounted an Impostor himself, yet branding not others with that ignominious Title: Inflances of which, we shall be fufficiently furnish'd with in Scripture. Matth. 12. 22. There was brought unto him one possessed with a Devil, blind and dumb, and be healed bins; infomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and faw. -- 24. But when the Pharifees beard it, they fail; This fellow doth not cast out Devils, but by Beelzebub. Prince of the Devils. To which he answers. 1. 27. If I by Beekselyeb east out Devils, by whom do 30143

When John told our Saviour, Master, we saw one casting out Devils in thy name; and we forbad him; because he followeth not us; Jesus, v. 39. said, Forbid him not: And further declares, v. 40. For he that is not against us, is on our Part; giving his Reasons why they should not be hinder'd from doing good.

There is one Thing more in his Dedication, which we shall take notice of, which is in Favour of his Essay, as he supposes, but I think very little to the Purpose: He says, that "any that shall be disposed to find Faults, may see, that the Notions in my "Book are neither new, nor contrary to the Do-

" crines of our Church, but well agreeing with the Opinions of the greatest Men that have been of

"it. I will quote at large some Passages out of his " Declaration of Popilo Impostures. In the state of How far his Notions are agreeable with Reason or Religion, may in a great measure appear from what we have already said, and will further appear from what follows in the ensuing Papers: And that it may appear, what little Service his Quotations will do him, we will, to conclude this Chapter, in the next place take notice of some of those Passages, and examine how agreeable they are with Reason or Scripture, which is the Foundation of our Church's Belief.

The first is as follows: "It is a Question mov'd by "Scaliger, Why Men of a melancholy Constitu"tion be more subject to Fancies, Fears and Ima"ginations of Devils and Witches, than other
"Tempers be? His Answer is, Because from their "black and sooty Blood, gloomy fuliginous Spirits
"fume into their Brain, which bring black, gloomy, "and frightful Images, Representations and Simili"tudes in them." That the Disorders of the Blood will affect the Spirits, and produce melancholy Symptoms in the Spirits, no body can deny; it being well

well known both to Physicians and others: But these Disorders are much different from those that are occasioned by the Insluence of evil Spirits; which will appear both from the Relations contained in our History of Witchcraft, and the Testimony of Scripture, which we shall presently recite.

We shall take notice of one Passage more, which is, "That Devils may transform themselves into any " Shape, either of Beast, or Men, &c.

These Passages, which the Author esteems so much to his Advantage, are only ridiculous Relations, in some measure banter'd and ridicul'd, without any Reasons offer'd to the contrary; so that the Doctor hath only endeavour'd to lessen the Value, and question the Truth of real Matters of Fact, and would represent innocent and well attested Relations odious, by slighting Impositions or Stories, not worthy to be taken notice of.

Yet to prove that evil Spirits may torture Bodies, and by acting in different manners, may even alter the Temper and Dispositions of them; we shall produce the Testimony of Scripture, to confirm what we have related in our History.

382

one

121

OFH

hat

ich

his

the fed

my

the

of 03

OT

hat

vill

the

es,

101

his

by una-

eir

its

ny,

ili-

lod

m-

ng ell

That Spirits may alter, and after different manners torture human Bodies, and even Beafts, is evident from the Testimony of Scripture: Mark 9. 17. One of the multitude answered and faid, Master, I have brought unto thee my Son, who hath a dumb Spirit: And wherefoever he taketh him, he teareth him; and he foameth, and gnashath with his teeth, and pineth away; and I spake to thy Disciples, that they should cast him out, and they could not: But, v. 20. they brought him unto him; and when he faw him, fraightway the Spirit tarehim, and he fell on the ground, and wallowed, foaming. And he asked his Father, how long is it ago fince this came unto him? And be faid, Of a Ghild. And oftentimes it bath caft him into the fire, and into the water, to destroy him: But, v. 25. Tefus Jesus rebuked the foul Spirit, and said unto him, Thou deaf and dumb Spirit, I charge thee come out of him, and enter no more into him. And the Spirit cried, and rent him sore, and came out of him, and he was as one dead; insomuch that many said, he is dead. But Jesus lifted him up, and he arose. And a Verse or two after, he declares to his Disciples, that this Sort was cast out only by Prayer and Fast-

0

n

d

it

0

c

2 fa

tl

to

ing.

To this we may add the Seven Devils, which he cast out of Mary Magdalen, and especially that most remarkable Story, Mark 5. v. 2, 69c. And when be was come out of the Ship, immediately there met bins out of the Tombs, a man with an unclean Spirit; who had his dwelling amongst the Tombs, and no man could bind him, no not with chains: Because that be had been often bound with fetters and chains, and the chains had been plucked afunder by him, and the fetters broken in pieces; neither could any man tame him. And always night and day he was in the Mountains, and in the Tombs, crying and cutting himself with stones. But when he saw Jesus afar off, he ran and worshipped him; and cried with a loud voice, and faid, What have I to do with thee, Jefus, thou Son of the most High God? I adjure thee by God, that they torment me not. For he faid unto him Come out of the man, thou unclean Spirit. And be asked bim, What is thy name ? And be answered, saying, My name is Legion, for we are many: And be befought him much, that he would not fend him away out of that Country. Now there was nigh unto the Mountains, a great berd of Swine feeding; and all the Devils befought him, saying, Send us into the Swine, that we may enter into them. And forthwith Jesus gave them leave; and the unclean Spirit went aut, and enter'd into the Swine; and the berd ran violently down a steep place into the Sea; (they WET.B were about Two Thousand) and were choaked in the Sea.

From all which Relations it appears, that evil Spirits may not only torment and rack, and pine away human Bodies, but also possess even the Bodies of Brutes, and consequently appear in the Shape of different Creatures.

Now, however the Doctor may slight and contemn, or ridicule common Relations, or such as are proved by Moral Possibility, yet I hope Divine Testimony may be trusted to; or we must destroy all the Foundations of Religion and Ecclesiastical Government, and reduce the World to its original Blindness, and its pristine State of Ignorance.

Having thus far taken notice of what the Learned Doctor hath said in his Dedication; it may, from what we have offer'd, sufficiently appear, whether our History, or his Essay, is likely to do most Mischief; what we have related being of a like kind, and tending to a Consirmation of the same Belief with these Divine Histories; whereas, what he hath said, seems to have a contrary Tendency, lessening the Credit of such Things, the Belief of which helps to strengthen our Faith.

We shall, in the next place, proceed to examine his Book, and see what he hath offer'd in Favour of his invaluable Notions; looking upon this specious Frontispice, as a Specimen of a great deal of Satisfication.

Advacate from Home, and obligid to the civil ; to that their libra given up the Cart without mit h more failsfadory Anfwars; but fince flyts not there, Lisape the Doctor will not take it simile, and let be a faction within.

nd is

nd

es,

R-

he

oft

be

271

t;

an at

nd

be

ne

n-

lf

12

63

ne

d, he ye we le

it

7

.

Difficulty a line of the state, it figured the chief of the P.

was obout I've Thereford) and were clouded in kn in

Ti

th lik to cai

foi

an

fli

cen

be

the

re

pn

R

ou

Se

de

the 100

Shi

the

an fit

Sp

th

23

From all which It el Que Au A. P. is I Link evil

Containing some Remarks on the First Chapter of his Historical Essay.

Being some Years out of England, since I wrote Two Volumes, entituled, A Compleat History of Magick, Sorcery, and Witchcraft; I had not, till of late, the Opportunity of seeing a Book, wrote since that Time, call'd, An Historical Essay of Witchcraft, which seems to be chiefly levelled at that History. How far the Learned Author hath gain'd the Advantage, may, in a great measure, appear from what hath been said in the sirst Chapter, with respect to his Dedication; I shall next proceed to consider what appears in the Body of his Essay.

Upon viewing the first Chapter of this Essay, I perceive the Author hath laid his Scheme with a great deal of Art and Skill; being publish'd by way of Dialogue, betwixt Two of his Friends and him felf; they have treated him with a great deal of Respect, and he hath return'd it with a great deal of Civility; they neither puzzling him with too strong Arguments, nor he confounding of them with too much Reason, noon unislock stoom abduring and Conference, fince too much modest Civility on both Sides, seems to have handled the Cause with too much Indisferency. The Juryman was unskilled, the Advocate from Home, and oblig'd to be civil; so that they have given up the Cause without much Dissiculty. Had I been there, I should have desired a little more Liberty, which might have occasion'd more satisfactory Answers; but since I was not there, I hope the Doctor will not take it amis, if I let him know know what I have to fay on that Subject, and where in I think what he hath faid insufficient. As for his Two Friends, I shall not fay much to them; for since they have given up the Argument so easily, they are likely to do me little Service, and therefore I make bold to speak for my felf.

Spi

aib

20 te

of of

re)

y.:

at 0

at

L

25

y,

2

of

ıg

00

h

00

o

h

d

e, m W

After some Compliments, which we have no Occasion for here, the Dostor advises, " If the Case " be not very plain, fave Life." In this he is right; for except there be moral Proof, it would be injuffice and Murther to take any body's Life away. But I should have thought, that as a Divine is not concern'd in Common Law, he should have faid, If they be guilty, fave Life, that they may repent and live; God not willing the Death of a Sinner, but rather that he should repent and live: But if they will not repent, they are not fit to live; Life being, by God's Prescription, only granted, that Repentance might precede, and make em fit for it : Therefore, without Repentance, they are not fit to live, and consequently ought to dye, according to Law. Deut. 3c. v. 15, &c. See, this day I have fet before thee life and good, and death and evil: But if thing heart turn away, so that thou wilt not hear, but shalt be drawn away, and worship other gods, and serve them; I denounce unto you this day, that ye shall furely perish, and that you shall not prolong your days upon the Land.

We are of the same Opinion with the Doctor, the Innocent ought not to be punish'd, but the Guilty; and therefore we did not undertake to censure Impositions, but to relate True Histories; the Authors of which ought to to be punish'd, as dealing with evil Spirits, and inhumanly with their Fellow-Creatures.

The next Thing we shall take notice of, is, Pag. 3. where the Doctor hath chose a Child with Fits to be the Subject debated on; and says, "That the afflict" ed Person falls into Fits, as soon as the Weman is brought into the Room where she is." To solve this, this, he asks fome Questions, which neither he nor any body else answers; and upon that makes some Suppositions, upon which he grounds this Conclusion: " That if some foolish young Women, by lying Stories, or otherwise, are made as fearful of et this poor Creature, (i. e. a Witch,) as this Girl was (supposed to be) of a Spirit; is it any wonder she falls into Fits when she sees her?" To which I answer, that the Doctor loves suppositious Arguments better than imaginary Communications, which I take to be synonymous Terms in this Case: But supposing the Case to be real, the Fright must be with some Surprize and Suddenness, to occasion great Disorders, especially such as are occasioned by the Influence of evil Spirits: Nor hath the Doctor affign'd what Fits these are, and therefore suppositious both in respect of the Proposer and the Answerer: But taking them as proposed, the Symptoms differ much from such as evil Spirits occasion; the former being Physical, having known Symptoms; the latter contrary to what naturally attend Distempers.

But he fays, (for I take the Advocate, the Juryman, and the Clergyman, to be the same Person; tho' Clergymen are seldom upon a Jury, or plead at the Bar;) "Many afflicted Persons sall into Fits," when the supposed Witch hath been brought in, so as the Party hath not seen her." After some curious Suppositions, and a Question not belonging to the Subject, (as being foreign) he says, "Some Scent," or secret Communication of Spirits, are the common Ground of all such Antipathies." If Scents at such a Distance could have any great Effects, they must be so strong as to be perceived by the Standers-by, tho' they could not produce such Effect upon them: If the Insluence of Spirits, the Spirits must be evil, that cause such pernicious Symptoms; which is what we contend for.

C

*

1

0

B

F

f

S

b

T

f

C

d

S

f

C

<

10

t

1

t

66

8

*

.

66

He further fays; " Pliny, and many others also " suppose, these ill Scents may be to the Degree of "Venom and Infection: And we need not won-" der at it; for every malignant Fever makes any " of us venomous, for the Time it lasts." To which I answer; That when Scents amount to the Degree of Venom and Infection, that Infection extends to more than one fingle Person: And when malignant Fevers are venomous, the venomous Person whe infects the rest, is always troubled with the like Symptoms before. Therefore these Arguments are but weak and trivial, and infufficient to defroy the received Opinion of Witches; which act after different manners, according to the Natures of those evil Spirits; as our Saviour faid, Thefe Sort are only cast out by Fasting and Prayer: Whereas Fits which depend only upon Physical Causes, have much like Symptoms in all; those being their proper Diagnoflicks, or Marks, by which they are distinguished.

Pag. 5. He says, "The bare Fits make the least "Part of the Wonder; they tell of strange Actions." If any other or particular Symptoms attended the supposed Fits, (which he neither describes as a Physician, nor answers as a Philosopher) they ought to be made known, that the Reader might judge of the Nature of the Case; but the Doctor, instead of enquiring into that, and stating the Case, fairly proceeds;

nor

ısi-

ly-

of

irl

n-

To

ous

ns,

e:

be

eat

n-

p'd

in 12-ch

ng

ul-

y-

1;

at

ts,

fo

u-

to

it,

-

ts

8, 16

a

ts

1;

le

"And yet they may be natural Fits and Vapours for all that." And they may be Dæmoniacal Fits, for ought any body can tell; yet they seem to be imaginary Communications, being not describ'd.

But to proceed: He fays, "When some Sort of Fits (which are undoubtedly natural) continue, they alter the Habit of the Body; whence many times there grows a lurking, intermitting Fever and Delirium, or particular Madness; and then their Fancies and strange Symptoms are more surprizing.

rizing. There are marvellous Effects, both in their Minds, Eyes, Ears, Voices, and the whole Body.

That some Sort of Fits will, the natural, by their Continuance, alter the Habit of the Body, is certain; and so will any: But I would fain know, of what Sort of Fits we are talking? If natural, they belong to Physical Discourses; if from Witchcraft they take their Rise, or evil Spirits, they are such as I mention in my History of Witchcraft, of which there are several Kinds: But if we speak of natural Fits, we ought to distinguish what Kind of Fits we speak of, from whence the above-mention'd Symptoms may flow; they being not well known amongst Physicians, nor published in any of their Writings.

He fays, "Their Minds will fometimes be fo "clouded, and oppressed, and dull, that they think "themselves dead." This indeed is a new Observation, and the World is mightily obliged to the Doctor for communicating it. I have known Hysterick and Hypochondriack Persons fancy themselves a dying, or in Danger; but when once they fancy themselves dead, they must fancy themselves past Thinking, or speaking their Thoughts.

The rest of the Fifth and Sixth Pages is fill'd with Hypochondriack Discourse about the Symptoms of that Distemper; but there is a great deal of Disterence betwixt the Symptoms of Hysterick and Hypochondriack Persons, and those which attend the supernatural Essets of evil Spirits and Witchcraft; the first denominating that Physical Case, the latter the Results of supernatural Powers.

P. 7. He says, "Convulsive Motions turn their Heads, as if their Necks were broken; draw their Mouths on one side, wring their Arms out of Joint, turn their Eyes inward, and make them lamentable Spectacles." These are Observations so uncom-

1

.]

VI

.1

-(

.1

-1

(

0

6

(

4

F

1

I

1

t

T

S

r

a

1

CC

in ole

by

245

OW,

ral,

of of

of

b'nd

nwo

heir

ink

fer-

the

fte-

es a

ncy

past

vith

s of

iffe-

Hy-

the

ift;

tter

heir

heir

t of

nem

is fo

uncommon, that they are impossible: For, first, if their Heads were turn'd as they are when their Necks are said to be broke, the same Consequences would follow, and Death must ensue; the Circulation of the Spirits, as well as Respiration, being hinder'd by such Dislocations. When the Mouth is drawn aside by Convulsions, it commonly continues so, the opposite Muscles being relaxed, and is called a Spasmus Cynicus: Nor can Dislocations be occasioned by the most forcible Contraction of any Muscles.

He further fays, "If Blood be extravalated flow-" ly, the Heat of the Stomach in a little Time may " form it into odd Figures, that when they are vo-" mited may feem very furprizing. Or if it hath " received any Seed, or Spawn, the Heat and Nou-" rishment may produce the Animal." All these Things are strange, and appear much more like Impositions, than the most unlikely Relation in our History of Witchcraft; and they that believe them, must have some of the Doctor's melancholy Symptoms above-mention'd, or be bewitch'd. I will not fay, but Blood will be clotted by the Heat of the Stomach, and those Clots will be of an uncertain Figure; and vomiting of Blood is furprizing at any rate; but how Animals should be hatch'd in the Stomach, is most incredible, since the Heat and Ferment of the Stomach would dissolve them in pieces, if they were hatched. How strangely it would grieve a Man, to have his Stomach peck'd in pieces by a Chick, upon fwallowing a new-laid Egg; or to have his Body open'd after Death, to fearch for an Oyster-Bank!

He proceeds: "Pins and Needles, that have been "fwallowed long before, will work their way to the "outward Parts of the Body, and be taken out of the Person's Sides, or Thighs." Such like Stories have indeed been told by ancient Physicians, who

C

0

t

a

h

g

A

P

to

ti

cc

66

22

66

cc

cc

66

66

hi

ca

W fic

th

m

de

ab

or

pt

fre

in

112

ti

were credulous, and related what they only received by Hearfay. If such Stories were true, the Stomach and Guts, as well as other Parts, must be wounded, and occasion violent Symptoms and Death, before such Penetration could be made: And it is equally as likely, that a Man should vomit up his Toes, as that Pins should pass from the Stomach to the Thighs. If the Doctor can believe such Relations, which the Nature of Bodies, and the Anatomy of the Parts disproves, I wonder he has as much Aversion to the Belief of Witches as some have to their Actions, which may be confirmed by Moral Proof and Reason.

Yet to improve the Hypochondriack Stories before noted, he adds, Page 8. " We have a great ma-" ny other Matters to confider of. One is, the great Addition that will be made to the strangeness of te fuch Cases, if the Persons themselves give their Minds to those Things, that will increase the Wonder, ----too many go a great way further, even to a wicked Management of their own Die stempers, and counterfeiting Symptoms that their " Diseases did not occasion." There are indeed too many, that upon flight Occasions dissemble themfelves worse than they are; but those who have fuch Symptoms as the Doctor mentions, must be so bad, that they need not, if able, defire to make themselves seem worse, it being neither Pleasure not Advantage; besides, in Hypochondriack Diseases, their Thoughts are so much depraved, and their Minds fo much disordered, that they are very unfit for counterfeiting and making themselves ill; it would be much more Satisfaction and Pleasure, if the could counterfeit and dissemble themselves well; disordered Brain is very unfit and incapable of Policy, and they can scarce deceive others, who cannot undeceive themselves. A Man in his right Senses, and who hath his Reason and Wit at Will cannot

ch

d, ore

lly

es

he

ns,

of

er-

eir

00f

be-

na-

eat

s of

neir

the

her,

Di-

heir

too

em-

ave

e fo

ake

not les,

heir

ould they

1;1

e of who

right

Nill.

nnot

cannot act the Part of a Hypochondriack Person so naturally, but that he may be distinguished from one in a real Distemper; much less can we suppose, that he who hath his Mind so much discomposed and disordered, should act the Part of him that hath an Evil Spirit or a Devil in him, there being a great deal of Disserence betwixt preternatural and supernatural Actions and Symptoms. So that all the Art the Doctor can use, will not make the Symptoms that perplex Hypochondriacal Persons, amount to the Degree in which People possessed or bewitched are tortured and tormented. There is a vast difference to distinguish them.

He adds, "Though a Distemper at first be surpri-" zing, and puts the afflicted Persons beyond their "Thoughts of Tricking, yet a little Time makes " them familiar with their Calamity; and when " they find themselves come safe out of strange Fits, " and begin to have the Use of their Thoughts " while they are in them, and hear what Judg-" ments are made of their Case, they manage their " Calamity to serve their own Interest." It is very unlikely, that when a Man hath been long out of his Senses, and almost at Death's Door, he should be capable of thinking cunningly at once, at a Time when he is capable of thinking nothing at all; befides in these violent Fits, having, for the Time, lost their Senses, how should they remember after what manner they were afflicted? And if the Fit hath deprived them of Memory, how should they be able to act the same over again, as in an Epilepsy, or Falling-Sickness, can any body well aft the Symptoms of it? Can they make themselves insensible of Pain, when prick'd or cut? Can they counterfeit froathing, tough, viscid Phlegm, when there is none in their Stomach? Or can they fain those preternatural Sweats, or violent Transpiration, which continue frequently in the Fit. In the Time of the Fit. violent Convulsions resemble extraordinary Strength, the Muscles then forcibly contracting; but when a Man is well, how can be counterfeit that extraordinary Strength? He then can use no more than what naturally belongs to him.

But the Doctor fays, Page 9. he will bring Inflances to favour his Thoughts; fuch, fays he, " As I " have either read in fober Authors, or heard " from very good Hands." If Reading is sufficient Proof to gain Assent, why does he not believe what is writ in our History of Witchcraft, which was collected from very fober Authors, one no less than a King, a wife Man, and a great Scholar, which every body allowed King James the First to be. If only by Hearsay, though from good Hands, why might not they be imposed upon first, and consequently himself? But I perceive the Doctor believes what may ferve his Opinion very eafily, and will take a Friend's Word for it; but hath no Faith upon moral Proof, the Testimony of Scripture, nor the troublesome Impertinence of Reason.

But let us view his Instances; "It is common then with such, that by long holding their Breath, they can throw themselves into Fits when they will." But this, I hope, the Doctor does not call dissembling; for when they are in real Fits, it is past Hypocrify, or Counterseiting. But the Possibility of this is not consistent with the Symptoms, for there must be that viscid Phlegm which twinges the Nerves in the Stomach, to cause its convulsive Motion, and to supply that frothy Stuff discharged at the Mouth, and the Blood must have its particular Indispositions to occasion those convulsive Motions of Muscles, and violent Cramps.

His next Instance is, "By often moving and firetching the Skin of their Heads; if the Hair be fhort, they can make it stand upright, like an angry Dog; and then they will bark and snarl,

and 66

CC .

.

66

the

lor

the

En

up

the

tha

mi

of

im

bo

be

Sto

Tr

the

ten wh

cai

wit

Wi

fm

fto

any

the

are lon

to tho

wi

cles

the

COL

the P

" and run upon all Four, as if they were changed " into Mastives, -they can suck up their " Breath, and draw in their Guts, till the By-standers can feel the Back-bone." If they can make the Hair stand up like an angry Dog, it must be as long as the angry Dog's, or it cannot be like it, and then Mens Hair is too weak commonly to stand an End, except new Shaved; and though they may run upon all Four, except they had Legs like Mastives, they would look more like Monsters. As for him that could fuck up his Guts, fo that the By-standers might feel his Back-bone; this I take to be a piece of Banter, and cannot think the Doctor would be fo imposed upon; yet a Man may feel his own Backbone fo, or if he breaks Wind, and puts his Hand behind him.

Page 10, 11, and 12, are filled with ridiculous Stories of the Art of feigning Voices, and Jugglers Tricks, which ought rather to have been printed by themselves, for the use of Jugglers, and such as intend to study that Art, but otherwise it is not worth while to take Notice of them. Every body almost can tell the pretty Things those Artists amuse them with; but may be unacquainted with the Practice of Witchcraft. And though the Doctor may bring thele fmall Arts in Question, to lessen the Credit of Hiflorical Truths, he will come short of that with any judicious Persons, who can easily see through the Fallacy of his Defign; for though these Things are Fallacious, and Imposition, yet it does not follow that those Relations are false, which are evident to Reason, morally Possible, and attested by the Authority of Scripture. These trifling Stories, surely, will not confound the Belief of our Saviour's Miracles, who not only cast out Devils, but hath told us the manner of their Actions, and given us an Account of their Synptoms, which we have recited in the first Chapter, and shall elsewhere in proper Paces.

9

b

C

b

t

0

7

1

But if the Doctor had thought fit to lessen the Validity of that Doctrine, so agreeable and consentaneous with Histories in Sacred Writings, it had been much more honourable and consistent with his Function and Character, to have opposed them with Dint of Argument, and given a Rational Demonstration of the Impossibility of Possessions, than to endeavour to gain a Cause, by slight Evasions, and artificial Infinuations.

Page the 13th, after a florid Acknowledgment to disguise and cover the Intention of the rest of his Writing; he fays, " The Holy Scriptures, that are our only fure Rule, though they give us many Inflances of the Employment both of the good and evil Spirits, they teach us none fuch as we commonly meet with in the modern Relations of Witchcraft." Here the Doctor thinks it necessary to recant all his former Notions, with an artificial Evasion. He cannot deny the various Kinds of the Ministration of bad Spirits, only the Instances of their evil Practice in modern Writings, are not fuch as are mentioned in Scripture. To which we answer, that all the Relations of Possessions in Scripture are not alike, one differing much from the other in their Kind and Symptoms, according to the different Nature and Ministration of those evil Spirits; and if the Ministration of Spirits and Natures differ and produce different Effects, there is very good Reason why modern Relations vary from those, as well as from one another; the Devil and his Angels acting after various Manners, to disguise their evil Practifes, that they may pass undiscovered to the World; as 2 Cor. xi. 14. For such are false Apostles, deceitful Workers, transforming themselves into the Apofiles of Christ; and no marvel, for Satan himself is often transform'd into an Angel of Light: And, Matth. vii. 15. Beware of false Prophets, which come to you in Sheeps Cloathing, but inwardly they are ravening ravening Wolves. So that we see the Devil often works under the Cloak of Sanctity, that he may be better able to war against Sacred Things; and if he can at this rate transform himself, why may he not into any other Form? Carnal Things, which belong to this World, being more under his Power, than those of a Diviner Nature; and consequently, it will be easier for him to appear in the Form of a Brute, or a Fowl, or a Man, than that of an Angel; for which reason he is described like a Beast, with Tail, Horns, and a cloven Foot; and as he was able to possess human Bodies as well as Brutes, whilst our Saviour was upon Earth, why may he not communicate with Persons of a beaftly Nature, who refuse the affistance of good Angels, and only make room for evil Spirits?

n-

it

th

m

e-9

in

IS,

to

is

re

y

d

re

e

0

-

-

r

S

r,

n

Page 13, and 14, he adds, " Some take Pains to " join the Scripture Relations and these as close as " they can together, --- they are very different "Things, and upon the Credit of very different " Witnesses, --- the Scripture Relations are wit-" nessed by Prophets and Apostles, that are venerable " for Divine Virtue and Goodness." As for joining of them together, the Doctor need not complain of that, fince he does more in his Discourse, interlarding one with the other, so that it is difficult to find Coherency in the handling of the Subject, or to give direct Answers, without picking up Scraps at a Time, as People fort Goods in a Warehouse, confusedly jumbled together; but that's the knack of Dialogue, for when Three People are talking, it will be hard for a Fourth to put in a Word; for that Reason I have forted the Expressions in this Page. But to the purpose: I think these not such different Things as the Doctor represents them; for though some are delivered in the Bible, and some out; if those out of it, and in another History, be well attested, and appear to be Possessions, they are of the same Kind; and since those in the Bible are confirmed true Possessions, by the Testimony of such undoubted Evidence, it adds to the Credit of Relations of the same kind out of the Bible; and proving the Possibility, adds to the Credit of those Witnesses, which might otherwise be suspected, and their Jugdment questioned; which nevertheless amounts to moral Proof and Certainty: So that all the Difference betwixt these Relations is, that some are witnessed by the Prophets and Aposses, happening in their Time, and register'd amongst Sacred Histories; others happening after their Time, are witnessed by good People of those Times, and good Men, though not chosen Aposses.

But he fays, " The Scripture Facts foberly inter-" preted, agree with the Notions we have of God and Providence, and the Laws of Nature; where-" as these confound the Laws of Nature, and ed destroy the Testimony of our Senses, in some " Cases." To which I answer, that in this Point too, the Doctor must be mistaken; for though they agree with the Notions we have of a God and Providence, fince they shew the Power of supernatural Agents, yet they agree not with the Laws of Nature, all the Symptoms of Possessions being preternatural, and out of the common Course of Nature, occasion'd by the Interposition of a Spiritual and Supernatural Power, as the Devil and his Agents, which gives them the Name of Possessions, and distinguishes them from natural Diseases: And as for those mentioned in other Histories; they are equally consistent with the Notion of a God and Providence, fince they equally acknowledge a Divine Power, and proceed alike from the same supernatural Agents; and they equally difagree with the Laws of Nature, proceeding from the like fupernatural Causes; yet they destroy not the Testimony mony of our Senses, because our Senses testify and distinguish them from what is natural, and acknowledge a supernatural Power.

nd

ffi-

ce,

nd

lds

ht

ie-

of

ixt

he

e,

p-

0-en

rod eid ie it

-

Having thus far run through the First Chapter of his Historical Essay; from what we have said, it may appear, that the Arguments he hath offer'd against the Doctrine of Witchcraft are slight and trivial, consisting more of Fallacies, and slight Evasions and Insinuations, than real and substantial Reasons; and that he hath trump'd up some ridiculous Stories of cunning Artists and Jugglers, to lessen the Credit of authentick Truths; and that he might as well bring the same Arguments to diminish the Credit of Sacred Writ, if the Apostles did not stand in his way, the same Arguments being good against one, that stand good against the other.

CHAP. III.

Containing Remarks on the Contents of his Second and Third Chapter, which consists of a Chronological Table, and Observations upon what is contained in that Table,

As for his Chronological Table, we find, upon taking a View of it, that it consists of real Truths, though there are a mixture of Impositions amongst them. This the Doctor himself owns to be true, and condemns himself out of his own Mouth; his Words are as follows. "That since there have been for many Condemnations by lawful Judges and Macing gistrates, though they do seem to be mistaken in C4 many,

w

W

Tu

va

m

m

R

in

Tu

fo

CC

n

ft

al

fo

F

u

1

many, yet there must be many also, in which the " Facts were real." And this he fays, and acknowledges to appear from "The Time and Place, and cited Authors for the Execution of many Thou-" fands, besides general Testimonies of great Num-" bers more: He hath reckoned up about One Hundred Forty Six that have suffered in England since the Reformation, by Protestant Judges and Juries. " In New-England One and Twenty, so very lately " as the Year 1692; and fince these, Seven in Scot-" land, in the Year 1697. Now the Conclusion "I must make is, That they must be right in many "Cases, though I doubt they were often mistaken." The Author hath thus condemned, what he had fo long before been contending for, endeavouring to prove the Doctrine of Witchcraft false and erroneous. Now if any of these Cases be true, as they morally appear to be, though there may be Impositions, these impositious Relations ought not to lessen the Credit and Belief of real Truths, and authentick Histories; since, as we noted before, Counterfeits and Realities ought, and may eafily be distinguished. But though the Doctor hath thus, by his own

But though the Doctor hath thus, by his own Words, owned the Reality of Witcheraft, yet he would still endeavour to lessen the Credit of what he cannot contradict.

Page 65. "If they were mistaken in one half of these Tryals, it makes a very bad Case. And better that they had all been committed to the Righteous Judge, who does not neglest the other Causes, that are too hard for Man's Judgment. The Doctor is in the right to think the Case bad, where Mistakes are made. But to commit them to the Righteous Judge, seems to be a Reslection upon the Judges of this World, as if they were Unrighteous. But not to insist upon that, believing the Doctor to have a more favourable Opinion of them, I shall only observe, that if this Advice was put in Execution, what

W-

nd

ou-

m-

mice

es.

ly

t-

on

ny

23 d

to

s.

ly e

;

S

what must become of our Courts of Judicature? There would be no occasion for Judges or Council, and the Judgment-Seat, and Justice, might be laid aside, and vanish into the other World: For Mistakes in common Law and Equity, as well as in capital Cases, may be made for want of good Evidence, and a true Representation of Circumstances, which not appearing before a Judge in a true Light, may pervert right Judgment; but because Cases and Circumstances may fometimes be misrepresented, must all Judgment be condemned? And because Injustice may be done, must no Justice take Place? At this Rate, lest a Mistake should be made, no Mistakes must be corrected, and confequently all must be Injustice, for want of Judgment. But to speak of Capital Crimes only: It fometimes happens, that a Man suffers upon Moral Probability, and Lawful Evidence, when Circumstances may misrepresent the Case; but it does not follow that all Crimes must go unpunished; and because one dies innocently, that the wicked should go unpunished. If it were not for the Terror of the Laws, nothing but Wickedness would abound, and the Devil and his Angels would act in every Shape, Murther, Theft, and Witchcraft; nay, all manner of Vice would put the World into Confusion. if the Doctor can prevail with his Rhetorick, who can withstand him? Yet this great Clemency will scarce appear so consistent with Reason, as to take Place, no more than Men will leave off the Use of Swords or Pistols in their Defence, because sometimes they kill, and are made an ill Use of.

But the Doctor offers his Reasons for his Opinion, the first of which is, "That where the Times have not been so violent and superstitious, but that ingenious Men might venture to speak freely, and the Government hath put the Parties into their Hands, that they might make full Tryal; they have usually discovered Cheat and Imposture.

C 5 " Here

et 1

33

CC .

ou

Wi

Sk

tel

Eto

ve

Pe

cc

ec

66

.

66

(6

t

I

Here are a Matter of Fifteen famous Detections of Fraud, many after Judges and Juries, and a "Multitude of Eye-witnesses had been deceived, These give me a strong Suspicion, that if the rest had undergone as strict an Enquiry, most of them would have been discovered as well as these." I find I have a very strict Reasoner to deal with, and therefore it concerns me to make a strict Scrutiny to find them out; they feeming to lye in as much Obscurity, as before the Papers were published. How violent the Times are, I leave the World to judge: I can fee nothing of Violence; and as for Superstition, I think there is so little, that Religion, now a Days, is at so low an Ebb, that if there was less, there would be none at all; most Men neither fearing God nor the Devil, nor any of his Works, but perpetrate and commit all manner of Crimes, and if Judgment was left to the Righteous Judge, before that Time, like a Horse without a Bridle, they would go more Aftray.

As for the Government putting the Parties into the Hands of ingenious Men, I think they are so, when they are brought to Judgment, since Judges ought to be ingenious Men. But because some Impostors have been found out, the Doctor begins to suspect what the Page before he seemed not to question; he suspects that those that are real are false; at this Rate, indeed, we are got into Superstitious Times.

The next Reason the Doctor offers is so full of Weight, that it is sunk quite out of Sight. It is as follows: "Though the Relations are wrote by those "that believe the Facts, and told the Stories with as much Advantage as they could well; yet as I have in Part observed already, so I now add, that there are few of them without some great Absurdity or Folly, that looks like an Asses Ear out of a Lion's Skin. If any one shall think it worth his while, er while, I believe he may collect out of the Books a of Witchcraft, as many incredible Tales, very " near, as there are in the Golden Legend." Curious Observations, and strong Arguments against Witchcraft; Stories like Asses Ears out of a Lions Skin! and incredible Tales in the Golden. Legend! as for the first, I never faw the Sight, and cannot tell how it would look; this is a Secret of the Doctor's, and perhaps may be in the Obscurity his Pavers lay fo long in. As for the Golden Legend, I ne-per had it in my Study.

RIK

a

ed.

eft

em

1

nd

to

)b-

WO

: I

n, ys,

re

od

te

nt

ie,

re

to o,

es

n-

0

e-

us

£

LS

le

h

I

But to conclude his Reason, says he, " Now when " Papists had swelled their lying Miracles into such " a Multitude, our Reformers ventur'd to reject both " the Stories and the Doctrines that they proved by " them, without troubling themselves to account for every Particular Relation. And as we have reap'd " a very lasting and happy Benefit from their found! Judgment, I do not see but we may apply their " Example to the Case before us." This seems: to be a great and lucky Thought, to compare: the rejecting of a few Historical Accounts of Possessions and Witchcraft, with the Reformation of a whole Church; but though the Kingdom received a happy and lasting Benefit from the Reformation, what will it receive, if these should be thrown aside, and what Principles may be built upon them? To determine this, we are to confider what Principles may be built upon them. What Good or Harm. they may be likely to do, we have already noted in the first Chapter; and as for what may be built upon them, fince Possessions now are of the same Kind with those mentioned in Scripture, only differ in some Circumstances, no Possessions being alike in Circumstances; no other Principles can be built upon these, but what might be upon those, they both tending to the fame End and Intention, as they make People afraid of the Devil and his Works, and thew

65

13

CC

fli

m

ti

YE

ca

CC

W

66

e

tl

y

h

11

P

P

W

C

f

11

t

1

1

a

shew the Necessity of imploring Divine Assistance: Only there is this Difference; those happening in our Saviour's Time, tended to his Glory, as they gave him Opportunity to work Miracles, and shew his Power in casting them out; whereas now he not being upon Earth, they cannot serve to that Purpose. Yet to reject the Belief of these, is to lessen the Belief of these, is to lessen the Belief of these, none could be cast out; which would shake our Faith as to the Number of Miracles: Therefore I think we had not best "apply their Example to the "Case before us.

But to proceed to his Third Observation, which is, "An unpardonable Partiality, and perfect Humour in judging what are Acts of Sorcery, and what are not." But the Doctor can excuse his own Partiality, in condemning that which he gives such

But to go on to the remaining Part of this Third flight Reasons against.

Observation, or Reason, he observes, " Tho' the "Statute against Witchcraft forbids all Acts of Sor-" cery whatever, and all Charms for employing of " Spirits; yet for discovering a supposed Witch, "they allow any that call themselves Accusers, to " use barbarous and unnatural Charms, which must " have their Force (if they have any at all) from "the same Diabolical Power, because they are no natural Causes of such Effects. They allow them, " for instance, to set the Bottle and Urine upon the " Fire, well cork'd and ty'd down, and to burn " Cakes made of the Parties Water. All these are " feeking to, and confulting with the Devil, and " employing of him, and using the Vinculum Pacti, and are within the Reach of the Statute against Witchcraft; and yet all these they confess of themselves, and practise unpunished, and think it " no Harm. But this is the utmost Partiality, or " rather mere Wantonness in judging; for whether cc fuch

in

ney

ew

not

ofe, Bé-

in ake

ore the ich

lu-

ind

wn

ich

ird

the

or-

of

ch,

uft

om

no

m, he irn

ire

nd

Fi,

nft

of

it

or

ier ch

" fuch Compacts are real, or only imaginary, they ought to be punished equally on both fides, with-" out Respect of Persons." I am sorry the Doctor should be so often mistaken, having such good Judgment; for tho' he disclaims, and endeavours to extinguish the Belief of the Doctrine of Witchcraft, yet, tho' his Intention feems to be otherwise, he cannot (now and then) forbear in Words, and confequently in Thoughts, owning of it; or else why should he call them barbarous and unnatural Charms, which the Accusers make use of; and say, " they must have their Force from some Diabolical " Power;" which is owning fuch a Diabolical Power? But he would have the Act to take place upon the Accusers; he would have the Accusers punished, yet hath a great deal of Clemency for the Witches: Is not this Partiality? What a great deal of Pains he hath taken, to refer the Accused to the Righteous Judge; yet is mightily offended the Witnesses are not punished! But to satisfy the Doctor of the Impartiality, we shall only put him in mind of an approved Saying, Set a Thief to catch a Thief: And we find in common Capital Cases, as Robbing on the Highway, if a Highway-Man (tho'equally concern'd with others) turns Evidence, he is pardon'd for his past Crimes; because he detects those that might continue in their Wickedness, and persevere in their ill Practices: But if he is catch'd again in such a Fact, this former Accusation will not excuse that last Crime. But tho' the Accusers in Witchcraft make use of Charms, which are in themselves criminal, yet there is a great deal of Difference betwixt an old Offender and a constant Practifer, and one that only makes use of a single Trial, to discover and detect fuch Persons: And since one is done with an ill Intent, and the other with a good Defign, the Facts not being equally pernicious, cannot deserve equal Punishment, tho' there were no Excuse to be made made for the Accusers. But to put the Case further: The Doctor, being throughly acquainted with the Divine Attributes, it will not be amiss if I should ask him, Whether, tho' it is consistent with God Almighty's Justice, that all those who transgress the Divine Laws, tho' the Fact be greater or less, the Fact breaking of them, should suffer for the Breach of his Commandments; yet may not his Mercy prevail with the Rules of Justice, and pardon them? Otherwise he is not Omnipotent. He may punish, and he may pardon: By the Law they dye, but by his Mercy they may be faved. And fo in Common Law, tho' by the Statute the Transgressor ought to fuffer, yet Mercy may prevail; and there can be no Mercy without Pardon: For if Justice was always exactly executed, there could not, nor would be fuch a Thing as Mercy: The Word would be of no Ufe or Signification.

0

(

a

d

h

C

tl

n

W

cl

th P

m

ce

cc

CC

W

va Do

can

Fa

ha

are ber

ing

W

tol

caf

Do

nif

But to proceed to his Fourth Observation, or Reafon: He fays, " That the Number of Witches, and " the supposed Dealing of Spirits with them, in-" crease or decrease, according to the Laws, and No-"tions, and Principles of the several Times, Pla-" ces, and Princes." That they might increase or decrease according to the Laws, there is no doubt; Executions lessening the Number, as well as deterring others from the like Practice: And no doubt, but Princes encouraging the Profecution of such abominable Practices, might enforce those Laws. And no Question, but Notions and Principles might do much; for the fome Men's Principles might be bad enough, yet the Notions they had of the Punishment, the Severity of the Laws, and the Resentment of Princes, might deter them, and discourage vicious Practices.

He fays; "In the Times of the Roman Empire, "fome of the Cafars condemned Witches, others would not." Which he might as well have expressed pressed another way, and said, Some of them discouraged and punished Offenders; others were vicious themselves, and encouraged Vice, or neglected the Punishment due by Law.

th

od

he

ch

re-

ib,

by

On

to-

no.

ays

Jfe

ea-

in-

la-

OI.

bt;

ter-

abt,

bo-

do

bad

ish-

ent ici-

ire,

hers

exffed

But he fays, " In Lorrain, where Remigius, by " his Principles, could find Eighteen Hundred in " Fifreen Years, I do not understand that there are " more now than in other Places." To which I answer, That the Execution of so many might well decrease the Number, as well as deter others. But he fays, there are no more now than in other Places: And yet there may be as many now as ever; for tho' they act not after the same manner, and dare not discover themselves in such evident and violent ways, so easily discover'd; they may do more Mischief by more cunning and clandestine ways. They then took a Pride in it, to shew their mischievous Power; but now they dare not, but may act after manners more prejudicial, tho' not eafily perceived.

He fays, " In Savoy, Spain, and Germany, fince " Philosophy and Learning have prevailed, they " have but few, tho' great Multitudes before." I wish then that Philosophy and Learning might prevail in England, which would be better for the Doctor and me too, (tho' not equally, because I cannot pretend to so much as the Minister of St. fames's in Edmond's-Bury: ) Besides, we should have fewer Witches in England; and I believe there are a great many now, for Half the Kingdom are bewitch'd, or worse. But to be serious: How Learning and Philosophy should decrease the Number of Witches, I cannot tell; for tho' I think I have a tolerable Share of either, I cannot well tell how to cast out a Devil: But perhaps such Learning as the Doctor means, hath cast out all the Devils, and banished all the Witches. He

He goes on: " Formerly France was as much wexed with the Accusation of supposed Witches; but fince they have discouraged Prosecutions, they " have been in much more Ease and Freedom from "them." The Doctor feems to own or acknowledge, that they have been troubled with them; but if the discouraging of Prosecutions abates the numerous Appearance of their ill Effects, perhaps it may be convenient to do as the Africans do; they worship the Devil, that he may be good-humour'd; for they think God is good, and will do them no harm, And they fay, Witches never do any Mischief, but when they are vexed. The Devil is good-humour'd, when he is pleas'd; but who would do evil, to please such a Master, as will punish them that please him at the last? The best way therefore is to contemn and defy him, and to punish his Instruments, and so to deter them from doing his Drudgery.

c (

c I

10 0

6 B

now

inc

kno

Ind

M

hey

pp:

vni

Peop

in A hen

ons,

10

Ind

ut

Wit

ve i

Dev

G

may

B

ders.

Thie

Socio

Corn

inde

The Author hath more of this Kind of Observations, Page the 69th; telling us, how in some Times sew or none were executed, but at other Times great Numbers. But having said enough already in respect of such trissing Accounts, I think it not worth while to take notice any further of such useless Repetitions. And I must ask the Doctor's Excuse, if I have answer'd several of these evasive Relations with a seeming Slight; for as I found them to contain little Reason, but only served to amuse the Reader; so I thought, that where much Reason or Argument was not required, or what was proposed did not admit of it, the best way would be to entertain the Reader with the most pleasant. Argument I could contrive, and least offensive to the Learned Author.

But Page the 69th, he further fays, "I make no great Doubt, but that we have as many Devils now amongst us, as they had in other Ages. For, "we we have as many Temptations, and Lies, and Thefts, and Adulteries, and Murthers, that are the Devil's Works. But our Witches, for the present, are gone after the Poets Gods, and modern Fairies. For, I must add, that they are not fo far from us, but that if we should have a Prince, and Judges, and Juries, and Witchfinders, of the same Principles, that found out so many before, in Two Years Time, in all Probability, they would find out as many now."

ach es;

ney om

W-

but

ne-

ay

or-

for rm.

but

r'd,

to

on-

its,

va-

me

mes

in ea-10-

to

gu-

the

no

we

The Doctor, supposing we have as many Devils now as ever, wonders we have not as many Witches, ince the rest of the Devils Works go on now as fast s ever. For which I answer, that for ought he nows we have, though the Severity of the Laws nd Punishments, deters them from acting in so open Manner, yet they may act; and I doubt not but hey do so cunningly: that their ill Deeds are not so pparent, or fo eafily diffinguished; the Scripture, which, I suppose, he allows to be true, tells us of People being possessed with the Devil, and gives us in Account of what strange Things were acted by hem, yet we see no such violent Effects by Possessions, and must we conclude, therefore, that there is no Devil? Is he gone away with the Poets Gods, nd modern Fairies? No; he is as busy now as ever, out not in the same kind of Actions, and though witches act not now as they were used to do, must ve conclude there are none? But I suppose the Devil and they have made a new Compact, and held General Council, and settled Measures, how they may do Mankind most Mischief.

But he supposes Judges, Juries, and Witch-finlers, can produce a Number when they please. As Thief-catchers commonly belong to that honourable vils ociety, or else could not discover them, having no correspondence with them; so I suppose Witch-inders must be some of that Sisterhood: and no inders must be some of that Sisterhood; and no. doubt but if some of them had good Encouragement Stutthey might make large Discoveries; but the Doctor will not allow the Accusers to be pardoned, and who Doctor will not allow the Acculers to be pardoned, and who Do would condemn themselves, by accusing another apply the solution of Princes, Judges and Juries, I suppose the will would not take away the Life of a Person, without and lawful Proof, and moral Certainty; who would take away a Persons Life without Prosit, and be guilt Priof Murther, without a Prospect of Gain and Administration.

the

vantage? Page the 69th, to proceed, the Doctor hath starte Op and contrived a new Method of talking, to puzz not himself and others; for instead of making use the United Arguments, he tells us, "That the Discovery of Witches does follow Principles; for if Men be niced lieve none, it is not likely they should find any like But then it may be their Unbelief, or wrong the Principles, that are the Reason why they are not there sound out nor looked for To bring the pre-"ther found out, nor looked for. To bring the pre Point to an Issue, he says, it is necessary to give Unit a Catalogue of such Principles and Notions, a Principle or supposed to be found; and another of such a ciple or supposed to be found; and another of such a ciple have prevailed, where Men have found out sew had that we may judge, whether kind of Principle of that we may judge, whether kind of Principle of the principle of "Numbers were convicted, be true and right "—they must not be mistaken in Matters of Fad and in so very many Cases." To which he adds, the it is "a very difficult Task to reduce these Two follows: "forts of Principles into Order for a View. For Face both the Subject it self is difficult, and the Opinions on of those that defend the vulgar Notions, are cipled of confused and contradictory, that it is impossible to bring them into any certain Rules.

"possible to bring them into any certain Rules.

But since this Task is so difficult and impossible the I shall endeayour to do it for the Doctor, his other con Studie Studies perhaps not allowing him Time. In order to this, it will be necessary to consider what the Doctor means by Principles, which by what he says, the appears to be a Word used in the same Signification with Belief, since he uses this Expression, Unbelief, that and wrong Principles, which is in Contradistinction to Belief, and right Principles; now since these guilt Principles, he saith, are only of Two Kinds, the one must be Belief, and the other Unbelief. Now farther, the Reason of this Difficulty is, because People's ther, the Reason of this Difficulty is, because People's Opinions are confused and contradictory; and fince nothing can be more contradictory than Belief and Unbelief; these, according to his Expressions, must be the Two Sorts of Principles which he calls Opinions confused; since then he says Unbelief is the Reason why Witches are not found out, Belief must be the Principle that finds them out: So that when so many were found out, the Principle Belief must prevail, when they were not found out it must be unbelief; so that I hope I have reduced these Two Principles in order for a View. And all that made the Matter obscure, was the Use of this Word Principle, which might have still remained in Obscurity, few had not the rest of his Expressions explained it; but ciple I suppose, this Word was only made use of to entangle the Sense, so that it should not easily be understood.

But since the Meaning of this Term is understood,

But fince the Meaning of this Term is understood, and it appears that the right was Belief, which Men went upon, when so many were convicted, it will Two follow, that they could not be mistaken in Matter of For Fact, in so very many Cases. But supposing he will not stand to the Conviction of his own Words, Principles by which they are found must be good or bad, and let the way they are found be what it will, it must be nothing but moral Proof that could convict shem, except any Body could think a Judge would condemn a Person wrongfully, whose Circumstances

udie

are so indifferent, that they must rather be Objects tic

ca

be

ave

brfa.

ons

ve fe

imf

hre

9. 6

us,

ma

nake

ose:

ffed

aft 1

ge,

e w

ut 1

nake

late,

nto

offer

now

work

y Te

vhat

hous

nd t fer

ane

le c veak

he (

ing

were

Bu

We

ec tion

Pity than Envy.

Page the 70th, he proceeds, "As some Ages have had the Appearance of many Witches, and other of sew, so in some Ages Witches, and their Works, and Confessions, are quite different from others." It is no wonder that Witches and their Works should differ; for, as we have noted before the Possession in Scripture not only differed from on another, but our Saviour declared, that they proceeded from Spirits of a different Kind, Mark ix. 29. This Kind can come forth by nothing but Prayer and Fassing.

But he fays, "A Hebrew Witch, a Pagan Witch, a Lapland Witch, an Indian Witch, a Popil "Witch, and a Protestant Witch, differ from on another." Indeed the Place of their Nativity may distinguish them, as they belong to different Countries; but I never thought that Witches were of any Religion before, since they worship not the true God in any manner, but the Devil, who Works they do.

His next Paragraph confifts of some ridiculon Banter, which can relish with no body that can de stinguish evalive and superficial Ridicule from sound Arguments, and therefore I think it not worth while to take Notice of it. But Page 71, h fays, "We have been apt to wonder why the Devi " had forfaken our Age, that we had no Poffession among us, when in ancient Times they had it " many." He infinuates also, as if pious Person may be bewitched who turn Accusers; and add " But if they that have been thought to have been " betwitched, have really been Dæmoniacks, and the "Devil by their Mouths hath carried on his great "Work of false accusing and murthering of innocent People, then we must own he hath done " Craft, what he could not do by direct Tempta

heir

ore.

One

ord-

29

an tch

pif

dds.

een

the

rea

1110-e by pta

ion

tion, and hath made those very Men his Tools, to carry on his Plots, who verily believed, they had been destroying his Works." As to the first, we ave little Reason to think, that the Devil had briaken our Age, because we have no such Poffesons as formerly; for though he acts not fo openly, re see too many of his Works daily, and the Doctor imself was of a different Opinion but Two or hree Pages before; for there he fays, Page 68, and o. " That we have as many Devils now amongst us, as they had in other Ages; for we have as many Temptations, &coc." So that the Doctor takes use of the Devil, just as he will serve his Purofe; and as our Saviour turned him out of the posfled Person into the herd of Swine, so he would on aft him out of Witches, and sometimes out of the vir age, or fetch him in again, as Occasion serves; nay, ten e will not allow him Communication with Witches, weth ut would infinuate him into pious Persons, and the nake him act as an Informer, or Accuser; at this hole late, why may we not suppose, that he hath entered nto the Doctor, to make him defend Criminals and offessed Persons, and accuse pious Persons? Who di nows but so pious a Person as himself, may be worked upon by Craft, though it could not be done or y Temptation? This Suggestion seems as natural as the what the Doctor says, who seems to favour his Plots, being hough he verily believes he is described. hough he verily believes he is destroying his Works; ion and to use the Doctor's own Worls, "I do not asif fert this, but I will say, there are some Appearion ances that look that way. For the Doctor makes ances that look that way. For the Doctor makes le of very crafty Infinuations, though but very reak Arguments, if any at all; fo that I have only he Opportunity of discovering his Suggestions, haing very little Reason to oppose; but those were anwered in the Two first Chapters.

But to proceed, Page 71, and 72, he fays, "That we might judge when the Confessions of Witches

" proceed

ra

TOV

100

Man

lifco

non tifie

8,1

Men

Even

but!

Tree

upt eth r

be 1

Spiri

at v

from et a

Crea

den

mor

not

who

pine

ever

and

Son

and othe

thef

ce to a fi

u f

for

H

proceed from a found Mind, and when from Imae gination and Vapours; (that is, whether they are er real or no ) it would be necessary we should have fome fixed bounds of the Power of Spirits, that we might know when they had passed the Degrees of Possibility." That there are fixed Bounds of the Power of Spirits, is evident from Scripture; that having shewn us what is in the Power of Spirits to do, Satan tempted our Saviour, and carried him up upon the Pinnacle of the Temple: Devils possessed several, and produced Effects which could not be attributed to natural Causes; and this is to be distinguished; those Effects which proceed from natural Causes, ranging themselves amongst the Number of known Distempers, which appear by their Symptoms; whereas the Effects of supernatural Causes own their Cause, because they differ from what is Natural.

But farther, Page 72, he goes on, " Concerning " the Nature and Will, and Defigns of Spirits, "though we are fure of their Being, yet we are by " no means able to lay down fafe Rules, by which "we may judge of their Actions and Intentions." That we cannot have adequate Idea's of what is immaterial is certain, yet as to the Will and Defigns of them, we know that they must be either good or bad, which Rules are fafe enough; besides their Actions shew their Natures to be Good or Evil; and if we guess right, their Wills and Intentions are according to their Actions, which must be either good or bad too. He proceeds, "Some think, and have written, " that there are harmless Spirits, that are in a kind " of middle State, betwixt Angels and Devils; and " if so, one would think it should be no Capital " Offence to have Communication with them." 1 would ask the Dostor, allowing such, if there be such a Spirits, whether any body was ever convicted for doing no Harm? Whether ever any one was accused

are ave

hat

rees

of hat

do.

oon

ral,

ted

ed;

es,

wn

ns;

eir

ing

its,

ich

S."

m-

of

or eir

nd

ic-

bo

nd

nd

tal 1

ch

oed or a Witch, without some ill Actions suspected or roved? If there is no ill Action, there can be no roof of any; nor can any body tell what Spirits a Man hath Communication with, except his Actions liscover what manner of a Spirit it is. The Tree is mown by its Fruit, and a Man condemned or judified by his bad or good Deeds. Matth. vii. 16, 17, 8, 19, 20. Te shall know them by their Fruits: Do Men gather Grapes of Thorns, or Figs of Thistles? Even so every good Tree bringeth forth good Fruit; but a corrupt Tree bringeth forth evil Fruit. A good Tree cannot bring forth evil Fruit; neither can a corrupt Tree bring forth good Fruit. Every Tree that bring the not forth good Fruit, is hewn down, and cast into the Fire. Wherefore by their Fruits ye shall know them.

He next quotes Dr. More, and tells us of other spirits, "That are very great Fools. That Spirits at variously, and in different Manners, is certain from their Actions; and that not only Spirits who aft according to the Will and Direction of a foolish Creature, may do fo, is very likely, but it is evident that the Devil himself hath acted very often more like a Fool, than a subtle crafty Spirit: It was not very prudent of the Devil to war against God. who not being satisfied with his great Share of Happiness, lost his first State, and cast himself out into everlasting Misery: Nor was it a much less foolish and vain Undertaking, to offer Temptations to the son of God, who he knew was in Essence the same, and equal with his Father. Besides these, there are other Instances of the Folly of his Attempts, but these are sufficient for our present Purpose.

Page 73, he goes on, "Who dare venture to de"termine what God will fuffer, and what he will "not? Who knows whether he may not permit "fuch Things, on purpose to prove Judges and Ju"ries, how wise and valiant they will be, in de"fending the Lives of the Poor and Innocent." To which I answer, that what God will permit, as far as relates to the present Subject, appears from what he hath permitted; he hath permitted the Devil and his Angels to tempt his Creatures, to try whether they would refist Temptations; he hath laid before them Good and Evil, and a Power to chuse which they will; a Witch may chuse whether she will take upon her the Service of the Devil, and forfake the Service of God; and his Providence hath appointed Judges and Juries to examine into their wicked Deeds, and to punish evil Doers, as Dent. xxx. 15, 17, 18. See, this Day I have fet before thee Life and Good, and Death and Evil. But if thine Heart turn away, fo that thou wilt not hear, but shalt be drawn away, and worship other Gods, and serve them: I denounce unto you this Day, that you shall surely perish, and that you shall not prolong your Days upon the Land. But the Doctor fays, these Things were permitted to try the Wisdom and Valour of Judges and Juries: I never heard before, that Judges and Juries were ever tempted in any other Shape, but that of current Coin; it would be very hard to hazard the Lives of the Innocent, to try Judges, when the Tryal must deceive them, and pervert Judgment, without any Crime in them, fince by the Evidence it appeared to be true: Therefore the only way to try Judges and Juries, is by Bribery, to try whether they will accept it or not, which is at their Free-will and Choice, and a voluntary Action; but who would bribe to murther innocent, especially poor People?

which

He fays further, "Who can fay to what Degree God may permit him to use his natural Crast and "Subtilty?" To which I answer, Why does the Doctor argue against his natural Crast and Subtilty? which God Almighty hath permitted, and hath told us in what Degrees; having sufficiently warn'd us of his Devices, and given us so many Instances in Sacred Writings,

Page

F

et n

a I

cc F

" t

the

cen

Wi

Pro

tive

cc . I

neg

the

ing

171

int

va

her

mig

Wil

mu

W

CC. ]

the

bef

an ne

the

23

"

"

QU

COI

em

A

16

d

er

re

ey!

n

ce

es

S

8.

d,

0

2d

n-

at

ut

ry

e-

er

nt

of

ıst

ny

to

nd

pt

nd

er

ee

nd

he

yi?

dd

of

ed

ge

Page 74, he fays, "Wise Men have thought it necessary to be wonderfully cautious in Penal Laws—and, where their Neighbour's Blood or Reputation is at Stake, they think they are bound to keep to some few negative Rules." And in this they are in the Right; it would be hard the Innocent should suffer, and it would be as hard that the Wicked should go unpunished, when there is good Proof. We shall therefore take a View of his negative Rules.

The first is, "Do not intrude into Things that you have not seen, Col. 2. 18. If this is one of his negative Rules, it little concerns this Subject; and the Doctor hath cited it very partially, the Text being thus, Let no Man beguile you of your Reward, in a voluntary Humility, and worshipping of Angels, intruding into those Things which he bath not seen, vainly puffed up by his sleshly Mind. St. Paul here is exhorting the People to Constancy, that they might reap the Fruits of it, but says not a Word of Witchcraft, nor that a Judge and Jury shall not examine the Evidence, because they themselves are not Witnesses.

The Second is, "Even good Spirits are no Legal" Evidence in our Courts." In this he is right, for they would be neither acceptable to Judge nor Jury; besides, it would be difficult to summon them there; and as for the Devil, if he should appear, I believe neither the Jury would stay to give their Verdict, nor the ludge to receive it.

The Third is, "We must not make our Neight" bours suffer for the Harms the Devil does. As "the Serpent will bite without bidding, so the De-"vil will do Mischief without our Leave." But if our Neighbour acts by virtue of an evil Spirit, and consents to what the Devil does, and the Devil is employed by a Neighbour, the Neighbour is either Actor, or Accessary, and consequently makes it his own Action, and ought to suffer for it, which is the

The Fourth is, "We can no more convid a Witch upon the Tricks of Swimming, Scratching

"Touching, or any other such Experiments, than we may convict a Thief upon the Tryal of the Sieve and Sheers." I thought a Thief was never convicted, except upon Legal Proof before a Judge and Jury; and if there be moral Proof before the same against one accused of Witcheraft, that is sufficient. 1 word Tobaco Burdung

The Fifth negative Rule is, " Witches Confessions have so often been extorted, so often the Effects of Diffraction, proceeding from long Watching and Tortures of Distempers, and have been so often found contrary to plain Truth, that they are not to be believed against the Probability of Things, and the natural Circumstances of Actions. We fun rote no Confessions can be faid to be extorted which are voluntary, without Tortures and violent Mains: and as for distracted People, Madness is eafily discovered; and who would convict a Witch against Probability and Circumstances of Actions? These are the Things which moral Proof consists of and which give Credit to Testimony, and as Belief is founded upon moral Proof, upon that Proof Judgment ought to be given.

The Sixth is, "Things odd and unaccountable ought to be respited, till we understand them." But to this I answer, that Probability and Circumstances make them accountable and understood. But this Rule contradicts his first Rule, for if you are not to intrude or examine into Things, how will you understand them: 1 100 modifier isufshild ob live

The Seventh, "Where there is no known Rule to decide by, make no Judgment. In Law, I think Precedents make Rules; and Probability and moral Proof is another Rule.

But

-13

t

1 ju

d

tr

01

A

OU

(6

th

po

ag

the

aSt

m

he

a C

tha

Ita:

the

2 1

ing,

han

the

isve

dge

the

fuf:

ions

s of

and fren

net

ngs,

We

red.

lent

s is itch

of,

f is dg-

ble

m."

m.

But

not nn-

ule

ink

ral

But

But to proceed to his last negative Rule, he fays, "It becomes us to shew our Faith in God, by lea"ving doubtful Cases to his Providence, which is "powerfully present and active in the World," To which I answer, that his powerful Providence directs us to examine into doubtful Cases, and to remove those Doubts; and God Almighty, who is the only Providential Being, hath directed by his Prophets, that such as do Evil, shall suffer Punishment, as a just Reward of their evil Ways. Besides, this negative Rule leaves our Neighbours Reputation at Stake, as under Suspicion, which ought to be clear'd, so that here the Doctor makes his own Opinion contrary to Reason and himself.

where the World discovered sew Witches; and indeed, where they were neither examin'd into, nor tried, but left to ast at their own Discretion, without Notice, I cannot see how there should be any Appearance, none being taken Notice of.

But let us see what Rules brought Offenders to Juflice, and suffered not such Vices to be practised with out Punithment, and Discouragement.

The First is, "That the Devil cannot make a "Person in First, think he should see the Shape or "Appearance of another, unless that Person harm made a Compact." The Doctor does not approve this; he would think, I suppose, that the Devil may posses a Person, yet hath all along been declaiming against Possessions; but if the Devil may thus disturb the Brains of distempered People, why may he not ast upon others, and disorder them as in Possessions mentioned in our History; and if he does, why may he nor do it at the Request of those that have made a Contract with him? For it is not to be supposed, that a Witch can do any Thing without the Assession of the Devils Agents;

Person was at the request of that Person who had is contracted, who was the Agent that employed that Spirit.

The Second is, "That therefore the Spectral Evidence, that is, the afflicted Parties thinking they fee the Persons that torment them, may be given in Evidence." Because the Devil always represent the Person that employs him, and makes the deluded Witch believe she does it, which is her great SatisFaction for her ill Bargain; which Fact she consenting to, makes it hers, she employing the Author of that Mischief.

The Third is, "That it is lawful to try the sup"posed Witch, by observing how the afflicted Pary "is afflicted at the Touch of her." For then it is supposed, that the evil Spirit is obliged by Contract to ful to Work. Besides, the Devil uses his Servants with so little Honour, that, as he designs to torment them at the last, he often betrays them to Justice, that he may the sooner have them in his Possession.

The Fourth, "That it is lawful to use the Lords"Prayer, for a Test to discover them. Sadd. Debell.
Page 54:

Fifth, " That Swimming is a fair Tryal of a Witch. King James's Damon.

Sixth, " That want of Tears is another Mark.

Seventh, "That insensible Parts and Teats are Signs of Witchcraft. Dalton's Country Justice.

Eighth, " That the Devil's Mark may be like a Flea-bite. Dalton's Country-Justice.

Ninth, "That the Devil can do more, when he hath a Witches Commission, than he can do "without it. Mr. Baxter's Certainty of the World of Spirits.

th

23

"

ci

23

(

2

1

6

Tenth, "That Persons inhabites, in other Cafes, even infamous Per ons, are lawful Evidence in the Case of Witchcraft. Sadd. Debell. p. 58.

Eleventh, "That Tortures may be made use of to extort Confessions." With as much Reason in this Case, as in others.

Twelfth, " That the Witches may be kept long

" from Sleep, and then examined.

of the ad fo

Evi-

they

given

efents

luded Satis-

fent-

or of fup-

fup-

t to ants

tice,

Pof-

ds-

bell.

ırk.

are

e a

he

do

rld

th,

Thirteenth, "That the suspected Witches may be watched, till their Imps appear; and then Imps may come in the Shape of Cats, Dogs, Rats, Mice, Spiders, Fleas, Nits, Birds, Flies, a Toad, a Frog, a Hen, a Crow, a Hornet, or a Mole.

This Rule he opposes thus: " This is a pernici-" ous Way of Tryal; because it would be strange, " if no Creature should happen near them." To which I answer, That real Substances, or those which are material ones, may eafily be diffinguished from Apparitions of Spirits. But the Doctor proceeds: " If we know any Thing of Spirits, this is contra-" dictory to the true Notion of them; for if they " are, or can make themselves invisible, what signi" sies watching?" To which I answer; That tho they may be invisible if they please, or may make themselves otherwise if they will, yet they often chuse rather to be visible, that they may betray and discover the Bondslave that employs them. That Spirits as fuch are invisible is certain; or else wemight discover the Soul of a Man when it departs the Body; but that they may assume a Body, or Corporeal Substance, and be visible, is as certain. To convince us of this, we have our Saviour's Words; who when he appeared unto his Disciples after his Resurrection, bad them feel the Marks of the Nails in his Hands, to convince them that it was his Body; whereas, if a Spirit could not be made visible, he might as easily have said, a Spirit is invisible, and cannot be seen: But the Scripture D 3 other-

Bu

Re

oly,

Hanc

Tru

ther

den

H

can

Do

the

ha

the

th

2

A

otherwife; witness the Visibility of Spirits, Angels having appeared upon feveral Occasions: But of this more in the Second Part of Material and Immaterial Substances.

The Fourteenth Rule is, " When the Accused are upon their Tryal for bewitching any particular "Person, it is lawful to give in Evidence Matters that are no ways relating to that Fact, and done many Years before, which consequently they cannot be prepared to answer to." And this I think very reasonable; for these concurring Circumstances tend either to clear, or represent more fully their Suspicion, and the Probability of their being ill Persons; and whether they have been long guilty, or suspected to follow fuch ill Practices: As when a Man hath been try'd for his Life formerly, or hath been hurne. in the Hand, the Continuance of fuch Vices adds to the Probability of his Guilt.

The Fifteenth is, " That ill Fame of their Ance-" flors, is a reasonable Ground of Suspicion:" And not without Reason; because it implies, that they were brought up in ill Principles.

The Sixteenth is, " That Imps may be kept in " Pots, or other Vessels; and that the Pots and Places where they are kept, flink deteftably; and that therefore such slinking Places in their Houses, are " Signs that they have Imps." Dalton's Country Fuft.

The Seventeenth: "That received Rules, that a have been practifed by Courts of Justice, are not " to be examined by Reason.

The Eighteenth: "That tho' these Arguments, fingle, are not concluding; yet several of them, together, are sufficient : As Five little Candles, together, give one great one." To which the Doctor suggests; "Which, by the way, is a fallacious Comparison: For Forty bad Arguments prove no more than one; that is, nothing at all : ngels this

erial

are ular

ters lone'

not

rery

end

Spi-

is;

etrth

né

to

d

But it can never be faid fo of lighted Candles in a Room." And to the Doctor's Answer I must rely, That it is more fallacious; for all the Circumfances, or Rules, are supposed to concur to make Truth evident and plain, and strengthen one another; as Five Candles make one good Light, or evident and moral Possibility. The state of the bound Having thus taken a View of these Rules, wecannot but admire what strong Arguments the Doctor hath offer'd against them. He condemns them without any Tryal at all; the he would not have poor Witches try'd; and at once pronounces them unscriptural, superstitious, and false.

The Doctor is endowed with a wonderful Stock of Clemency; he had rather the World should suffer, than Justice should be done to the Children of the Devil: They ought to be used tenderly, lest, like Dogs in a Passion, they should bite. He hath taken a great deal of Pains in Favour of them, tho' God Almighty condemns them. How great must that Mercy be, which exceeds infinite Mercy!

This puts me in mind of a Sermon I heard in the Country, about the Feast in the Gospel, some Years ago: For the' the Lord was angry, when his Gueffs were invited, and would not come; yet this fweettemper'd Gentleman, heing more compassionate than the Lord, tho' he likewise blamed some, excused others; the first (Luke 14.18.) faid unto him, I have bought a Piece of Ground, and I must go and fee it: Now, fays the Parson, could not this Man have gone and seen it another Day? Another said, Thave bought Five Yoke of Oxen, and I go to prove them: Says the Minister, Could not this Man prove his Oxen another Day? Another faid, I have married a Wife, and therefore I cannot come: Now, fays our good-natur'd Gentleman, this Man I could DA.

not

not blame : He was for excusing him, tho' the Lord blamed them all.

Thus the Dostor would not have Witches punish'd, no not so much as look'd after, tho' the Scripture condemns them. He will not easily admit of Possessions, tho' our Saviour and his Disciples found enough: But these, he says, are most frequently found out in superstitious Times; and he would have the Witch-sinders punish'd, as well as the Witches. What would he have done with our Saviour and his Disciples? Were they superstitious? Or were their Principles of an ill Kind, unscriptural and false?

From what we have hitherto observed, I can find but little Reason the Doctor hath offer'd to blame our History of Witchcraft, and much less to favour his own Essay, which very likely may do much more Harm than some are aware of.

I should proceed to shew, that the Scripture could find out Magicians, Sorcerers, and Witchcraft, and several possessed with Devils, to enforce and confirm what we have said; but I shall refer that to the Second Part, where we shall shew the Effects Spirits may have, in working upon, and altering Matter.

We shall therefore conclude this, and examine further in the next Chapter, what the Doctor hath bays honeat a lieue of Groupe Cantiloned so an have gone and feen in another David shoot are find, blees I cald all juranland Unian-been no real faid in the remaining Part of his Esfay.

CHAP.

Con

litt

tra

ftin

po

Ca

de

fr

th

fo

Dut executal are falle, has opinion is red.

of red H.A.P. IV.

Lord

pu,

dmit

iples ient-

ould

the

Saus!

an

to

to

do

ld

n

7

Containing some Remarks on what he hath said of the Witches in Suffolk, Salem, Boston and Andover in New-England; at Mohra in Sueden, and the Witches at Warbois.

Rom what we have faid in the foregoing Chapters, it appears, That the Doctor hath faid very little to favour his Opinion; but that, on the contrary, it is manifest, both from Reason and the Tefilmony of Scripture, that Possessions are not only possible, but have been frequent. Now if in some Cases there should be Mistakes, or some should endeavour to deceive the World, this does not detract from the Credit which ought to be given to those that are true; no more than Counterfeit Bonds, or forged Bills diminish the Value of those that are genuine. If there are Mistakes or Impositions, it behoves those, under whose Care it lies, to discover and diffinguish what are real, and what are Imposis tions: And this is the Work of Judges and Juries, when such Cases come before them; which, no doubt, their Consciences will oblige them to take care of.

As for the Doctor, any body that takes notice of his Partiality in Managing this Subject, his cunning Infinuations and Evafions, and the Weakness of his Arguments, (tho' in Opposition to what is contained in Scripture) will suppose he will muster up all the Mistakes or Impositions he can, to favour his espoused Doctrine: But supposing them to be as he would represent them, it shows them false, perhaps y

23

23

66

22

(6

23

CC

23

CC

66

f

t

I

but except all are false, his Opinion is bad. And in examining these Cases, no doubt but the Dostor will use all the Art he can, to represent them erroneous; therefore, tho' it alters not the Subject in general, whether true or false, we shall (as briefly as we can) take a View of them, and see with what Skill the Dostor hath endeavour'd to make particular Exceptions to universal Truths. If these Stories are salse, it will sollow, that our History in general is true, having the Authority of Scripture on our side; and that the Dostor's Essay contains a Collection of salse Relations and Impostures.

As for the first Case, which is of the Suffolk Witches, he quotes an Account of them our of Mr. Baxter's Certainty of the World of Spirits, which is as follows: " The hanging a great Number of Witches in Suffalk and Effex, by the Discovery of one Hopkins, in 1645 and 1646, is famonfly known. Mr. Calamy went along with the " Judges in the Circuit, to hear their Confessions, and fee that there was no Fraud or wrong done them. I spake with many understanding, pious, and credi-" ble Persons, that fived in the Countries, and some that went to them to the Prisons. Amongst the reft, an old Reading Parson, called Lower, and not far from Framlingham, was one that was hanged; who confessed that he had Two Imps; That one of them was always putting him on doing Mischief, and (he being near the Sea) as he te faw a Ship under Sail, it moved him to fend him to fink the Ship, and he confented, and a faw the Ship fink before him. One penitent Woman confessed; That her Mother lying fick, and the looking to her, fomewhat like a Mole ran extinto the Bed to her; which she being startled at, her Mother bid her not fear it, but gave it her, Laying, Keep this in a Pot by the Fire, 69c. and es thou

" thou shalt never want. She did as she was bid : " Shortly after a poor Boy came (feemingly) in, " and asked Leave to fit and warm him by the " Fire; and when he was gone, the found Money " under the Stool; and afterwards oft did so again; " and at last laid hold of her, and drew Blood " of her: And the made no other Compact with " the Devil, but that the Imps sucked her Blood; and, as I heard, the was delivered. Abundance of " fad Confessions were made by them; by which " some testified, that there are certain Punishments " which they were to undergo, if they did not some " Hurt as was appointed them."

In Confutation of this Historical Account, writ by fo learned a Man, and one of fo good Authority. the Doctor makes some Reflections on Mr. Baxter, neither becoming himfelf, nor due to the other; and produces a Letter writ by Mr. Hopkins, which is as

d in

rofisc

one-

ene-

S We

Skill

Ex-

are

al is ide :

n of

Folk

of

its,

ım-

Cofathe ons,

em.

di-

me

the

ind vas

95;

lo-

he

nd

nd

nt

k,

an

It;

ī,

id W

" My Service to your Worship presented; I have " this Day received a Letter, Ege. to come to a " Town called Great Stoughton, to fearch for evil-" disposed Persons, called Witches, (though I hear " your Minister is far against us, thro' Ignorance:) " I intend to come (God willing) the fooner, to " hear his fingular Judgment in the Behalf of such " Parties. I have known a Minister in Suffolk " preach as much against their Discovery in a Pulpit, and forced to recant it (by the Committee) " in the same Place. I much marvel, such evil Mem-" bers should have any, (much more any of the " Clergy, who should daily preach Terror, to con-" vince fuch Offenders) stand up to take their Parts, " against such as are Complainants for the King, " and Sufferers themselves, with their Families and "Estates." So much of this Letter as is necesfary; the rest only enquiring what Sort of Entertainment they were likely to meet with, to refresh and asked heave to fit and ward themselves.

To this Letter, the Doctor annexes a Quotation from Mr. Gaul; which 'tis necessary to transcribe, that we may see what great Conclusions the Doctor draws from the whole; it is as follows: " To all these, I cannot but add one at large, which I have "! lately learnt, partly from some Communication ! had with one of the Witch-finders, (as they call them) partly from the Confession which I heard, of a suspected and a committed Witch, so handled as fhe faid, and partly as the Country-People talk of it. Having taken the suspessed Witch, she is or placed in the Middle of a Room, upon a Stool or Table, cross-legg'd, or in some other uneasy Pofure; to which, if she submits not, she is then " bound with Cords. There is she watch'd, and kept without Meat, or Sleep, for the Space of Four and twenty Hours; for within that Time, they fay, they shall see her Imp come and suck. " A little Hole is likewise made in the Door, for the Imp to come in at; and lest it should come in some less discernible Shape, they that watch, are taught to be ever and anon sweeping the Room, and if they fee any Spiders or Flies, to kill them; et and if they cannot kill them, then to be fure they are her Imps.

Having thus related what the Doctor hath quoted. to his Advantage, let us see what Advantage he makes of it. The first Paragraph, (Pag. 83, 84.) he only complains of the Severity of the Tryal of the Stool, and only supposes an extorted Confession; but Mr. Baxter hath told us of voluntary Confession ons of Persons themselves, of which he was an Eyeaction foch as are Complainted for witness.

fary:

" and Southers them I yes, with their Baimiles and in E later, --- So much of this Letter as is meet. Wo till

who

den

fhe

gui

fwi

fear

call

fuff

by ill

Gr

no

His

bei

Pu

the

the

go

cut

Bu

bro

kin abi

the car

he hi

lie

fet

Pr

IY

an

1

In the next Paragraph, the Doctor tells us of a Woman that was kept fasting, and without Sleep, till she confessed, and called her Imp Nan; which when she had got Sleep, and refreshed her self, she deny'd again: But it does not therefore follow, that she was innocent, her first Confession making her guilty.

4

n

ė,

or

ve I

I

d,

d

is

10

)-

n

of of

e, k.

10

T,

1,

y

1,

e

e

4704

-

n

Page the 85th, he tells of walking them, and fwimming of them, till they would confess; and of searching for Teats, and other Marks; and this he calls Barbarity: But is it not more Barbarity to suffer them to damnify and abuse their Neighbours, by their ill Practices? And as none but People of ill Characters, and whose Actions had given just Grounds of Suspicion, were used so; it seems to be no more Hardship, than it is to bring a suspected Highwayman before a Judge upon his Tryal; there being no way of Conviction without Tryal, nor any Punishment without Proof.

The next Paragraph, the Doctor is offended, that the Parliament being addressed, rather encouraged the Execution of Justice, than suffer'd the wicked to go on in their ways, and sollicit evil Spirits to execute their ill Designs; as too many do now-a-days. But, Page the 86th, he brings a Text out of Hudibras to assist his Burlesque, and tells us, that Hopkins was at last abused for his good Service, being abused by one Party, because he was encouraged by the other.

In the next Paragraph, the Doctor is angry, because he called Mr. Lowes a Reading Parson: But if he was so, where was the Injustice? Would he have him called a Bishop? But the Doctor will not believe Mr. Lowes Confession, the Mr. Baxter witnesseth it. Is not Mr. Baxter's Affirmation as good? Proof, as the Doctor's Supposition is to the contractly? He was a Man of great Learning, great Parts, and singular Piety; why should not his Word, in the Affirmative, be better than a Denial, without Evidence to the contrary? All that he fays, he wants to know the Time, and the Ship's Name and Witnesses; and spends the whole 88th Page in Circumlocutions about Mr. Baxter's Relation, How should any body know the Ship's Name, and no body to enquire; the Ship being at Sea . But he asks, what Gain could be got by the Fact? Or what Gain could be got by his Accufation? The Doctor, I thought, had known very well, what Gain Mr. Lowes might expect to get, for ruining fo many Families: He confessed the Fact, and received the Wages of Sin, which is Death. We know, that the Devil goes about like a roaring Lyon, sesking whom he may devour; and if he can delude any poor Creatures to join and confent with him in Mischief, he brings them in guilty of the Fact, without Hopes of Reward or Provocation. I would ask the Doctor, what Harm Mankind have done to the Devil, that he should covet to betray them to Sin and Death? Is it to spite God Almighty, by destroying his Works; being capable of no other Mifchief? And as he does Mischief without Hopes of Gain, or Provocation, so he takes delight to missead Mankind, and draw them into the same Snare, to fight and war against Heaven.

But, Page the 89th, the Doctor gives Mr. Lewel an extraordinary Character, and prints the following Letter to second it; from Mr. Rivett, a Gentleman of Brandston.

SIR.

cc zard than he was.

t

1 1

I

C

d

C fi

1 fe

ec

44

CC

ec. CC

CC

-00

23 ba

ra

where was the line " In Answer to your Request concerning Mr. Lower er my Father was always of the Opinion, that " Mr. Lowes suffer'd wrongfully; and hath often " faid, That he did believe he was no more a Wi-out he

me,

ge,

on.

end But

Or

The

ain

any

the hat

ing

in

act.

e to

to

de-

Mif-

lead

to ewel.

ing

nem

wes,

that fren

Wi-

A

As to the first Character, he might be in other Actions effected a good Man, and yet be guilty of this Crime. You hear nothing alledged against a great many Offenders, but the Fact they are accused of; and if that be proved, or they confess it, the Law gives Judgment: And therefore we must suppose, that it was proved; or elfe the Judge and Jury would never have brought him in guilty, and condemned him. If his Accusers were in fault, the Witnesses and his Confession must stand against him, or a Judge would never be fo wicked to condemn an innocent Person, without Hopes of Gain, no more than the Jury would bring him in guilty: So that if he committed the Crime, what fignifies the rest of his Character? He was not liang'd for his good Character, but for the Crime he confessed, and was accused of. And as for Mr. Rivett's Character, that does not fay he was not guilty; it only fays, he could be no Witness against him: Nor can I, any further than as the Story is related: And for any Thing the Doctor offers to the contrary, the Case feems to carry the same Shew of Truth as it did before.

But to go on with the Letter: He writes, "I have heard it from them that watch'd with him, that they kept him awake several Nights together, and run him backwards and forwards about the Room, until he was out of Breath. Then they rested him a little, and then ran him again; and thus they did for several Days and Nights together, till he was weary of his Life, and was scarce sensible of what he did. They swam him at Framlingham; but that was no true Rule to try him by, for they put in honest People, and they swam as well as he.

This walking and running, the Doctor thinks barbarous; but I cannot think it true, for those that ran with him, must suffer themselves as well as

26

4

4

.

V

01 ga

fh

ra

ru

th

im

wh

liev

feff

it i

less

F

0 18

a

K

th

V

fo

an

an ke

lof

rme

eve

ony is O

nd w oor

t w

he; and they would scarce use themselves barbaroully: Nor can I think, that running and walking could make a Man senseless. The Doctor mistrusts Reports on the other Side, but is willing to believe any Thing that favours his Cause; but supposing this true, could this make him guilty; would he confels himself guilty of Death, because he was weary of walking or running; this is more incredible than what is alledged against him.

But to proceed, our Witchfinder-General, Mr. Hokins, owned, "that he had Twenty Shillings a Town for going to them." And if he had, does that lessen the Guilt of the Person? Must not the Doctor's Parishioners believe what he says in the Pulpit, because he is paid for his Pains? Could a Man live, and travel, without Reward or Payment?

He fays further, "that they had fwam many; that " they had watched them for Four Nights running, and does not deny but they had kept them stand-"ing, or walking, till their Feet were bliftered;" for which Mr. Hopkins gives this very good Reason. The Reason, says he, was to prevent their couching down; for indeed when they be suffered so to couch, immediately come their Familiars into the Room, and scare the Watchers, and hearten on the Witch, &c. So it is not the Barbarity of the watching, but the fearfulness of the Watchers, that may give the Doctor Reason to complain, if there be any.

As for the Story of the Old Woman, the Doctor does not deny but that it hath been confirmed; but notwithstanding he cannot contradict it, he would lesfen the Credit by Infinuations; fays he, "What figni"fies Confessions, after such Usage?" Yet I do not find the Old Woman was ill nsed, but that this was a voluntary Confession; but the Doctor goes on, Old Women are apt to make such Fancies of themce selves-and after hearing how familiar the Devil was

"was with others, and what Imps they had, she might begin to think that a Beggar-boy had been a Spirit, and Mice upon her Mother's Bed, had been her Imps." A very likely Story! that an Old Woman should fallly accuse her self to be hanged; or how simple must the Daughter be, to think a Beggar-boy a Spirit, and yet not be afraid; or why should she think Mice Imps, when she said, what ran into the Bed was like a Mole; or was a Mole running into the Bed, like Mice playing upon it? this is a weak Evasion of the Doctor's; he would impose this Suggestion, yet Mr. Baxter's Testimony, which he cannot deny neither, must not be believed.

Yet though the Doctor cannot disown the Confession, he would further evade it, by representing it in another Manner, hoping to make it appear of less Credit, which rather confirms it.

1

2

28

e

-

n

at

g, d-

2"

n.

ng

h,

m,

he

he

nat

ere

- 22

?tor

but

lef-

mi-

not

was 011,

em-

livs)

was

He fays, " Elizabeth Clark, an old Beggar with only one Leg, they faid, had an Imp, called Vinegar Tom; another called Sack and Sugar; and another that, the faid, the would fight up to the Knees in Blood, before the would lofe it. She faid the Devil came to her Two or Three Times a Week, and lay with her like a Man; and he was fo very likely a Man, that she was forced to rise and let him in, when he knocked at the Door. and the felt him Warm. Goodwife Highres kept her Imp a Year and half with Oatmeal, and loft it." This Confession the Dostor hath had conmed, yet he is very hard to be persuaded to beeve what is contrary to his Inclination; no Testiony will prove any Thing, which fuits not with Sopinion; he will yet favour his espoused Cause; nd would make us believe they " had kept these for People without Meat or Sleep, till they knew twell what they faid; yet the Daughter confes'd ey found Money; and he just before says, she had Money Money given every Day, almost, for telling the Stor ry; now if she had Money given her every Day, what occasion had she to want Meat; or how can he suppose that she knew not what she said, when he owns the told the Story to get Money?

Of the Witchcraft at Salem, Boston and Andover, in New-England.

Having taken a View of what the Doctor hath faid, to evade the Credit of the Suffolk Witches, we shall next take Notice how he manages his Caule,

Ru

fell

Mr

te l u v

or fel

He He

the

of

the

Fir

in respect of the New-England Witches.

As to the Case of Goodwin's Children, for the Bewitching of whom one Glover was hanged the Year before: Though the Truth of this was confirmed by Mr. Mather, and the Proof was fo under a priable, as to gain the Credit of Mr. Banter, and a fi others; and though, Page the 98th, he himself to for owns; "Such Fits may be Diabolical, for though a b " evil Spirits cannot be supposed in Reality to be w will differently affected, according to Popish or Inde-" pendent Notions; yet the same Spirit may coun-" terfeit a Torture, or a Delight at the very same Book, according as he can better make use of it an " for a Snare to those that are about him;" yet though the Doctor confesses the Possibility of the tol Truth, yet at the same Time he endeavours to baffe dds, and leffen the Cred t of it, by fuggeffing, " That the poor Old Woman being an hife Papilt, and " not ready in the Signification of English Words at " had entangled her felf by superstitious Belief, and "doubtful Answers about Saints and Charms." ers: very powerful Suggestion to baffle the Truth of a Historical Account of Matter of Fact. We mu ind ar take the Doctor's Suppositions for Arguments again ourne naked Truth; but how should this Woman comes deceiv believ believe any Thing the did not understand, and how could she suppose her self to understand, not knowing the Signification of Words.

1

6

C.

()

d

th

we

le,

a all

But the Doctor feems mightily offended at a feeming Reflection made upon the Common Prayer, which. yet may be really none; for who knows but the Devil may fubtily shew a liking to a good Book, to put some Persons our of Conceit with it? Yet this does not answer the Doctor's Intention, in not proving the Person possessed, if other Circumstances make it evident; nor does the Fallibility of this Rule take away the Possibility of persons being posfelfed.

But the Doctor observes one Thing further in the Mr. Mather's Book, "He took this young Woman the Home, that he might the better make his Observarions. She often used to say, that the Witches brought her an invisible Horse, and then she would ship into a Chair, and seat her self in a riding Posell sture; and after that she would be mov'd as if Amagh bling and Trotting, and Gallopping, she talked de with invisible Company, that seemed to go with de her, and listened for their Answers. After Two un- to Three Minutes, she would seem to think her interstells at a Rendevouz with Witches a good way off, fit and foon after return back upon her imaginary yet. Horse, and then come to her self; and once she the told Mr. Mather of Three that she said had been after there, and what they had said." To which he flat adds, "In many other Authors, there are Relations and of Persons that have been seen to lye still intranced ords at Home, while they have said they have been at and these Witches Meetings." From which he in-firs:

First, That those that have made no Compact, mu and are not Witches, may fancy they take these airy ourneys with Witches: But though Persons may be not seceived, and imagine strange Things, it does not follow aD

Cat

An

W

to c ceit

tho

fent

rea.

Spin

bro que

thou

of

wh

not

of

tt a

c t

"

are

the

Int:

on

go

00

.

cc .

der

no

follow that all must be thus deceived; the Innocence of some Persons does not take away the Crimes of the Guilty; there being a great deal of Difference betwixt Persons owning a Contract, and confessing real Matters of Fact, and consenting to be deluded, and only fantaftical Imaginations.

But Secondly, the Doctor fays, these Journeys and Rendezvouzes are not real, but fantastical Things; and that Mr. Mather, and a House-full of Witnesses stood by, and saw her at home in her Chair, when the thought her felf at their Meetings. To which I answer, that even those that have made Compact with the Devil, and confess themselves Witches, are deluded by Spirits, and fancy they do what the Spirits act for them; but fince what is done is by their Confent, and at their Request, this makes them guilty of those Actions, they being intentionally done and committed by them; and though others are possessed only with Imaginations, yet if those Imaginations proceed from the Suggestions of an evil Spirit, the Person may be said to be possessed, though no Compact were made; and these Persons are only to be diflinguished, by the Consent they give to such Thoughts, and the Actions proceeding from them; and if they confess themselves guilty, the Doctor's Infinuations to the contrary cannot render them Guiltless.

But further, the Doctor says, these Journeys, Escape were like fantastick Things, or Dreams; but to this I answer, that we find in Scripture, that Dreams are not fantastick Things only, but often proceed from the Suggestions of good or bad Spirits; for foel ii. 28. we find the Prophet declares, I will pour out my Spirit upon all Flesh, and your Sons and your Daughters shall Prophess, your old Menshall dream Dreams, your young Menshall see Visions; and Genesis xxxi. 10. Facob tells us, It came to pass at the Time that the Cattle conceived, that I lifted up my Eyes, and saw is a Dream,

30

of

ce

ng

d,

be

$;

es

en I

ct

its

in-ndi Ted

he

mdi-

ich

m;

In-

m

30.

his

are 28.

my

gb-

ms, 100 the

p 18

ann

a Dream, and behold the Rams which leaped upon the Cattle were Ring-streaked, Speckled, and Grissed. And the Angel of God spake unto me in a Dream. Which not not only shews, that Spirits can present to our Mindstrue Idea's of Matters of Fact, but that those Idea's are real, and not such imaginary Conceits as the Doctor would suppose them: And though the Person was in the Chair, yet the Representation of the Horse, and these Journeys might be real, depending on the Suggestions of an evil Spirit.

Again, Matth. 27. 19. When our Saviour was brought before Pilate, When he was set down on the Judgment-Seat, his Wife sent unto him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with that just Man; for I have suffered many Things this Day in a Dream, because of him. And if Spirits can thus affect Bodies, and which were real Sufferings because of him, why may not this Woman suffer by an evil Spirit, by Means of an evil Agent that employed that Spirit?

But the Doctor proceeds, "Courts of Justice may as well hang People upon their Confessions, for the Murthers they think they commit in their Dreams, as for what they fancy they do in these "Trances." To which I answer, that Confessions are always esteemed equal to Proof; and if they confess themselves consenting, it implies them guilty of the Fact those Spirits did by their Consent, those Spirits being set at Work by them.

Page 101, the Doctor, after some slight Resections upon Persons, who were Men of Note, and of good Characters in the World, tells us, "Here I will "lay before you a brief State of the Facts of those "New-England Witchcrafts. My Author, for the "greatest Part of it, is Mr. Calef, a Merchant in "that Plantation." The Doctor believes small Evidence great Arguments on his Side, but on ours will not believe Scripture, Reason, the Testimony of Witnesses.

nesses, nor Peoples own Confessions; the Testimony of a fingle Person that favours his Cause is more prevalent. But let us fee how these Relations tend to his k

c fr

(

2 3

ties

¢¢ 1

((

con

Pe

Ev

his 66

cc

6:

46

11 th

hi

gu

th 16

Advantage. " In the latter end of February, 1694 Par divers young Persons belonging to the Family of Spin Mr. Parris, Minister of Saleur, and one or more of Persons of Persons in the Persons the Neighbourhood, began to act after a strange ness ec and unufual Manner. They crept into Holes, and far er under Chairs and Stools. They used Antick Ge- Fal fures, and spoke ridiculous Speeches, and fell into " Fits. After some Time, and a Day of Prayer kept, the afflicted Persons named several that they sitt c. faid they faw in their Fits afflicting them; and in who particular an Indian Woman, that lived in Mr. rest Parris's House, and had tried a Trick with Rye. Meal, and the Childrens Water laid in Ashes, and faid the Devil urged their being beaten, and faid the Devil urged there to fign a Book. Others confessed their being the Rook. et urged to fign the Book. One faid it was a " " Red Book of a confiderable Thickness, and about a Cubit long.

"In a little Time the Number of the Afflicted increased to Ten. One Goodwin Cory was examin-" ed; the afflicted faid, she bit, pinched, and " strangled them. They said, they saw her Likeness " bring a Book to them to fign. At the Time of " her Tryal, they faid, a Black Man whispered in " her Ear, and that the had a Yellow Bird, that even then sucked betwen her Fingers. Orders " were given to fearch the Place. The Girl that faw " it, faid it was now too late, the had removed a " Pin, and put it on her Head; upon Search it was found, that a Pin was there sticking upright.

" A Child about Four or Five Years Old, was ac-" cused and apprehended. The Accusers said this Pro complete Child bit them, and would show the Marks of processing the final Teeth upon their Arm. As many as the Child cast its Eyes upon, would complain that they were in Torment." Now in these Stories the Particulars evidently make it appear, that some evil Spirit must act at the Request or Consent of these Persons; and if you disbelieve the Truth of Witnesses and Confessions, and demonstrating Circumstances, we may disbelieve and reject any Histories as Falthoods and Impositions.

The Doctor mentions some Cases where the Parameters of the Parameter

they

Mr.

hes,

sd

ged

ing

$ 2 out

ted

im-

ind

ress

of

in nat

ers

w

/28

1C

118

ild

The Doctor mentions some Cases where the Pareyer ties did not confess, yet if the Proof is sufficient, a stiff denial of Guilt is no Argument of Innocence, in when a Man's Safety depends upon it. Amongst the rest, he mentions Rebecca Nurse, that was executed. Rye a At first the Jury brought her in Not Guilty; im-" mediately all the Accusers in the Court, and suddenly after all the afflicted out of Court, made a " hideous Outcry, to the Amazement not only of " the Spectators, but of the Court. They were fent " out again, to confider better of one Expression of " hers, and returning again, they brought her in " Guilty." Now if Witnesses, a Judge and Jury could not judge of her Guilt, how thould a fingle Perfon pretend to think her innocent? Can a fingle Evidence be of more Force than a Multitude?

To these he adds other Instances, which are against his Purpose; "one ofing folemn Expressions of his "Innocency, the Accusers witnessed, that the Black " Man dictated to him." Another " made his " Escape Forty Miles from Salem, yet it is said, that " the Accusers told the exact Time when he was ap-" prehended, faying, now Millard is taken." And though Giles Cary pleaded Not Guilty, and suffered himself to be Pressed; this implied, that he was guilty rather than innocent, and chose rather to dye that way, than by a publick Execution. He fays, the Cart going to the Hill with others, was fer gre

of

th

an

fel

80

66

"

66

CC

23

66

20

"

66

*

66

C

CC

..

66

"

51 for a Time," The afflicted faid the Devil hin-Page the 106th, he tells us of a Question started. Whether the Devil could afflict in a good Man's Shape? And upon a Belief of this, several were for ry for the Death of accused Persons; and Page 108, above Fifty that confessed themselves Witches were not executed; and surther, Page 112, several who had been upon Juries, made the following Acknowledgment; "we confess our selves were not capable to understand, nor able to withstand, the mysterious Delusions of the Powers of Darkness, and Prince of the Air.

Now if we consider what the Doctor hath offered in these sew Pages, it appears, that he owns that the Devil can afflict in a good Man's Shape; and if so, why not in a bad one? This is granting what we contend for, and against what the Doctor hath all along been arguing for; and if the Devil can act in any Shape, he may afflict at the request of those who have made a Compact; and consequently there may be a Compact, and if so, a Witch; and if such, why should they not be examined into, and suffer according to Merit? Though in the beginning of his Essay, he would have them punished by the righteous ludge.

But he fays, above Fifty confessed themselves Witches, and were not executed, which still might convince him that there were such Creatures, since they themselves ought to know whether they had made any Compact with the Devil, or not. But he says, the Jurymen confessed they were not able to withstand the mysterious Delusions of the Prince of Darkness, which surther is owning his Power; and if he hath such a Power, why might he not execute his Power upon those Witches, as well as upon them? But Mr. Cales single Testimony is not sufficient Witness of what he relates, after so many Witnesses hin-

rted.

an's

for-108,

were

had edg-

to:

ious

ince

ered

the

fo,

we

all

t in

who

nay

uch,

ac-

his

eous

lves

ght

nce

had

t he

to e of

and cute

pon

fici-

Vie-

refles to the contrary. We have much more reason to question the Truth of what he relates, than of a great many more credible Testimonies; but this is an Author after the Doctor's own Heart; and being of his Mind, must needs be believed by him; thought the unlikeliness of the Truth of what he says, will make others disbelieve him, since what he says amounts to no less than Contradiction, affirming Possessions not probable, yet owning them confessed.

But the Doctor quotes a further Relation of these Matters, published by Mr. Cotton Mather, at the 80th Page of his Sixth Book of the History of New-England, which is as follows: " But that which " chiefly carried Matters on to fuch a Height, was " the increasing of Confessions, until they amounted " to near upon Fifty; and Four or Six of them upon " their Tryals, owned their Guilt of the Crime, " and were condemned for the same, but not exe-" cuted. And many of the Confessors confirmed " their Confessions with very strong Circumstances, " as their exact Agreement with the Accusations of " the Afflicted; their punctual Agreement with the " Accusations of their fellow Confessors; their re-" lating the Times when they covenanted with Satan, and the Reasons that moved them thereto. "Their Witch-Meetings, and that they had their " Mock Sacrament of Baptism, and the Supper, in " fome of them: Their figning the Devil's Book. " and some shewed the Scars of the Wounds, which " they faid were made to fetch Blood with, to fign " the Devil's Book: And some faid, they had Imps " to fuck them, and shewed Sores raw, where they " faid they were fucked by them.

"The afflicted complained that the Spectres which vexed them, urged them to fet their Hands to a Book, presented to them, (as to them it seemed) with Threatnings of great Torments, if they

" figned not, and Promises of Ease, if they or beved. Amongst these, D. H. as the faid ( (which fundry others confessed afterwards) being which fundry orners contened a Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains, did fign of overcome by the Extremity of her Pains over the pains of the pains over t the Book presented, and had the promised Fale; and immediately upon it, a Spectre in her Shape " afflicted another Person, and said I have figured " "the Book, and have Ease, and now do you fign, " and fo shall you have Ease. I do not a controlled

Now, though the Doctor thinks this Story to his " Purpose, I think it altogether against him; for "in the first Place it proves Compasts, and Consent to " be the Devil's Servant; and though another is brought into the fame Premunire by the Subtilty of on the Devil, yet when they are brought into the fame ow Bargain, they are equally guilty, and give way to the on Devil's Delufions; and when they confent to be this ed. Vassals, they seem guilty of his Actions in their aga Name, though he does these ill Deeds for them, mo And though the Devil acts, their Consent to be his of Servants, and to those Actions, makes them guilty, Dia and liable to the Punishment due to those Deeds, gor But to proceed to the Account, as the Doctor relates whit, he goes on.

"And one Day the afflicted Person pointed at a certain Place in the Room, and faid there is add to D. H. upon which a Man with his Rase pier struck at the Place, though he families and the afflicted called out, you have given the faid D. H. confessed her felf to be made a Was Witch, by signing the Devil's Books, and declared on

"Witch, by figning the Devil's Books, and declared for that the had afflicted the Maid that complained fair. of her, and in doing of it had received Two E. Wounds, by a Sword or Rapier; a small one wer

" about the Eye, which the shewed to the Magi-a strates, and a bigger on the Side, of which she was show " fearched by a discreet Woman, who reported that wou " D. H. had on her Side the fign of a Wound newly id " healed, Se.

gri

" By these Things you may see how these Matters ign " were carried on, viz. chiefly by the Complaints and Accusations of the afflicted, and then by the "Confessions of the accused, condemning themselves and others; yet Experience shews, that the more there were apprehended, the more they were after stificted by Satan; and the Number of the Confessions." his " fions increasing, did but increase the Number of

for the accused: And the executing of some made way for the apprehending of others.

Thus we see that those that were convicted, not only by their Accusers and afflicted, but also by their own Confessions, must very probably be punished upon moral Certainty; and if the Numbers apprehended made Satan the busyer, it appears that warring against the Devil and his Angels makes them the more engaged and active: and as the Legion cast our em, more enraged and active; and as the Legion cast out his of one, entered into a whole Herd of Swine, so this ilty, Diabolical Army, upon some Defeats, were more vi-eds. gorous in their Temptations; which answers for what is subjoined in this Quotation: "For still the afflicted complained of being tormented by new objects, as the former were removed." But he adds, "Henceforth the Juries generally acquitted fuch as were tried, fearing they had gone on too far before. And Sir William Phipps, the Governor, reprieved all that were condemned, even the chis, "Confessors as well as others." So Princes leave off War, when they find great loss of Subjects; and cometimes it may be necessary to speak the Devil ared fometimes it may be necessary to speak the Devil ined fair.

But he adds the Reasons why he believed they went too far. First, "The Number greater than agi-" could be imagined to be really guilty." But I was should rather think, that the Number of Witnesses that would confirm the Truth of any Thing; but I find . H.

the Doctor likes the least Evidence best, because he hath the fewest for his Opinion.

His Second Reason is, "The Quality: Religious Persons, that had taken great Pains to bring up their Children well." This is a peculiar Reason, But we seldom hear of Religious Persons accusing themselves of ill Deeds, or confessing the Practice of Witchcrast; their Religion must be strangely contrived, and only sit for the Worship of the Devil, in which way we find they have been too zealous.

His Third Reason is, "Nineteen denying the Crime to Death." But I suppose they were tried and condemned by sufficient Proof and Evidence against them, which in any Capital Crime, or of less Consequence, prevails against the denying of the Fast, or Thieves and Murtherers would oftener escape than they do.

His Fourth Reason is, "Upon ceasing the Prosecution, all was well and quiet." Thus when Sin is unregarded, no Criminals are brought to Justice; yet severe Laws deter evil Practices, though not put in Execution: Nevertheless, several Crimes are committed, but so cunningly, as not to be discovered.
And Witches seldom do much Mischief, but when their Malice and Envy is stirred up by Provocations.
And very often the Devil excites his Servants to do Mischies, that they may discover and betray themselves, having not fully obtained his End, till he hath got them into his Kingdom; and, like a just Master, gives them an ill Reward for their evil Practises.

But let us see further what the Doctor offers upon this Subject. He says, Page 117, "There is nothing in this whole Case seems so strange to me, as what they say of evil Spirits appearing in the Shape of innocent Perfons.

t

V

d

t fi

V

R

fe

"

00

23 ft

m

th ife he

gious

ng up

asion, using ce of

con-

De-

too

the

tried

dence or of f the

tener

role-

Sin

tice;

put

com-

ered.

when

tions.

to do

hem-

l he just evil

upon

nome, n the

The

The Doctor, notwithstanding all Proof to the contrary, would still suggest these Persons fairly convicted innocent; yet evil Spirits appearing in the Shape of innocent Persons, does not prove such as are lawfully convicted innocent; because they are convicted for evil Actions, and confequently cannot be innocent Persons. But it needs not seem strange to the Doctor, that the Devil may appear in the Shape of innocent Persons, fince the Scripture witnesses that he hath sometimes transformed himself into the Appearance of an Angel of Light, fo that he may borrow a Vehicle to make him appear in that Shape; and fo far I am of the Doctor's Opinion, that, to use his own Words, " I can never believe, but that " Divine Providence would interpose, and lay their " natural Powers under a Divine Restraint, rather " than to suffer them to use them for such Mischief." But then I believe what the Doctor fays, upon these Terms, that those Persons resist Temptations; and this is the Defence good Men have against him; but they lose the Name of good Men, when they give way to Temptations; and upon those Terms Providence hath suffered them to do Mischief; but though the Devil entered into Judas, yet the rest resisted fuch Temptations: Nor can I think Providence would fuffer any to be poffessed, if they had not in some Measure forsaken him.

But let us see further, what the Doctor hath offered upon this Occasion. He says, "if Magistrates "do their Duty in true Judgment, and punish Of"fenders only for their own real acts of Wickedness,
"not for the Effects that Spirits work in other Mens "Shapes without them, then his Appearances will hurt no body." To which I answer, that Magistrates do their Duty, if they punish Offenders upon moral Proof, which is legal Testimony; and as for the real Acts of Witches, they cannot be done by a Witch only, she being no more than another WoE 2

E

4.6

b

1 t

SSi

t

(

6

.

1

C

1

.4

1

man of her self; for it is her Compact with evil Spirits, and employing them, that makes her a Witch; and as they do Mischief by their Authority, they are answerable for their Crimes, and guilty of their Actions, and consequently liable to Punishment; and as for appearing in their Shapes, they being the Witches Servants, they ought to wear their Livery or Likeness, or what other Dress or Shape they are fittest to do their Work in. But he says his Appearances would do no Hurt, if Magistrates punished only Offenders for their own Acts: To which I reply, that the Mischief done on those tortured, is Hurt, I believe, though the Witch were to be supposed innocent; but since the Hurt is done by the Witches hired Servant by Compact, she is guilty of the Hurt.

But the Doctor goes on, " If contrary to the frequent Warnings in Scripture, those who are to " judge those Cases, give evil Spirits the Advantage et against them, hath God any where promised, that by a particular Act of Power, he will fave credu-" lous Men from being deceived, because otherwise " the Blood of innocent Men will be in Danger? How Judges can give Spirits any Advantage in deceiving them, or be blamed for their Credulity, I cannot understand, when they all upon moral Proof, and downright Confessions; such Judgment cannot make them in danger of spilling innocent Blood, when they only condemn the Guilty according to Law, and which is warranted by Scripture; nor are there any Warnings in Scripture, not to punish evil Doers: This is consistent with the Laws of God and Man. See Galatians v. 18, 19, 20, 21. But if ye be led by the Spirit, ye are under the Law. Now the Works of the Flesh are manifest, which are these, Adultery, Fornication, Uncleanness, Lasciviousness: Idolatry, Witchcraft, Hatred, Variance, &c. and such like; of the which I tell you before, as I have also told final not inherit the Kingdom of God. Where Witcheraft is condemned by the Laws of God. And Ezodus xxii. 18. Thou shalt not suffer a Witch to Live. And again, Deuteronomy xviii. 10. There shall not be found amongst you, any one that maketh his Son or his Daughter to pass through the Fire, or that useth Divination, or an Observer of Times, or an Enchanter, or a Witch. and Verse 11. Or a Charmer, or a Consulter with familiar Spirits, or a Wizard, or a Necromancer. From all which it appears, that the Seripture both believes and condemns this detestable Sin; but the Doctor is more merciful, and exceeds infinite Mercy in Compassion.

1 Spi-

itch :

they

their

and

the

ivery

v are

Ap-

fhed I red, is fup-

the y of

fre-

to age

hat

du-wise er?

de-

ity,

oral ent

MI

rd-

re;

of

.1.

w.

re f-

21

ld

But to proceed, after all this Scuffle, Page 118, the Doctor fays, " I will add some Unstances, where " evil Spirits have been faid to have appeared in the " Shapes of those that have not been suspected to be " otherwise than very innocent and virtuous Per-" fons," But foon after he fays, growing modest in Vindication of his favourite Relations, " I dare " not affure you of my own Belief of the Instances " I shall give." To which we offer, that a great many evil Actions may be fecretly committed, before Persons are suspected, especially having Art enough to deceive the World. But as for the Instances, fince the Doctor fays he does not believe them, I shall not think it worth while to take Notice of them. Only one Thing I cannot but observe, which is, that though Page 66, he condemns the Golden Legend, as containing incredible Stories, and lying Miracles, attributing Mistakes of this Kind to be built upon Popish Superstitions, yet to serve his Turn, he brings a Proof out of Popish Legends; so that any Thing to ferve his Turn hath Two Handles, and yet neither of them to be taken From what hath been faid of the Wetc. to blod New-England, it appears what Pains the Dock

E.4.

Page:

hath

Fact

Testi

we f respe

c is

" C

d p er C

d fi

ce to

c a atte

WO!

"

((

litt

as

ou

M

his

ha

th

ye

th an Pi

av

Page 121 and 122, he fays, "Since I have collect. ed and drawn up these Things, I see the Author of the Compleat History of Witchcraft, &c. hath ce printed the first Facts and Depositions, that deceived the People of New England; and hath st ftopt there, without giving notice of the Mistakes that followed. And who can be able to give a rational Answer to such a Case, where the Fact is " laid before him fo partially?" The Doctor is difgusted, because I have only taken notice of Matters of Fact proved by Depositions; but, to satisfy the Doctor, the Reason why I stopt there, was, because I thought nothing worth Notice, but what appear'd to be Truth well attested: And it is no little Satisfaction, that the Doctor thinks a rational Answer cannot be given against them. But how Truths well attested should deceive the People, I cannot understand, fince Truths and Falshoods ought to be distinguished: And if they made any Mistakes, they diminish not the Value of what was true, and confequently not of our History. But the Doctor charges me with Partiality, because I relate only Truths; which was the Intent of that History: And, to conclude this Discourse of the New-England Witches, I shall only ask the Doctor, whether he is not more partial in bringing Relations, which he would suppose false, to lessen the Credit of Truths? Tho' from what he hath faid, it appears, that he hath rather endeavour'd to represent them so; and hath made use of more cunning Evasions and Infinuations, than strong Arguments, if any at all.

Of the Witchcrafts at Mohra, in Sweden.

From what hath been faid of the Witchcrafts in New-England, it appears what Pains the Doctor hath eet.

hor ath

death

kes

ea

is lif-

ers

he

ne

r'd

a-

er hs

ni-

y

1-

S

0

s,

e

hath taken to evade the Histories of Matters of Fact, well attested by the Authority of Men, the Testimony of Scripture, and their own Confessions; we shall next take a View of what he hath said in respect of the Witchcrafts at Mohra, in Sweden.

Page 123, he fays, "The Narrative of their Case " is faid to be taken out of the Records of the " Court, soon after the Time, and is since transla-" ted out of High-Dutch by Dr. Horneck, and is " printed at the End of Mr. Glanvil, and Dr. More's " Relations of Witches and Spirits. There were " condemned at one Time of Judgment, no longer " fince than 1670, Fourscore and five Persons, Fif-" teen of whom were Children, and most, if not " all of them, were burnt and executed." To this attested Truth upon Record, and credited by such worthy Persons, after some trivial Banter, he says, "Tho' it be a great Disadvantage to answer, where " one hath little or no Account of the Fact-yet " it confutes it felf." So that tho' the Doctor hath little or no Account of the Fact, which is recorded as Truth, yet he will undertake to banter us out of our Belief, by his undeniable Method of Evafion and Suggestion. And, first, he calls the Records of Matters of Fact, supposed Witchcrafts; and brings in his canting Notion of Principles; as if no body had good Principles but himself, who contradicts the Testimony of Scripture and Moral Proof, yet blames others, who upon good Grounds pursue the direct Commands of Scripture, in discouraging and punishing such Vices. As for his Notion of Principles, that having been often answer'd to, to avoid as much as possible vain Tautologies, we shall only refer the Reader to what hath been faid of the New-England Witches, the same Evasions being there proposed by this Learned Author.

was on his E 5 ds and Feet. A

Page

Page 124, and 125, he observes, "There were Three Hundred Children said to be carried away every Night, out of one Town, to Blockula. The et Children faid, they were fure they were there in Body; for the Devil fed them at the Door, while " the Witches fat down with him at the Table." To prove this, the Doctor calls for Witnesses, after, recorded and proved before Judge and Jury; and, to leffen the Credit of recorded Truths, adds the suppofed Testimony of a Clergyman, saying, " One Clergyman fat up and watch'd, and shewed his Wife the Child in Bed all Night; only about Twelve a-Clock, the Child groaned and shiver'd." But who knows, whether this Clergyman fat up or not? May he not be as fallacious as other Clergymen the Doctor accuses of Impositions? Or might not Dr. Horneck, Glanvil, and Dr. More's Belief, be as prevailing as Dr. Hutchinson's Unbelief of these Tales? But about Twelve a-Clock, the Child groaned and shiver'd: This the Doctor would needs atcribute to dreaming of the Devil; when "the poor Women of the Town confess what the Children a faid of them.

But the Doctor is further disturbed with "Monfrous Absurdities;" what others believe upon real Proof, the Doctor's Genius, being beyond Faith, equal to his superabundant Clemency, would neither believe what is proved, nor punish the convicted. But must every Thing that is monstrous be absurd in respect of Belief, that is so in regard to the common Rule of Reason? Or would he have the monstrous Actions of Witches and Devils, to be like those that are natural? They are monstrous Credtures; and therefore the Scripture deems them not fit to live, because their Actions are like themfelves.

CC

a to a th

a a

16 0

a T

K :0

ec v

a. S

a n

4.7

66 t

Thi

WOI

nat

to 1

in ( vil

doe

25 ma

on

CC ;

10

at ,

the

tor

Li

fo

no

A

m

"

te

ay

he

in

le

er,

to.

0-

r.

ve.

ut

3 ie.

ot

e

r

n

'n

n

H

" These Women and Children, they say, rode " to Blockula upon Men; and those Men, when " they came there, were reared against the Wall " afleep. Then again they rode upon Posts, or up-" on Goats, with Spits stuck into their Backsides. "They flew thro' Chimneys and Windows, with-" out breaking either Brick or Glass. When they " were there, they lay with the Devil, and had « Sons and Daughters; and those Children were " married, and brought forth Toads and Serpents. "Then they build Houses, and Walls fall upon "them, and make them black and blue." These Things the Doctor believes to be monfrous; and I would ask the Doctor, Does any body think them natural? Are the Devil's Works like, or according to the Laws of Nature? But as we faid before, and in our Hiftory, no doubt but in some Things the Devil deludes, and makes them believe that what he does by their Confent, is done by them: But as long as it is by their Consent, and upon Compact, they may be faid to do it, and are guilty of fuch Actions.

He adds; "They are beaten, and abused, and "laugh'd ar; and yet when they thought the De"vil had been dead, they made great Lamenta"tion." I would ask the Doctor, when ever did the Devil use his Servants so kindly? Does he not torment them after Death, for serving him in their Lifetime? And if they were forry for the Loss of so bad a Master, it might be, because they could not pursue their malicious Intentions without his Assistance; or were like to lose those Advantages, that encourage People to follow such evil and abominable ways.

But it is faid, Page 126, "That at that very Time, while they were in Court before the Commissioners, the Devil appeared to them very terrible, with Claws on his Hands and Feet, and with Horns

fup

onl

"

" 3

« J

11

cc 1

cc (

ce f

66 ]

(( )

( )

00 for

to

ra

Ba

de

bu

11

ca:

in

A

do

fe.

te

th

W

m tl

N

fi

"Horns on his Head, and a long Tail behind; and shewed them a Pit burning, with a Hand pur out; but the Devil did thrust the Person down again with an Iron Fork." Here the Doctor asks, Whether there was really then any Pit burning? To answer which, I ask, Whether representing such a Thing to Appearance, was not an Argument of the Devil's Power in forming Apparitions? And then, why may he not make the People believe they do what nothing but a Spirit can do? But their Consent and Compact makes em guilty of the Fact: And if such Creatures forsake God, and serve the Devil in Will only, is not the Wages of Sin Death?

Page 127, the Doctor goes on thus: " They fay et they have Two Spirits, called Carriers, the one " like a Cat, the other like a Raven; and these fetch "them home Butter, and Cheefe, and Bacon, and all Sorts of Seeds, and Milk. Now, to pass by the rest, pray tell me, how this Cat and Raven brought home Milk? A Cat or Raven could not well carry a Pail; or Pitcher, for their Milk." The Question is not only ridiculous, but the Answer much more: For, as to the Question; If the Devil can appear in any Shape, no doubt but he might in those to human Sight, and yet be in his own Shape unseen, and carry a greater Burthen than they had Occasion for. Did not he carry our Saviour, and fet him upon a Pinacle of the Temple? Which proves him capable of moving bodily Substances: As Matth. 4. 5. Then the Devil taketh him up into the boly City, and fetteth him on a Pinacle of the Temple. And v. 8. Again the Devil taketh him up into an exceeding high Mountain. And if the Devil was able to carry our Saviour thus about, why may he not transport Witches about at his Pleasure, or fupply them with any Thing they want? As for the Answer; what can be more ridiculous, than to jupsuppose or call the Devil a Cat or a Raven, when he only appears in those Shapes ? ..... ..... at 10200 side

d:

but wn ks.

g ?

of

nd

ve

ut he ve

ay

ne

d

Dy

n ot

E.

il

n

d

d

h

e

The Doctor proceeds: "I can devise no way, un-" less they drank it first, and then spewed it up " again for the Witches to drink after them. And "I think, the 15th Page intimates that it was this " way; for there it is faid, That these Carriers " fometimes fill themselves so full, that they open " by the way; which Spewing is found in feveral "Gardens where the Colworts grow, and not far " from the Houses of those Witches, and is called " Butter of Witches." The Dostor adds, " I could " be glad I could find a way of representing the " Folly of this, without reflecting upon the Swedish " Commissioners and Dr. Horneck." But Dr. Hutchinfon will find the Folly of this Argument much harder to be represented without reflecting upon his Character; and I am forry he should place such mean Banter in the Room of Arguments. The Word devise is indeed, I think, of his own Devisement; but, without drinking it up, and spewing it again, I have just now made it appear, that the Devil can carry greater Burthens than a Pitcher of Milk, and in an unfeen Shape, tho' he may appear in another. And as for their spewing up Milk, that might be done at fuch Places mentioned, having fill'd themselves with it, besides what they otherwise carried: So that the Intimation of the Dostor's Way, is Banter instead of Reason; and I can scarce believe, that he truly thinks this way the intimated way of Page the 15th. And though he, in the next Page. would suppose this Milk the same with the Froth he mentions, and to come from the Grashoppers; yet the Quantity that would fill a Cat or a Raven, which intimates it not to be that which comes from Grashoppers; tho' the latter might be called Witches Butter, from some Likeness with the former. Besides, this which comes from Grashoppers, is called fo by the Rabble; the other Wetcher Butter, by those the Doctor is too timorous in ridiculing with a fup. politious Overlight, which appears to be none:

But Page 128, and 129, he takes notice, that " they were not these Circumstances, but their own " Confessions, which were the Grounds of their " Condemnation." But in Answer to this, he fays, " Confessio rei impossibilis, non est Confessio sana " mentis: A Confession of a Thing impossible, is " not the Confession of a found Mind. That will always be an inviolable Rule with wife Judges." A very good Suggestion for the Doctor's Purpose, but not proper in this Case. For tho' it is not reasonable a found Mind should confess Actions impossible for human Nature, or a Woman; yet a Witch, who acts by virtue of an evil Spirit, tho' in a found Mind, may confess Things done by her Confent and Direction, which are supernatural, and impossible for her alone, yet possible to that evil Spirit the employs: So that those Things which are impossible for a Woman that is not a Witch, are possible for a Witch, who acts by fupernatural Affistance or Concurrence. So that the Doctor's Rule comes thort of being an unavoidable Rule in the Case of Witch And as for their fewing un Well, that mi

But the Doctor would fill infinuate, this Confession is extorted, or that they are persuaded: But what Persuasions of human Kind can oblige People to confess a Crime, which makes them liable to suffer Death? Yet we see, in other Capital Crimes, Men often confess; their guilty Consciences strongly accusing them, and making them conclude it an unavoidable Necessity, and that it is impossible for them the Ourrety that would fill a Ore or asquesos this, this which comes from Grathoppen, is celled which inclinates it not to be that which comes from Grafasphers , the che latter might be called liver s Otter, from fome Likenels with the foruge, beWz off

dit

we

the 4

66

00

66

68

CC 4

CC

23

13

23

ec

90

29

99

in

23

Of the Witches of Warbois.

It appearing, from what hath been faid of the Witchcraft of Sweden, that what the Doctor hath offer'd in relation to that, cannot diminish the Credit which ought to be given to such undeniable Facts; we shall next see, what he hath to say in relation to the Witches of Warbois.

He begins: "The Witches of Warbois are well known; Old Samuel and his Wife, and Agnes Samuel, their Daughter, were condemn'd at Hun-tingdon, by Mr. Justice Fenner, April 4. 1573, for bewitching Five of Mr. Throgmorton's Childern, Seven Servants, the Lady Cronwell, and the Gaoler's Man, 59c. The Father and Daughter maintained their Innocence to the last; but the " Old Woman confessed.

ole

p.

nat wn

eir

ys,

na

is

H

s."

uť

n-

le

h,

d ıd

le

1-10

10

10

TD:

t

E

"That which makes the Execution more remarks able, is, That Sir Samuel Cromwell, Husband of the aforesaid Lady Cromwell, having the Goods of these People escheated to him, to the Value of Forty Pounds, as Lord of the Manor, gave the said Forty Pounds to the Mayor and Aldermen of Huntingdon, for a Rent-Charge of Forty Shillings yearly, to be paid out of their Town-Lands, for an annual Lecture on the Subject of Witchward, to be preached at their Town every Lady-Day, by a Doctor or Batchelor of Divinity of Queen's-College in Cambridge. This Lecture is continued to this Day.

To this the Doctor wifely, and with a good Meaning, answers: I make no Question but that "Learned Body hath taken care to have that Lee ture preached by such grave, judicious Persons," (by which he seems to reseas upon his own Gown, as if some were neither grave nor judicious) "as ee would

wh

CIO

bod

out it b

till

pro

for hav

fer

to

of

wh

gin

( (

66 ]

.

20

CC 1

CC .

cc ]

CC 2

To

Wi

acc

wa

AE

of

cep

W

dif

fur

the

would teach the People safe Notions (so that we may suppose, according to his Suggestion, that some preach unsafe Notions) "concerning Witch-"crast, and discourage them from imitating any Thing that was amiss in that Prosecution." So that those that are of the Doctor's Opinion may hope for grave and judicious Characters, but those who are otherwise must expect the contrary. Here the Wisdom of a whole Learned Body is called in Question, lest his Notion of Principles should be brought into Suspicion. It is a wonder they should admit of a Lecture being founded in Memory of such a Prosecution, or Condemnation: This seems to deserve the Doctor's Censure.

But he goes on, after his resolved Method of Argument: " And as for the Donation, there is no "doubt but that Superstition makes as large Offer-"ings as true Religion; and that many Gifts have " been given, to support the Credit of doubtful " Actions: And therefore I will pass over the Le-" cture, and confider the Fact." In the foregoing Part of his Essay, the Doctor charged the Papists and Dissenters with Superstition; but now the Church and all are guilty, and not only of Superstition, but Bribery to maintain a Cause: For he says, Many Offerings and Gifts have been given to Support it; which is directly charging the Ministers of the Gospel with that detestable Crime, because they preach against that Sin which the Scripture hath forbidden, and which this whole Essay seems vour.

But as to the Fact, he fays, "It ought to be ob"ferved, that this Profecution was not grounded "upon any previous Acts of Sorcery, that these People had been taken in, but upon Experiments and Charms, which the Profecutors compelled them to use, and tried upon them." To which I answer, that there must be a previous Suspicion, before any Prosecution can be made; for no body can be said to be prosecuted for a Crime, without Accusation, which implies a previous Act, tho it be not fully proved: Nor is there any sull Proof till they come upon Trial, and if then the Fact be proved, it justifies the Prosecution, as in this Case; for if the Fact had not been proved, they would not have been condemned: Therefore the Doctor's Suggestion must be wrong. Besides, it is worth observing, that the Doctor makes use of his usual Art, to gain his Casse if possible, and gives Judgment of the Beginning, before the Beginning is stated; which is managed with some Cunning, for the Case being stated, would alter the Judgment.

DI 10 AL 53

at

at

b-

ny So

ay

le

re

in

be

ey

TY

ns

Te

10

Î-

re

e-

g

h it

y.

14

h

.

ė

d

9

0

But after Judgment made, he proceeds to the Beginning, and fays; "Then the Beginning of it is " fuch, as makes the whole Thing deservedly suspect-" ed. One of the Daughters had Fits, and was ill; " but there were no Signs or Thoughts of Witch-" craft, till this Mother Samuel (living near them) " came in to see her, and sat in the Chimney-Cor-" ner, with a black Knit Cap upon her Head; and " when the Child in her Fit saw her, she look'd " like an old Witch; and from that Time she took " a Fancy, that Mother Samuel had bewitch'd her." To which I answer, That this Prosecution was not without Grounds of Sorcery; for the did not accuse her at first, yet her accusing her afterwards, was Ground to believe the was guilty of the first Act. Besides, how should an innocent Child think of her Distemper proceeding from Witchcraft; except she had some private Cause to think her a Witch? And further; her Phylicians would have distinguished betwixt the Symptoms of real and natural Distempers, and Accidents that proceeded from supernatural Causes; and if they could have found those Fits the Effects of natural Causes, that would have cleared the old Woman from any Suspicion; but fince upon this Suspicion she was accused, and upon further Proof was prosecuted, convicted, and likewise confessed, this was suspicient to prove her guilty the whole Time, and moral Proof was enough to confirm the Truth of the whole.

et

D

ur

L

Ol

th

V

fe

fa

to

E

lie

A

ar

P.

C

(0

ec

"

00

66

32

(6

ec

CC

23

CC

¢¢

cc

00

But the Doctor fays, " after that, the other Chil-" dren had the fame Fears and Fancies, and Fig " like hers; and nothing is more common than for "Children to take fuch Frights from one another." The Doctor readily calls extraordinary Fits diffinguishable from common Distempers, Fears and Fancies; a very artful way of foftening the Cafe, after a full Proof and Conviction. But it is not a little furprizing to me, that Children should take such Fits from one another; for though the Dodor fays nothing is more common, it is so seldom; that it never happens. I have read most Physick Books worth reading, but never heard any fach Thing before; nor have I, for above Twenty Years, ever feen it; no Fits being catching, except Epilepsies; and when it feems to happen, it is rather imagined than real; besides, Epilepsies are Distempers that have a long Time been so well known, that they might have easily been discovered, and distinguished from extraordinary Fits of a supernatoral Kind.

But, " after this, the Lady Cromwell, to whole Hulband these Samuels were Tenants, came to " Mr. Throgmorton's House She sent for the old "Woman, and called her Witch, and abused her, and called her Kercher, and cut off some of her "Hair, and gave to Mrs. Throgmorton to burn, for a Charm. At Night this Lady, as very likely the would, after such an ill Days Work, dream'd of Mother Samuel, and a Cat, and fell into Fits,

" and in about a Year and a Quarter died. And it her Death was really occasioned by the Fits that " began then, I can only count it a just Consequence

3 but

Mpon like-

ZULLTY h to

llin Chil.

Fits n for her." Hin-

Fan-

after ittle

fuch

fays

it it ooks

befeen

and han

ve a ght

om

ofe

to old

ner,

lier for

the

of

its,

hif

nat

rce of

" of her Sin, and Folly, and Superflition." The Doctor is very charitable to an old Witch, but very uncharitable and unmerciful to the unfortunate Lady; he would fave and excuse the Witch, that ought nor to Live, but would count it just for the Lady to fuffer Death, for pulling off the old Woman's Kircher, and a small Abuse that was deferving. He shews a mighty Friend to old Witches; furely he need not fear the Devil, who is fo kind to his Works, and the Promoters of his Interest upon Earth.

After this mighty faint Stroke to discredit the Belief of the Witches of Warbois, the Doctor gives an Account of Mother Samuel's Imps, and their Tricks; and that we may better judge of the Force of his Reflections, and especially because we think they confirm the Truth of the Profecution, and shew the Weakness of his Judgment, or his Partiality in this Case; whar he relates, is as follows:

" It is said in that Narrative, that there were " Nine Spirits that belonged to thefe People and cal-" led Mother Samuel their old Dame. Two of " their Names I have forgot, but the other Seven " were Pluck, Hardname, Catch, Three Smacks " that were Cousins, and Blew. The Children feem, " ed to talk with these Spirits in their Fits. The " Standers by neither faw any Shape, nor heard any "Voice, only understood what the Spirits faid, by " the Childrens Answers, and by what the Children " told them afterwards. I will give you a Specimen " of one, which you may find in the Narrative. "The Dialogue was between one of the Smacks, " and Mrs. Joan, the eldest Daughter of Mrs, "Throgmorton, about the Age of Sixteen or Seven-" teen Years; and as the Thoughts of young Wo-" men about that Age, were upon Love and Court-" ship, she thought Smack was in Love with her, " and fought to win her Favour, and taught her " Charms, lay fo

not c

her,

a B

" fu

6 OI

" fc

a ke

ce re

" N

( th of a tion kno

gun

bea

mu

to

non

do

luff

and

66

*

00

22

CC

(

fo

to

h

11

f

t

Y

"Charms, and fought for her, and promised to bring his old Dame either to Confession or Confusion. The Dialogue it self is as follows.

" From whence come you, Mr. Smack, and what " News do you bring? The Spirit answered, that he " came from Fighting. From Fighting, said she, " with whom, I pray you? The Spirit answered, with Pluck. Where did you Fight, I pray, faid " she? The Spirit answered, in his old Dame's Bake-" House, which is an old House standing in Mother " Samuel's Yard, and they fought with great Cowl-" staves, last Night. And who got the Mastery, I pray you, faid the? He answered; That he broke ee Pluck's Head. Said she, I would that you had " broke your Neck also. Said the Spirit, is that all the Thanks I have for my Labour? Why, fays she, " Do you look for Thanks at my Hand? I would you were all hang'd up one against another, and " Dame and all, for you are all naught; but it is no " Matter, said she, I do not well to Curse you, for "God, I hope, will defend me from you all. So he " departed, and bad her Farewell.

"Soon after she sees Pluck coming in, with his Head hanging down, and he told her again of the Battel, and how his Head was broke. When he was gone, Catch, she said, came in limping, with a broken Leg. And after him, Blew brought his Arm in a String; but they threatned, that when they should be well, they would join together, and be revenged of Smack. Next Time that Smack came, she told him of their Design, but she fet them at light. He bragged that he could beat Two of them himself, and his Cousin Smack would be of his Side." The Doctor says nothing to these Relations, but that they are as ridiculous as the Popish Legends; so that he needs must by something to intimate a Dislike, though he cannot contradict the Narrative.

fu-

hat

he

he,

ed,

uid

ener

yl-I

ke

id

ıll

ld

d

0

A

e

3

1

Yet still, notwithstanding all this Evidence against her, and her own Confession, the Doctor would needs represent her Confession extorted. He says, "But by long ill Usage, her Husband on one Side " fwearing at her, and beating her, and on the " other Side Mr. Throgmorton, and his Children, " scratching of her, and trying unfair Tricks, and " keeping her from Home, amongst his Children, I " reckon that her Health was so impaired, that one " Night she was vapoured to that Degree, that she " thought the Devil was in her." A cunning way of arguing; the Doctor's Reckoning, or Supposition, that she was weak and vapoured, though he knows nothing of the Matter, must pass for Argument against her Confession. As for her Husband's beating her, that could not be much, fince he was not much at Home, but was kept amongst the Children, to keep her in Awe, and fear of doing Mischief; nor could she want Victuals in a House, where, no doubt, she was much made of enough, to keep her lufty, and well in Health, as well as to please her, and make her good humoured.

But still he would have her Confession extorted; "The Children begg'd with Tears that she would con"fess, for then they said they should be well, if she "confessed, and they would forgive her from the bottom of their Hearts; and besides, that they would intreat their Friends and Parents so much as in them lay, clearly to forgive, and forget all that was pass,—but this would not do." Therefore this could not extort her Confession, she being too obstinate to yield to ease those she had exercised her Cruelty and Malice so long upon. But this shewed, that the Children had a great deal of Reason to think she was the Author of their Mischief, to pray so heartily for Relief from her.

cc But

Folly

Folly

that

Cha

and

fhoi

his ful

me

. 1

pre

this

Do

Ma

nat

hir

66.1

1

"

66 '

" But Mr. Throgmorton prevailed with her to ec charge the Spirit, in the Name of God, that they might have no more Fits. She yielded to that, and then the Children would grow well." This knov and then the Children would grow well." This plainly feems to imply, that the Mischief was managed through her Occasion: But the Doctor, to take off the Force of this Demonstration, would fuppose, "this surprized the poor Woman, and "I very likely made her believe, that all had pro- "has ceeded from her ill Tongue." The Doctor kindly gu supposes a Surprize, yet this could never make her "to believe such Things should proceed from her ill " C Tongue, except she had Power, and knew that the Aut had an ill Tongue. But he further supposes, that a eit having been told so often, that if she would but a the " confess, all would be well, and they forgive her, " se might make her confess;" but this Method before " co was found ineffectual. Yet further it is urged, e That then Mr. Throgmorton was angry, and a St threatned to carry her before the Bilhop of a fa " Bugden; but upon Condition that she might not be carried there, she promised to confess again." Now would the Bishop of Bugden's Presence oblige her to confess, if she was innocent? She should rather have defired to be carried to prove her Innocency.

Bdt let us see further, how the Devil contrives to betray his Servants into his own Power, to make them pay for the Service he has done them. "About " this Time, the Spirits, as they said, taught them, " but, in Truth, their own Folly led them to use a c Charm to try them by; and though it was a def-" perate Snare to their own Lives, Mr. Throgmorton " had that Power, that they made the poor Woman " fay it an Hundred Times over." Here we may obferve how well the Doctor manages the Cause to his Advantage, by interlarding the Truth with his Suppolitions; as, they faid, and then fuggests their own Folly to folly led them to it. But let us consider, whether ley folly could make them wife; and so wife, as to know what Charm would make the Witches behis may themselves; is it not more like, that the to Charms? A coust a first strate at the country of

at,

ald

1."

ge

2-

n-

. 33

to œ

ut

13

2

6

78 n )=

18

>

n

The Charm the Spirits directed them to, was:
nd I charge thee, thou Devil, as I love thee, and to have Authority over thee, and am a Witch, and lly a guilty of this Matter, that thou suffer this Child ter to be well at present. Upon saying of this, the "to be well at present. Upon laying of this, the "Children would come out of their Fits." But the Author of the Essays, "In Probability they could be either put themselves into their Fits, or out of them, when they would. And therefore it is ober, "servable, that when any Times were set, that they could be free from their Fits till that Day, it was ed, "excepted; unless Strangers came. And if any "Strangers did happen to come, then they never of failed to have them." A very likely Story! ot that Fits which were commanded off by a particular Charm, should be cast off, or brought on at Pleasure; and how frange is it to suppose, that a Gentleman should think it reasonable, or Pleasure, to torment his Children, to afford Strangers fuch longrateful Entertainment? Or that Children should torment themselves, to please others?

Bur if nothing else will do, the Doctor would represent the Judge unfkilful in these Matters; but this is contrary to his esteemed Character. The Doctor offers one Passage at the Tryal of the old Man. He made no Confession, but was obstinate in affirming his Innocence; yet the Judge told him, " that if he would not speak the Words of " the Charm, the Court would hold him guilty of "the Crimes he was accused of, and so at length, " with much ado, the faid Samuel, with a loud "Voice said, in the Hearing of all present; as I er am a Witch, and did consent to the Death of the " Lady Cromwell, fo I charge thee, Devil, to suffer " Mrs. Jane to come out of her Fits at this present. -upon this she came out of her Fit. Then the " Judge faid, You fee all, the is now well, but not by the Musick of the Devil's Harp, 85c." The Daughter also was upon a like Discovery found Guilty. Yet the Doctor would represent her a virtuous Woman; and after some ridiculous Passages betwixt both, to excuse both after Conviction, the Doctor closes his Remarks, with calling these Relations ridiculous; but from what he hath faid, his Remarks feem much more fo; reflecting upon his Brethren for commemorating this impious Piece of Witchcraft, and charging the Gown with little less than Bribery to support the Credit of evil Actions.

The Doctor closes this Case with a Resection upon the ill Author of the Compleat History of Witchcrast; but I am not very sensible upon what Grounds he places that Resection, having offered nothing but what I have here proved consonant to Reason, moral Proof, and the Testimony of Scripture; but from what hath been said in his Essay, it's manifest, that he opposes those Things which are agreeable with Scripture, and justified by the Laws both of God and Man, as will appear from the several Texts of Scripture quoted in this Vindication; and instead of Arguments, slies to artful Insinuations, and weak

Min. Lie dide no Containing - pur of the soundard sid animalis ai star him se that an ine wood not docht the

I se the to a same I sal at the soloy " Evafions.

The Charto, the Court would held him entry of AAH Dres me was accorded at sent at length, which indeed not be called a length.

Co

of

tio

wh

and

Ba

(C 2

"

car

thi

dei

hi

Ili

ou

the

Ho

fho m:

ke

તાંક કહી કે કાઇ છે. આ

he

fer

he ot

he

nd

ir-

he

lahis

his of

ttle

vil

ap-

chnds

but

10-om

hat

ith

and ip-

Ar-

eak

P.

at an along Prophy he is

series of Pontence that that he position he in CHAP. V.

Containing Remarks on what the Doctor bath said on the Tryal before my Lord Chief Baron Hale, of Richard Dugdale, or the Surrey Demoniac; and the Case of Jane Wenham, in Hertfordshire.

H Aving in the foregoing Chapter made it appear, how weakly the Doctor hath opposed the Credit of our History of Witchcraft, and some Cases mentioned in it, and how little he hath faid to favour his own Suggestions, I shall next proceed to consider what he hath to fay, in Relation to the Persons tried and condemned by our late excellent Lord Chief Baron Hale.

Page 140, he fays, "I have as true an Honour " and Reverence for that great and good Man-but " we must not so far forget the common Frailty of " our human Nature, as to think it strange for a " great Man to be once mistaken." Here the Doctor cannot deny the Goodness of this great Man, yet thinks it necessary to lessen the Esteem of what he defigns to oppose, and obstruct the Lustre of his shining Character, lest it should be too bright for him to face; as Moses, Exod. xxxiv. 33. bad a Vail over his Face, whilft he spoke to the Children of Ifrael, lest the shining of his Face, when he came out of Mount Sinai, should be too bright, and dazzle them. But methinks the Doctor, having so much Honour and Reverence for this great and good Man, should not vail him with the common Frailty of human Nature, much more to tell him he was mistaken. A Judge is not mistaken, if his Judgment is upon moral Proof; he is not to answer for the Mistakes of Evidence; but I find no body can be in the

bro

tre

Ia

25 no

( ,

4 (

WO

fay

Ch

mu

W

nor

W

An

Th

hin

Aci

Do

in

his

cc i

" F

" a

(1-1)

tro

fore

pei

un!

06

Yea

right, that is not of his Opinion.

He goes on, "In the first Place it seems to me, et that there are several Signs of a great Zeal and They laid Thir-" Eagerness in the Prosecutions. teen several Indichments against him." The Doctor continues his Tenderness over these Creatures, and feems of a different Kidney from the Prophets and Apostles, fince they oppose Vice, especially those of the worst Kind, with Zeal and Eagerness, denouncing heavy Judgments, Death, Hell, and everlasting Torments, against such Offenders: And if they had given Occasion for Thirteen several Indictments, such vile Offenders ought to be prosecuted with a Zeal equal to their abominable and notorious Crimes. So that to justify this Zeal, I need but make use of the Doctor's own Words subjoined, which aggravate what he would excuse, viz. " By this Means they gave in Evidence of Things that had been said long before, and at distant Times and " Places; and when they were laid together, they u supported one another, and made a greater Aprepearance of Guilt, than they had at the feveral "Times when they were done." Thus it is in other Capital Crimes, or even common Cases, old Offenders are treated according to the Nature of the Circumstances; and when one hath been frequently guilty of Thefts, and a great many Indistments are brought in against one Man, they make a stronger Presumption of the evil Disposition of the Person accused, and consequently he is more deserving of the Rigor of the Law. And when an old Offender is accused but of a single Fact, if it appear that he hath formerly committed Crimes of the same Nature, though the last Fact be less considerable in it felf, he is looked upon as an egregious Sinner; and, according to the Custom of Courts of Judicarure, is prought brought to condign Punishment, and suffers the Extremity of the Law. A & alive and grived

i-

he

e,

r-

ne

s, ts

(e

e-

r-

if

1-

d

US

ut

d,

13

d

ld

y

)-

al

er

1-

[-

y

e

15

n

r

t

-

t

S.

C

He goes on, " Notwithstanding this, consider how " very few Things they could prove, that were real " Facts of the supposed Witches doing." To which I answer, that if they proved but a few real Facts. as he owns, the Witches accused must be real, and not supposed Witches, as he calls them.

He proceeds, " One fingle Witness, Dorothy Du-" rent, confessed of her felf, that which was a more " Criminal Act of Sorcery, than all they could prove " against the accused Parties." Here the Doctor owns, that the Parties committed some, because he fays the Witnesses acted more. So that by his Charge, both the Perfon accused, and the Witness, must be Witches. He would excuse the accused Witch, yet accuses the other of Sorcery himself; now fince the Doctor is an Accuser as well as Durent. Who must excuse Durent, who is accused by him? And who must blame the Doctor, for accusing her? That which he blames Durent for, he is guilty of himself; and by the Law that he condemns other Accusers, he ought to be tried. But I find the Doctor hath as much Infallibility as the Pope; he is in the right, let the Case be what it will, and suits his Opinion, as Conveniency requires.

But further, he fays, " For of Facts of their do-"ing, I fee little besides giving a Child an empty " Breast Seven Years before, to quiet it, and giving " another a little Water, which is usually done in "Vapours," I never heard of a young Child being troubled with what Phylicians call Vapours before, or that Water was a Medicinal Prescription; but I suppose the Doctor may have some unknown Physick-Book lodged in the profound Obscurity, where these Papers slept so many Years.

how could they tell the was burne?

But to proceed, he fays, "The faid Dorothy Du. rent having been with a Witch Doctor, acknow- ledges upon Oath, that by his Advice, the hanged up the Child's Blanket in the Chimney, found a Toad in it at Night; had put it into the Fire, and held it there, though it made a great and horrible Noise, and flashed like Gunpowder, and went off

"like a Pistol, and then became invisible; and that by this the Prisoner was scorched, and burnt lamentably.

Now what can the Doctor say to this, which is an evident Argument and Proof of a Diabolical Power? Truly he uses his usual, powerful, and unresistable Banter and Ridicule. "I do not believe this "Witness; for she must be a filly loose Woman, or she would not have gone to the Witch Doctor." A good Reason to make her a filly loose Woman; for the Doctor believes there are Witch-Doctors, though he will allow none to be Witches, but Accusers of Witches. What then must Accusers of these Accusers be? But,

"She fays, she believed her a Witch, yet left her Child to be tended by her." How could she believe her a Witch, before she knew her Actions? But after the Child had been with her, then it was she blamed her for what she did.

"She fays, the Prisoner was very much scorched and burnt with Fire, and yet no Scars, or signs of Burning, were shewn—and therefore I believe the was a lying old Woman." Strong Arguments to invalidate a Witness! How does the Doctor know but the Marks of Burning were shewn, and did appear? Nothing can be offer'd to the contrary, but the Doctor's good Word; for by her Oath it should be true, and in Defence of the old Woman's Reputation I must needs say, it does not appear she was a lying old Woman, for the Marks must be shewn, or how could they tell she was burnt?

The

OF

A

up

m

di

(e

21 ar

to

I

97

th

V

"

"

00

(6

(

-

C

Du-

nged

nd a

and

rible

t off

that

la-

an ow-

sta-

his

or "."

ın;

est,

-0

ele

er

18-ut

ne

e

V

The rest of Page 141, and 142, the Doctor goes on to prove them both Witches, and turns Witch Accuser himself: And I believe, talking much longer upon the Subject, would alter his Opinion, and make him believe what he hath hitherto so cruelly discouraged, with Insinuations and Evasions; for he seems to pursue the Accuser Durent, with that Zeal and Eagerness he complained of the Page before; and I believe I may say to the Doctor, as Paul said to Agrippa, Acts xxvi. 27, 28. King Aprippa, believest thou the Prophets? I know that thou believest. Then Agrippa said unto Paul, Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian. But to shew how vigorously the Doctor accuses Durent, I shall quote his own Words.

" But suppose it literally true, as she saith; and " what follows? Why, the only fure Conclusion is, " that she charg'd her self with real Sorcery in all its Steps and Gradations. She first departed " from God, by forfaking his way of Prayer, and " natural Means, and leaving the Event to his Pro-" vidence. She employed the Devil, by the use of a " Charm, which she knew could have no Effect " without the Devil's Help. After the found a " Toad in the Child's Blanker, which could not get " into it in the Chimney, but by the same Power; "as Witches use to roast the Representation of the " Party to be afflicted, so she burnt the Toad; and, " if there be any Truth in her Words, afflicted this "Rose Callender, the Prisoner, by that Act of hers. " And what Judgment can be made of this Matter? " Why first, take it in the hardest Sense against the "Prisoner, and imagine, that by some Prior Acts " of Sorcery, the had made her felf subject to this "Power of the Devil, yet both are guilty within the "Statute, and are but Two Witches trying to perfe-" cute one another.

F 3

" Olaus

but

fing

Pra

Ad

up

as Ju

quali

22

22

*

66

C

t

Olaus Magnus, and the Jesuit Delrio and Shef. ferius, and others that are deep in the Belief of " these dark Notions, give us Relations of eminent " Magicians, that had great Contests with one ano. " ther; and used Charm against Charm, and Spirit " against Spirit, till the less potent Conjurer was " subdued or killed by the most powerful. And "therefore, if we believe Sorcery in this Cafe before " us, we have but Witch against Witch, both emcoploying Spirits, and therefore both to be punished; for the Law is not partial, but punishes all er equal Facts wherever it finds them. Our Statute " forbids all manner of Use and Exercise of any Sorcery or Charm for employing Spirits, and pu-" nishes the guilty Person with Death, if they do " harm to Man or Beast, and with Imprisonment and Pillory, though their Charms have no Effect. "And therefore, upon this first Supposition, they " both stand guilty, they are both in Danger, ac-" cording as they shall meet with Judges and Juries "that will be Partial or Impartial in the Execution of that Statute.

Here we see the Doctor is very severe in executing Laws against this Durent; nay, both; but her especially. He tells you the Heinousness of the Crime, the Guilt of the Persons, and the Severity of the Law; and I am glad he is of my Opinion, or I of his, he being the greater Man, as it happens; let it be as he will, as to that Point; yet, as the Doctor is Counsel for Callender, and I for Durent, upon the last Clause of this Declaration, I must offer something in favour of Durent, as well as the Judges and Juries. And first, in respect of Durent, though they both stand guilty upon the first Supposition, as the Doctor fays, yet they ought not to be both equally in danger; for what Callender did, was a long continued Practice, excited by the Malice of the Devil; but but what Durent did, was but an Experiment, or fingle Action, with no ill Design, nor with a Design to continue in it, and to be a Professor of that ill Practice. Besides, the Mischief of the Prisoners Actions fell upon innocent Persons, but the latter upon an old Sinner that deserved Ponishment. And as to the Partiality or Impartiality of Judges and Juries, though the Letter of the Statute might require strict Execution of Justice, yet Circumstances alter the Case, and intercede for Mercy in Durent's Case, for the Reasons above-mentioned.

Shef-

ef of nent

ano.

pirit

was

And

fore

em-

ifh

all

ute

any pu-

do

ent

a.

ey

C-

es

n

But Page 143, the Doctor fays; " her being af-" flicted by this Witness's Sorcery, was no proof of " her Guilt, even though the Fact was true; for we " have a Thousand Stories which teach us, that in-" nocent Perfons may be afflicted, even facking Chil-" dren in their Mothers Arms." Here the Doctor owns what we contend for in our History of Witchcraft, and what he hath been contending against throughout his Essay; he hitherto deny'd Possessions, and the Effects of Witchcraft; but now owns, that Thousands have been afflicted, may Children in their Mothers Arms. And as for the Sorcery being no Proof of her Guilt, this he contradicts himself, Page 141, and 142. " After the found a Toad in the " Child's Blanket, which could not get into it in " the Chimney, but by the same Power (the Devil's " Help,) as Witches use to roast the Representation " of the Party to be afflicted, so she rousted the "Toad." Thus we fee the Doctor contradicts himfelf backwards and forwards, as he thinks it will ferve his Purpose. To excuse Witches all along, he hath deny'd Possessions, and the Power of Witchcraft; but he hath so much Aversion to Accusers of them, that to bring in Durent Guilty, he charges her with the Fact, and produces the Statute. And further, to take off her Evidence, and prove her Guilty, he owns what he faid would not prove Gat-

a I

C6 . 1

66 . 9

( 2

(6 (

(6

(6

22 fic

((

cc

A

P

A

lender Guilty; he fays, " But how, and by whom, and by what did she try to make the Discovery? " She tried to discover by a Charm and Sorcery; for the Blanket in the Chimney was not a common " Act, but design'd for a Spell or Call to a Spirit, And therefore she try'd to discover the Witch, by employing the Devil to afflict another, and by that to let her know, whether that other was a Witch. "And is not this a hopeful Evidence, and fit to be " laid before a Christian Court of Justice? Where he allows Spells and Charms, and uncommon Acts, yet in the foregoing Part of his Discourse, he would not allow any Thing like Poffessions, but would have all the Accidents of Possessions to proceed from Vapours, or other natural Causes; nay, even in this Chapter. But this Evidence is not fit to appear before a Christian Court of Justice. I wonder where these Christian Courts of Justice are to be found: for the Doctor hitherto talks of nothing but partial Judges and Juries, and would have all such Cases referr'd to the Righteous Judge, being not willing any of these innocent Creatures should come before the Judges upon Earth.

From Page 144, he hath fpent about Six Pages in trifling and ridiculous Banter, that would be tedious to the Reader to hear repeated, and full of such mean Reslections, and such weak Offers of deseating and baffling Evidence, that it would both waste Time and Paper to no Purpose, to use Words about them. I shall only take Notice further, of what is said Page the 151st, which is sufficient to answer all the omitted Pages contain, without any further Enquiry.

Page 151, the Doctor, to satisfy the World that he can confute himself when he pleases, and save any body else the labour, says, "Sir Thomas Brown of "Norwich, the Famous Physician of his Time, was in Court, and was desired by my Lord Chief-"Baron om,

ery?

for

non irit.

by

hat

tch.

be

lere

ion

rfe,

but

10-

ay,

to

n-

be

ut

ch

11-

en

h

g

S

"Baron to give his Judgment in the Case; and he declared, that he was clearly of Opinion, that the Fits were natural, but heightened by the Dewil, co-operating with the Malice of the Witches, at whose Instance he did the Villanies; and he added, that in Denmark there had been lately a great Discovery of Witches, who used the very fame way of afflicting People, by conveying Pins into them.

In answer to this, the Doctor flies to his usual way of Evasion; and a Bundle of infignificant Expressions. Says the Doctor, "This Declaration of Siz "Thomas Brown's could not but much influence the "Jury; and I count it turned back the Scale, that "was otherwise inclining to the favour of the accus" sed Persons." I would ask the Doctor, why the Opinion of so learned a Man, who could well diffinguish betwixt the Symptoms of a natural Distemper, and the Effects of supernatural Causes, should influence a Jury; he could have no Design against these peor People; nor would any Man, without prospect of considerable Gain or Advantage, give his Opinion contrary to his Judgment. The Doctor goes on:

"And in Submission, I think it should not have been said. For this was a Case of Blood, and furely the King's Subjects ought not to lose their Lives upon the Credit of Books from Denmark." The Doctor puts the Compliment of Submission, yet contradicts Dr. Brown's Declaration, telling him it should not have been said; a good Token of Submission! by a new Method, when I submit, I must contradict; but this was a Case of Blood, and the King's Subjects ought not to lose their Lives upon the Credit of Books from Denmark; but just now it was the Doctor's Declaration turned the Scale. But since the Doctor is so tender of such wicked Sub-

Fig s neerg a an inted

jects

I must needs say, the Earthly King's Subjects ought not to be tormented and deprived of their Ease and Happiness, if not their Lives, by such miserable Offenders, who, moved by Malice and Revenge, forsake their God to serve the Devil; they ought to depart from the Society of Men, and converse only with those Infernal Shades which they take most delight in.

But this he fays was a very particular Case, and a very hard Question, " Whether ever any one finet gle Person was guilty of it, as it stood there " charged? There were as many probable Signs of it in this Case, as had ever been in any, the Witneffes, the afflicted Persons, the supposed Witches, " and very much of the Fact, were all before them." Therefore there is the greater Probability that Judgment took Place according to Merit; for they must have the Opportunity of a full Information of Matters of Fact on every Side, and both Judge and juries must be well informed of the nature of the Case. And after so many Advantages, and before so many Spectators, and fo great and good a Judge, Judgment could not well be perverted. After a great deal of fuch like Stuff as the Doctor hath offered, in Relation to this Case, the Doctor, Page 152, says, " it feems to have been a very rash Profecution, and an injudicious Sentence." It is very strange that a Profecution should be rash, when there were so many Advantages at the Tryal, that all Persons who could be concerned in Evidence, or otherwise, were prefent; it rather looks as if they had full Time to provide themselves for their Defence. But it is much stranger the Doctor should be so rash in his Expressions, as to call my Lord Chief-Baron's Sentence injudicious; a Person for whom he expressed, in the beginning of this Chapter, fo much Honour and Respect, both as a great and good Man. " But,

" But, fays he, what did my Lord Chief-Baron " add, besides his Desire to Sir Thomas Brown to " give his Judgment? And how came he to be fa-" risfy'd fo far as to condemn them? There was " the Spectre Evidence, Pins and Nails; and, if " the Witness spoke Truth, there was a Diabolical " Interpolition in some of the Facts. -- This made " that great and good Man doubtful, that he was in-" fuch Fears, and proceeded with fuch Cantion, " that he would not fo much as fum up the Evi-" dence, but left it to the Jury, with Prayers, That " the Great God of Heaven would direct their " Hearts in that weighty Matter .- And in Helf: " an Hour, they brought them in Guilty of all the " Thirteen Indictments. tor carronizes After this, my Lord Chief-Baron gave the Law its Place, and they were condemned, and

" died.

els :

ght

and

Of-

for-

to only

de-

and

sin-

ere

fit

lit-

hes,

dgnust

atlu-

the

e fo

lge,

eat

in ys,

ind

ta

iny.

uld

re-

0-ich

ef-

n-

he

e-

ut,

Now it is fo plain and clearly manifest, both from the Circumstances of the Tryal, the Strength's and Validity of the Evidence, and the great Caution my Lord used in his Proceedings, that these Perfons must be guilty of the Fact, and were fairly convicted; that I cannot but wonder and admire, with what Grounds, and for what Reasons, the Doctor can suspect the lustice these Persons were treated. withal; or how he can charge my Lord with an injudicious Sentence! The Jury, upon downright Testimony, and moral Demonstration of the Merit of their Cafe, brought them in guilty of Thirteen Indictments; and it must be very strange, if they could be mistaken in all: But when their Wickedness appeared so conspicuously on every side, Truth could never be in the dark: They must be true in fome at least; and fince one was enough to justify their Condemnation, so many meritorious Acts must needs require the fatal Sentence that impartial suffice called for.

But

But notwithstanding all this Proof and evident Demonstration, the Doctor will not admit of any Guilt on their side, tho' they were deemed guilty by the Law. The Doctor will not infift upon the Statute, as he did against Durent. He hath a great mind to fave their Lives after their Death, and if he could raise them up again, as our Saviour did the Body of Lazarus, it would mightily redound to the Greatness of his Character. But tho' such Things are impossible with Men, yet he will not be put out of his Opinion of their Innocency: Judges, Juries, and all are in the wrong; only Serjeant Keeling he hath a great Respect for, because he was of the Opinion the Doctor is now; for which Reason the Doctor canonizes his Name thus, with the Alteration of a Word or two, (as he fays) to his Advantage no doubt, as much as possible.

Said he, "Admitting that the Children were really bewitch'd, yet it could never be apply'd to " the Prisoners, upon the Imagination only of the " Parties afflicted; for if that might be allow'd, no "Person whatsoever could be in Safety: For per-" haps they might fancy another Person, who might be altogether innocent in fuch Matters." If this was all the Counsellor could say, he needed not to fear himself in Danger; for I believe, no body would take him for a Conjurer. But there is no fuch Thing as Fancy or Imagination of the Parties, fince it is done by the Interposition of an evil Spirit: The Witnesses proved a Diabolical Interposition; and therefore the Opinion of this Serjeant will do little Service, in clearing the Guilt of the Persons; for if it were of any Force, it would have taken place in Court; but the Evidence was too ftrong, and the Circumstances too clear, or a Jury would not have brought them in Guilty. The Caution of my Lord Chief-Baron was sufficient to make them cautious.

n

But the Doctor is yet distatisfied in his Mind bout his pretty Notion of the Times, and questions the Integrity and Honesty of Judges and Juries. He says; "Immediately after the accused Persons were found guilty, the Three Children of Mr. Pacy were perfectly well of their Fits, and were restored to their Speech: And Dorothy Durent, who had gone Three Years upon Crutches, was restored to the Use of her Limbs, laid her "Crutches aside, and went home without them." And as at that Time this satisfied many that both the Proceedings and Verdict had been just; why may we not now make the same Conclusion?

"But, fays the Doctor, if it be really true, that the Judgment of Law and Authority hath this fupernatural Effect in this Case above all others; what was the Reason why the Effect was partial, and only cured some of the afflicted, and not others? Why did Susan Chandler still look very pale and wan, and felt a Pricking like Pins in her " Stomach ?

nt

ny by aat if

he

he

gs ut

es,

he

i-

re

1-

1-

e-

0

16 0

r-

it

d

S

e

e

r

e

The Doctor depending upon the Difficulty of this last Question, hath spent Two or Three Pages in Triumph, upon new-raised Notions; and thinks he hath gained a mighty Conquest: But I would not have him place too much Security upon this Foundation; for the Question is not so difficult, but that it may easily be answer'd. For the famous Sir Thomas Brown of Norwich, told my Lord Chief-Baron, (Page 151.) "That he was clearly of Opi-" nion, that the Fits were natural, but heightened "by the Devil, co-operating with the Malice of the "Witches, at whose Instance he did the Villanies." Now tho natural Fits might go of sooner, if not enforced by a Diabolick Power; and consequently when that Diabolick Power ceases, they may disappear; the natural Cause that concurred being diminished, and not sufficient to continue these Fit without the adjoined Force of Dæmoniack Assistance: Yet in some Bodies, the Proportion of the natural Cause may be greater, and tho' the Diabolick Force is taken away, it may be sufficient to continue natural ill Essent: And tho' it was no sufficient at the first without that concurring Diabolick Force, yet the Body being by long Continuant weaken'd, deprayed Humours may grow more abundant in Quantity, and continue those ill Symptom when the Devil hath lost his Power; so that the Difference depends on the Difference of Constitutions, and Degrees of Weakness, as well as deprayed Qualities of Humours.

And now I hope I have fatisfied all those Some ples which lay upon the Doctor's Mind, and think it appears plainly, that the Persons accused were not wrongfully accused, convicted, nor condemned and consequently, that all the Pains and Trouble is hath taken to missepresent the Case under Consideration, was only unnecessary Toil to him, and might as well have been spared.

Of the Surrey Dæmoniack.

From what we have observed in the late Tryal it appears, that the Doctor hath said nothing to the Purpose, to lessen the Credit which ought to be given to a Case so plain and evident: Let us now see what he hath to say to the Surrey Deminiack, which is proved by Seventy Depositions of Persons, that were Eye and Ear-witnesses of the Possession of that Creature; the Depositions proving that his Afflictions could not be occasion'd without a supernatural Power.

ing di

fe Fit

Aff

of th

Diabo

ent t

as no

Diabo

nuane

abun

ptom

at this flitut

prave

Soru

think

wen

nned

ole h nside

migh

Tiyal

ng to

to be

now

iack,

fons,

ffion

his

rna-

To

To disprove this Fact, the Doctor Tays; " Take " this Case as the scandalous Author leaves it, with " telling only one Side." What the Doctor means by telling only one Side, I do not know; except it be that I only tell the Truth, attested by Seventy Witnesses upon Oath ; viz. That the Person was poffessed, committing Actions above the Power of natural Causes in human Bodies, unaffisted by evil Spirits; and that he was relieved by the effectual Prayers of pious good Men. As for scandalous Language, I cannot tell how to answer it; being always defirous to frew what Respect I possibly can to the Gown, let him be what he thinks fit. But if he takes the Subject as I leave it, he will find it proved by such undeniable Testimony, that no body can dispute the Truth, but those that will be Infidels, and convinc'd of nothing that is contrary to their Inclinations.

If the Doctor hath any Thing to fay against the Depositions laid down in our Compleat History, &c. let him produce as many Testimonies to the contrary, and prove what he fays either by Arguments or Witnesses. But instead of that, the Doctor just fays what he thinks fit, without offering any Think to confirm us in a Belief of any fuch crifling Affeirtions: But all the Opposition I find the Doctor makes, is, That Dugdale (upon Examination) declared, that he believed he never had any evil Spirit in him. But this we must take the Doctor's Word for; his Affirmation being superior to Twenty evident Proofs to the contrary. He is of a happy Genius, to be always in the Right when he pleases; both when he afferts one Thing, and when he contradicts himself, and affirms another. That we may make a better Judgment of his Work, we shall form up the Number of Contradictions, Infinuations, Evafions, and strong Arguments contained in his Esfay either in Defence of his own Opinion, or against ours:

	CONTRACTOR OF THE
Contradictions, — about	100.
Infinuations, — about	1000.
Evafions, about	900;
Strong Arguments for his Opinion, -	000.
Against ours, — — — —	0000
Ipfe dixit's,	10000.

Whoever takes a View of what we have faid strictly, will find this Account not much mistaken. But as to the present Case in Hand, having answered all the Doctor offers except Raillery, to shew how well this Narrative is attested, we shall here mention Two or Three Depositions, to prove the Truth of the Surrey Damoniack, and refer the Reader to that History for a full Account and Proof.

n

n

Thomas Dugdale, Father of the said Richard Dugdale, maketh Oath, That he consulted with Crabtree in Behalf of his said Son, then under a strange Distemper; and had his Answer, That is there was Money enough, he could effect the Cure. Whereupon this Deponent seeing his Son's Body much weaken'd with the said Crabtree's Physick, and his Fits more violent, applied himself to Mr. Jolly, a Neighbouring Minister, and others of his Brethren in the Ministry: And this Deponent saith, He hath seen his Son vomit up Stones, several Times, and other Things. Once he declar'd, He must either vomit up Gold, Silver, or Brass Rings, and Hair Buttons; and accordingly he did so. At other Times, he vomited great Stones, also blue Stones like Flints.

One Time he vomited a Stone an Inch and a half long, and an Inch and a half broad, having Blood upon the Edges; which this Deponent, and others ftand-flanding by him, apprehended to be painful to him.

And further this Deponent maketh Oath, That one Day, a little before Night, walking by his faid Son then in a Fit, it growing dark, a Candle was brought in; this Deponent looking upon him, there was a great Stone laid upon his Belly, weighing about Twelve or Thirteen Pounds: This Deponent not knowing how it came there, nor were there any fuch like Stones about the House. Besides, Stones have been thrown at the Barn-side, falling very thick upon the Door; yet this Deponent could never discover the Hand that threw them, nor any Person employ'd therein, altho' this Deponent's Wife was hit with one of them, but without any Hurt. At other Times, the faid Richard Dugdale would cast Goose-Dung at this Deponent, and others standing by, which he seemed to fetch out of the Barn-side; altho' neither this Deponent, nor those that were with him could find any there, nor discover any one that brought it; nor were there any Geefe kept at the House, nor other Geese that ame near it. And laftly, this Deponent faith, That his faid Son would run upon his Hands and Feet together, as fast as most Men could run upon their Feet alone: And his Body would sometimes be so heavy, that Two or Three strong Men could hardly ift him up, and at other Times as light as a Bag of Feathers.

John Walmfly, of Harwood in the faid County of Lancaster, Sadler, deposeth, That he hath seen the aid Richard Dugdale in a Fir, and held in a Chair by Six Men: And whilst his Feet were off the Ground, he hath leaped up in the Chair for Two or Three Hours together, as fast as a Man can ordinaily count any Thing, and hath fo sweated thro' his Cloaths, that it hath stood like a Dew upon them.

More-

gainst

100. 000: 900. 000.

000 .00C

faid aken, fwerfhew here the the and

bard with er a at if Cure.

Body and Folly hren hath and omit

ons; VO-

half lood hers andMoreover, this Deponent hath taken the said Richard Duzdale by the Shoe, betwixt this Deponent's foremost Finger and his Thumb, another taking him at his Head, and so lifting him up: This Deponent thinks he could not weigh Six Pounds.

And further this Deponent faith, Mr. Jolly the Minister sending Word by him to the said Riebard's Father, that the Ministers would be at his House called Surrey on such a Day; this Deponent going the same Day he was spoken to with his Errand, the said Richard declared it before this Deponent mention'd it, as likewise what Ministers would be there.

And further this Deponent upon his Oath faith That the faid Richard Dugdale, in some of his Fits opening his Hand, hath received written Papers into it, none of the By-standers knowing how they came thither : which the faid Richard Dugdale hath given People that were about him. Also the fail Deponent hath feen him shuffle Rushes like Cards and play Games on them, as tho' he had been playing with fome other Person; whom he had chid about the Casts, curfing and swearing about his Play, and then faid, Do not Gamesters thus? He likewise play'd with Rushes as if they had been Dice, using exactly feveral Expressions belonging to that Play; saying, People think this is laid upon me for my Sins, but I never was a Gamefter in my Life; neither know I how to play at such Games, when out of my Fits. And the faid Richard Dugdale did likewife play at Bowls, making Bowls of Rushes : and when he had thrown the lack, he faid, I must now throw my Gill: Then running a good way, as if he had been running after a Bowl, swearing, Run, run; flee, flee; Hold a Biass. And sometimes he catch'd up Rushes, as if they had been Bowls, swearing, Sirrah, stand out of the way, or I'll knock out id Ri-

ment's

g him

ponent

My the

bards

House

going

d, the men-

ald be

11131 faith

is Fits

ers in-

v they

e hath

e faid

Cards,

play-

chid

Play,

kewise

using

Play;

for my

3 201-

out of l like-

and

A now

as if

Run,

nes he

Syear-

ck out your your Brains: Adding, I never was a Bowler; but don't Gentlemen do thus?

And this Deponent faith, That the faid Richard Dugdale had several Fits, after his being threatned with his being brought before a Justice of Peace: And once being in his last Fit, when this Deponent was present, he declared his Fit was thro' Obsession, and in a Combination, which should never be discover'd whilst the World endured. And this Deponent hath feen him in a great Fit, as in a great Agony, with fomething he could not fee; and then hath been taken up, and been thrown backwards; after that fet upon his Head, and fo flood till he was pulled down by one John Fletcher. As also this Des ponent hath heard himself cursed and sweared at by Richard Dugdale; and his Gesture was so terrible, it would have frighted a Man to come near him; and yet in a Moment's Time after, he was in such a Fear, that he fought to creep into any Hole, or behind any body, to have hid himself, as moved the Standers-by with much Compassion. He would at one Time have told when his Fits would begin, when he had Two or Three in one Day, or Three or Four Days afunder; wherein he was never difproved that he knew of : Which Fits commonly began in the Calf of his Log, and wrought upwards unto the Cheft of his Body: And then he was thrown down, where he would lye for a good while as dead, or breathless, and then would have a strange Noise in his Mouth and Nose; and there would, to his Apprehension; be something like Whelps in his Bolom before he rose, after which sometimes he would be very furious; and sometimes more quiet.

William Lound, of Harwood in the County of Lancafter, Carrier, maketh Oath, That he hath heard the faid Richard Dugdale curse and swear; his Gesture Gesture being so terrible, it would have frighted a Man to come near him; and yet in a Moment of Time after, in such a Fear, that he hath sought to creep into any Hole, or behind any body, to have hid himself, and so lamented himself, as moved the Standers by with great Compassion. He would, at other Times, have told when his Fits would begin, when there were Two or Three in one Day, or Three or Four Days asunder; wherein he was never disappointed that he knew of: Which Fits commonly began in the Calf of his Leg, and wrought upwards into the Chest of his Body; and then he was thrown down, where he would lye for a good while as dead; or bewitch'd, and then would have a strange Noise in his Mouth or Nose; and there would be in his Breast somewhat like Whelps before he rose, after which sometimes he would be very furious, sometimes more quiet.

Willcughby. Ralph Egerton.

and

Dia

tha

ver

mac

and

any may

Nu

in n

B

had

the

the

requ

and Na

The

wha

it,

felle

eith

ther

We whose Names are subscribed, being Ministers of the Gospel, having read or heard the Affidavits and Depositions, taken before the Right Honourable Hugh Lord Willoughby and Ralph Egerton, Efq; Two of his Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the County Palatine of Lancaster, concerning one Richard Dugdale of Surrey in the Parish of Whalley; do verily believe the Truth of the same, and that the strange Fits of the faid Dugdale were by a Diabolical Power.

> Given when we were at Blackburn in Lanca-Shire, on August the 6th, 1695.

Thomas Crempton. John Crompton. John Parr.

Samuel Angier. Peter Afpinwall: Nathaniel Heywood. Samuel Eaton. Nathaniel Scholes I do high of

to

eve

the

at

in,

ree

ap-

nly

irds

nwe ad,

e in east nich

ore

er.

d.

I do hereby testify, (as many more will, if there be Occasion) from my own Observation, as an Eve and Ear Witness, at the meeting concerning Richard Duzdale, that I verily believe he was then under a Diabolical Possession, or Obsession. I do also testify, that he is now delivered from that supernatural Malady; and that no other probable Means of his Delivery may be assigned, but the Word of God and Prayer, with Fasting; which Spiritual Means was pade use of by several Ministers of great Faithfulness and Diligence, for a confiderable Time together.

> Witness my Hand, the 10th Day of Fune, 1695.

> > Robert Whiteaker, Physician.

These Testimonies and Depositions are sufficient to prove the Truth of the Surrey Demoniack; but if any body hath a mind to be further satisfied, they may find both a fuller Account, as well as a great wits Number of Testimonies for the Confirmation of it, able in my Compleat History of Witchcraft, &cc.

But the Doctor is uneasy because the Dissenters and the Honour to cast out this Devil, and dispossess the poor Creature; would not the Doctor have done the Christian Part of assisting, if his Help had been required? Our Saviour, as I have in the beginning of this Vindication shown, when his Disciples came of this Vindication shewn, when his Disciples came and told him, that others cast out Devils in his nca- Name, charged them not to forbid them, faying, They that are not against us, are on our Part. And if what our Saviour allowed be no Crime, what matters it, whether a Diffenter, or a Churchman, dispofsessed a tormented Creature, if it can be done by either? But the Doctor, throughout his Essay, is rather for encouraging Sin and Wickedness of the I do highest Nature, and would have the Devil to work his his Will, excusing Witches, and discouraging their

for

(1

lea

A

nno

t m ande

Mist

aid

ome

hat

ludg

hilh

disco

Nat

Con

lur

Wi

of

in i

be aga

the

Accusers.

But the Doctor finds fault with the Author of the Compleat History, for passing by these Things, though they lay plain before him, And I have pasfed by some Things in this Essay, for the same Reafons; viz. because they were not worth taking Notice of. In that History I have taken Notice of nothing but what is authentick, and founded upon moral Proof, or Probability at least; endeavouring to separate the Dirt, which was fit for nothing, but to be trod under the Foot, from those more valuable Tewels of Use and Worth. But fince the Doctor finds fault with me, why did he not read over that Compleat History, and shew the Faults of the most material Parts, which shew the Reasonableness and Usefulness of that History? Why did he not answer the Preface and Introduction, as I have his Dedication, himself, and his Two Companions, the Advocate, and the poor filly Juryman. I have offered nothing but what is grounded upon, and proved by Scripture, against the material Part of his Essay, and have given Reasons for what I say; but the Doctor calls me ill and scandalous Author, without shewing any Reasons for it; and though he says my History may do Mischief, the Reasons I have offered against him, prove that his Essay is likely to do a great deal more, destroying and discouraging those Historical Truths, which are of the same Nature with those in Scripture, as to Possessions and Witchcraft; and though not attested by Divine Authority, yet they have equally moral Proof, and might be attested by the same Witnesses, had they happened at the same Time. Now if what I have offered is according to Scripture, as it appears, and his Notions are not, as I have proved: It will not be amiss, if I end this Discourse concerning Dugdals with the Doctor's own Words, "What he deferves c: fo:

for poisoning the Minds of Men with falle-(Notions) in such a high and tender Point, I leave the Reader to make Judgment.

heir

the

igs,

pa(-

ea-

Va-

110-pon

ing

but

ble

for

hat

nost and wer cavo-

by ay,

the

ny of-

to

a-

nd

u-bi

ey

re

d

t

25

As for the Case of Jane Wenham, if she was so innocent, that nothing could be proved against her, I must be barbarous Cruelty, either to torture her indeservedly, or to spill innocent Blood; but this Mistake does not make the guilty innocent; and as I said before, in the beginning of this Tract, because imetimes Mistakes may be made, this is no Rule that the Wicked should go unpunished; and as sudges and Juries ought to be cautious how they punish the innocent, so they ought to be as severe in discouraging Wickedness and Vice, of so heinous a Nature.

CHAP. VI.

Containing Some Remarks on what the Doctor bath Said of Tears, Marks, Charms, want of Tears, and Swimming Witches.

THE Dostor, in the beginning of his Eleventh Chapter, after a fhort Harangue with a filly Juryman, takes Notice of King James's Reason why Witches Swim, and modestly excusing the Deficiency of that Reason, Page 172, tells us of the Thibii in Pliny, who says, non posse mergi, that they cannot be drowned; which if applicable to our Witches, is against him, who would not allow the Validity of the Experiment.

But speaking of our Nation, says the Dosor foing we find in our Nation, so late as the Norman pot a Conquest, that they tried their Robberies, Mur. the ders, Adulteries, and often their Claims to Land, God " by Combat, (and so Highwaymen do now to Moing mey and Goods,) or the Decretory Morsel, or by God carrying hot Iron, or passing through hot Plowcarrying hot Iron, or passing through hot Plowstates, or putting them into hot Water, or swimtem; ming them in cold. And when a Prisoner in God Court is asked how he will be tried? I suppose it is a Continuance of the Question put to them in with those Times, when they had the Choice of being tried by a Jury, or by one of those Ways." be we But this not relating to the Subject in Hand, I shall ship not spend Time to enquire whether the Doctor's any Supposition he right or not wet probably it may.

Supposition be right or not, yet probably it may.

We shall next proceed to consider, what may read late to the present Purpose, and the Subjects we go vil's upon. I find that, though the Doctor mentioned the Swimming last in the Title of his Chapter, yet it is and the first he begins with; and the Case being stated B betwixt a Jury-man and him, it puts me to the Stand " in who I have to deal with; that is, Whether the Juryman is transformed into the Doctor's Shape, or "h not? For the Juryman talks more like a Dostor than " o the Clergyman; but as I suppose they are both one, " and alter their Shapes as they think fit, I shall take ans the whole as it is betwixt them both. Which is ber thus: "When our Country People do try old Wo-" men this way, and they Swim, doth it not shew a " supernatural Power, either of God or the Devil? " If it be allowed in some Cases to be so, as there " are strange Stories told, it would not follow that " we might therefore use it; for we may not tempt

Th

Bo

peé

per fon

dro

cal

wh

der

uno

"God, and we may not trust the Devil. From what we observe, it is plain and manifest, that the Doctor owns it to be a supernatural Power, either of God or the Devil, allowing that it may be for foin fome Cases; but he only infifts, that it would fur the Realon he offers for that is, we may not tempt Moderated and we must not trust the Devil. Now in domoderate by God, or whether we trust the Devil?

Ow. As to the first, I believe, that in doing so, we nan

ne,

ake

is Vo-

wa

il?

ere hat

npt

eft,

ver,

be

fo

im- tempt not God; for these Creatures having forsaken in God, he not being in all their Ways, he hath cast it is them out of his Vineyard, and hath nothing to do in with them; and therefore, as they cannot depend be-upon his Assistance, who never ask it, they seem to be wholly in the Devil's Hands, whom they Wor-hall ship, and it is in him they put their Trust; and if or's any Thing faves them from the Common Laws of Nature, it must be thought his supernatural Power re- and therefore if Witches Swim, it must be the Dened the Experiment must be reasonable, and justifiable, is and true, oddive ness your es autocl ted But the Doctor says; "I take it to be usually ow-and "ing to the manner of the Tryal; in which a Rope ry- "being tied about the supposed Witch, one End is or "held by some Man on one Side the River, and the other by others on the other, whereby a little pul-" ling may keep her above Water." To which I answer, that a little pulling will not make a reverberatory Force, sufficient to make a body Swim: This hath been tried by People swimming after a. Boat with a Tow, when they were timerous, or fulpected their Art of Swimming; and it harh happened, that notwithstanding that Caution, the Peron who thus relied upon his Safety, hath been drowned: For the People thinking the Man fafe, because in Towe, neglected looking behind them; whilst the Person, who thought himself secure, suddenly failing of his Art, or Strength, hath towed under Water till drowned, before those in the Boat looked back to take Care of their Friend: And in other common Experiments we find, that nothing, whose Specifick Gravity disposes it to fink, will swim above Water by being towed, except the Motion be

B

S

e fi

d

n

q A

01

h

ge

th

CC

ap

"

((

dr

ar

A

is

PC

ev

th

in

in

w

Q

a

W

te

Bo

swift and violent.

The Doctor goes on; " and fometimes it may be owing to the Lightness of their Bodies and cc Cloaths, and tying their Thumbs and Toes toge. ther, and then putting them into the Water, not et with the Feet downwards, but Lengthways, so as et that the Trunk of their Body that is light, may bear up those Parts that are more Solid. And I " do not know, but that half of the old Women in the Nation might Swim, if they were tried this way in Woollen, and sweaty Petticoats." How well the Doctor may know the Art of Swimming, I do not know; but I have always heard, that People in their Cloaths are most unpat to Swim; for those that can Swim the best own, that they cannot Swim fo well in their Cloaths, as they can without them; and as for tying their Thumbs and Toes, that cannot alter their Specifick Gravity; for the Body hath the same Specifick Gravity, Quantity for Quantity, whether it be immerged Longitudinally, or Perpendicularly; so that the manner of immerging, or putting them in the Water, can make no Difference, in refpect of their swimming or finking, except it alters the Rules of Staticks, and Hydrostaticks. Indeed, if a Body were to be thrown with Force, or to fall from Distance into the Water, the Resistance must be greater, according to the Quantity of Parts oppofing one another; and consequently the Longitudinal Posture having greater Resistance than the Perpendicular, according to the breadth of the Buoyant Superficies, the Body, upon the first Contact, will be less apt to fink; but when that acquired Force which makes the Resistance is lost, the Specifick Gravity of the Body will accelerate and quicken the Depressure of it, or its sinking, as the Aquilibrium of that Body, and an equal Quantity of Water, shall vary. So that the more a Body differs from Water, and exceeds it in Specifick Gravity, the apter it is to sink; but a Body having the same Specifick Preponderance, whether the Thumbs are tied or not, it must have the same Tendency to sink, and consequently that cannot make a Body more apt to Swim. And as for Woollen Cloaths, they will not Swim upon Water, except the Air contained in the Pores helps to buoy them up; but as soon as the Water gets into those Pores, and presse the Air out, they sink presently. And if the Pores which might contain Air, are filled with Sweat, they are the less apt to Swim, and fink presently.

d in

ing,

vim

n be y be

and

oge-

not o as

may

nd l

this

dow

g, I

ople hofe

wim

em;

not

the vhelicu-

ting

re-

l, if

fall

must poinal

ndi-

per-

less

nich

v of

Ture

of

But Page 174, he fays; " It is visible, that the "Bodies of all Creatures are near to an equal Poise " with the Water; their Swimming, while alive, " and their floating after Death, are a constant De-" monstration, that they are always near to an " Aquilibrium." That Bodies are near to an Aquilibrium with Water, no body denies, but the drowning of fo many is Demonstration that they are too heavy to Swim, without the Assistance of Art, or some supernatural Power; and whether that is likely to be good or bad, when ill Persons are supported, appears from what we faid before; so that if Witches Swim, it must be by the Assistance of an evil Spirit. And when Bodies Swim after Death. that depends upon the Expansion of windy Vapours in the Stomach, Intestines and Lungs, which extending the Body, alter the Specifick Gravity of the whole. This acquired Expansion making the Quantity of Body equal, or to exceed the Levity of a proportionable extended Quantity of Water's which makes Bodies Swim, when the Thorax is extended with Air retained upon Inspiration, but that Body will Swim no longer than that Air is fo retained:

tained; for upon Expiration the Body finks, except the Motion of the Parts makes a greater than natural Resistance of Water to support the Body; but when the Thumbs and Toes are tied, that Motion is disappointed, and consequently the Body must sink, except prevented by supernatural Assistance; which demonstrates that an evil Person must be supported by an evil Power; and consequently this Method of Tryal may be reasonable and justisfiable; and though some good People may Swim a while, it must be because they hold their Breath, or have some Motion which assists them: So that we conclude, that Witches, who have not the Liberty of making such Motions, must sink, if not kept up by the Devil, or his Agents.

But the Doctor fays; "That of all Things, this "Tryal of Swimming is unfit for an Appeal to Pro"vidence." To which I answer; that Providence hath nothing to do with such Creatures, who have refused to submit to Providence, but say to the Devil for Protestion; but if Providence would overrule in such Cases, it would be to bring them to Justice; and for that Consideration, a good Angel may affist them, that they may not be undiscovered whether bas : 10wo'l

Page the 175th, he fays; "There is another vulgar Mark of Witcheraft, which helps to explain the Fallacy of this, and that is want of Tears.
It is manifest by that, that the poor old Creatures have little Moisture in their Bodies. Old Age, Sorrow, and want of Sleep, under such Afflictions, dry it up, and fill them with Wind and Vapours, that both hinders them from shedding Tears; and makes them by light upon the Water." But to this I answer, that they were not all old People that were accused for Witcheraft, therefore the Doctor's Objection is but particular; and though old People are not so full of Moisture as young ones, yet there

ex-

han dy;

Moody

Affi-

nust

ntly

ıfti-

na

or

we

erty

up

his

TO-

nce

ave

the

er-

Ju-

gel

ul-

iin

ers.

res

ge,

ns,

rs,

nd

to iat

TS

ple

ere re

are none so dry, but that they have Moisture enough to supply the Lacrimal Glands with a few Drops of superfluous Moisture, which may be pressed out, when the Parts are constringed; but their want of Tears is rather to be attributed to their flurdy obstinate Temper, hardened in Wickedness, and guarded from Timerousness, by their supposed Safety, and the Confidence they place upon their Lord and Master the Devil; and though they may be troubled with Wind and Vapours, the Quantity of Wind is fo small, that it is not sufficient to extend their Abdomen so much, as to bring the Body to an Aquilibrium with Water; besides, their Bodies are so much shriveled and shrunk up with a loss of Fat, which was the lightest Substance of their Bodies, that the Bones retaining the same Proportion, add to the Gravity of their Bodies in Proportion; and make the Difference much greater from an Aquilibrium, and confequently more apt to fink; fo that, though we will not fay, that want of Tears is a certain Mark, yet what the Doctor offers to the contrary, does not make it less a Mark than it was before.

But it is not Swimming, or Tears, that I take to be sufficient Testimonies of Witchcraft; it must be their Actions, and the Mischief they do, either legally proved by good Evidence, and the Sufferings of the tormented, or their own Confession, that imply their Guilt.

As for Teats, Magical Signs, and insensible Parts, the Dostor fays; " No doubt but some of them are " Scurvy Spots, or Mortified, or withered Parts, or " hollowed Spaces betwirt the Muscles. Others are " Piles, or Verruca penfiles, hanging Warts, which " in old Age may grow large and Fistulous. Others " may be Moles or Scars, or Marks in the Womb " from the Mothers Imagination, 50c., Galliers by Eye-Watnesh and fuch Marks appear

f

I

C

I

F

1

As for Scurvey Spots, those are easily distinguished from any Thing of a Supernatural Kind, and so are withered and hollow Spaces, or the Interffices of the Muscles; the Doctor would not make all the World fo ignorant, but that they can tell when any Person hath the Scurvey; or can see when Parts are withered; or tell the Interflices of the Muscles, when they fee them; thefe are too natural and obvious to be mistaken; and so are Piles, Warts, Moles and Scars; and as for Mortifications, they foon discover themselves, never continuing long without a Cure; or increase so fast, as in a little Time to become Mortal; and Marks by Imagination, which are fixed in the Womb, these appearing at the Time of Birth, are foon discovered, and noted amongst the Gossips, before the Child can be of Age to be supposed a Witch, or to be supposed to commit such Actions, as may bring them under Suspicion of Witchcraft.

But to favour this Notion of his, he quotes Epifcopius's Theological Institutions; who says, "It hath "many a Time been found true, that Women, who

" by Reason of these impressed Marks, have been condemned to the Rack, either for fear of, or

"Force of Torments, have confessed, and been put to Death.

As for the Torments of the Rack, I think them too barbarous and inhuman to be made use of upon any Occasion, or on Suspicion only, especially; it being unjust to put Persons that may be innocent, upon such Tryals and Susferings; but this is a Method that hath been made Use of in sew Countries, and not without very strong Presumptions of the Persons Guilt; but on the contrary we find, that several have confessed the Use of Teats and Marks, without being put to Torture, or having their Confessions any other way extorted; and it hath been proved upon others by Eye-Witnesses; and such Marks appear after a different Manner, and eafily distinguishable from what are Natural.

As for Charms, the Doctor fays, " It is both a " great Sin, and a great Folly, to use them." Yet he endeavours to lessen the Credit and Belief of fuch Things, by telling Three or Four ridiculous Tricks of Men that imposed upon credulous Persons, with Charms that would make them Proof against venomous Creatures, and invulnerable; but the Reality of Charms hath been sufficiently attested, by condemning fuch Persons, and punishing them with Death; a Punishment too severe to be inflicted on a Person who only banters, and barely imposes upon Mens Credulity, without doing any Harm or Mifchief by their small Deceits.

fhed

are

the

orld

rson

WI-

hen

to

and rsver

are;

me

xed

rth, ips,

la

eli-

ch-

if-

ath

vho

een

or put

too

iny

ing

noc

hat

not ons

ral

out

ny

on ear

ter

The Truth of these are not only attested by the Affertions of Men, and punished by human Laws, but censured by the Scripture in Sacred Writings, and threatened by Divine Laws. As Deuteronomy xviii. 10. There shall not be found amongst you any one, that maketh his Son or his Daughter to pass through the Fire, or that useth Divination, or an observer of Times, or an Enchanter, or a Witch. And Verse 11. Or a Charmer, or a Consulter with Famihar Spirits, or a Wizard, or a Necromancer; which are all threaten'd with Destruction. And though Divine Providence may interpose, and prevent their Effects; as Feremiah viii. 17. Where the Prophet tells the People, in Defiance of their Skill, Behold, I will fend Serpents, Cockatrices, amongst you, which will not be charmed. Yet this Defiance of their inferior Power, shews they had such Power, and practifed it. And again, Isaiab xix. 3. The Spirit of Agypt shall fall in the midft thereof, and I will destroy the Counsel thereof, and they shall seek to the Idols, and to the Charmers, and to them that have familiar Spirits. And though the Doctor would make the Testimony of the Scripture of no Esfect, by relating

E

v

tl

C

"

relating Two or Three ridiculous Attempts about the Poison of Serpents: The Scripture forewarms us of the Insufficiency of Charms against such Poisons. Psalm lviii. 4, 5. Their Poison is like the Poison of a Serpent, they are like the deaf Adder that stoppeth ber Ear. Which will not hearken to the Voice of Charmers, charming never so wisely. But though in all Cases Charms will not take blace, yet if there were not such Things to be done, why would Sacred Writings take Notice of them?

We might add a great deal more upon this Subject; but fince what we have faid may be sufficient to prove that there are such Things as Charms, we shall put a Conclusion to this Discourse, and proceed to consider of the Contents of his next Chapter.

CHAP. VII.

Containing Remarks on the Doctor's Twelfth Chapter, of what kind of Witchcrafts they are, that are spoken of in the Holy Scripture.

THE Doctor begins this Chapter with the Confideration of Divine Laws, and fays, "This is a "Point of very great Difficulty amongst the Criticks, and I will not pretend to make my self "Umpire; but I will offer some sew Things, that I think are manifest, and may keep us from presults fing them too hard against our Neighbour's Lives. By the Doctor's Introduction to this Discourse, we may easily perceive his main Drift and Intention, and and that he is for softening and mollifying of these Divine Laws, which were severely urged against Evil-doers by the Prophets and Apostles. He is of a more Godly and Christian Temper; and therefore thinks sit to explain these Laws as much in Favour of his Cause as possibly he can; nay, rather than fail, he recommends the Non-execution of them.

it the

ifons.

of a ce of

h in

there

cred

Sub-

cient

rms,

next

LVX

fth

fts

oly

nsi-

s a

Ti-

felf

hat

ef-

es.

we

m,

nd

Page 182, he fays; " Whatever the Meaning of " these Laws were, they are of that Part of the " Law which is usually called Judicial, and therefore " they are not binding to us, further than we find "them useful and agreeable to our Times." I thought that the Usefulness of Laws was to suppress Vice, and to punish Offenders; and that they were proportionably severe according to the Heinousness: of the Crimes, and consequently are equally useful and agreeable in all Times. And as these Judicial Laws were laid down as just, according to the Merit of Offenders of that Kind, by God Almighty's Appointment, through the Mouths of his Prophets and Apostles, they were designed as a Pattern and Prescription for us to go by, and consequently must be as binding to us as they were to them. For as we ought to do Justice and discourage Wickedness as well as they, and these Laws are directed as a Rule of Justice for us to go by; so if we fulfil the Commands of God by his Prophets, we ought to purfite the Laws he hath ordained, and confequently they are as binding to us as they were to them; the Sins they punish being as heinous as ever, and equally deferving Death.

But the Doctor, more inclined to Mercy, (believing that God, who spake by the Prophets, would excuse Offenders of an insufferable Kind) says; "Our Government hath either increased, or mostic deraced the Punishment of Thest, Sabbath breaking, Perjury, and Adultery, as they found need-

" ful; and they have the same Liberty with respect to this of Sorcery, if they see good Reason." To which I answer; That tho' we moderate, or exasperate the Degrees of Punishment of Crimes of a less heinous Nature, we have not the same Liberty with respect to this, where there is the express Command of God that they shall not live. But if we may indeed do his Will, or let it alone at our own Pleafure; then we may grant Indulgences for the Breach of all his Commandments, and let the World abound in Sin, and flourish in Iniquity. But if Men shall think fit thus to fuffer a Breach to be made of God's Laws, it is a Question, how far God Almighty will approve of those that suffer his Commands to be broke and trampled upon? Whether we are not Accessories, in consenting to such Indulgences? For fince not to discourage, is in Esfect to encourage and approve of Wickedness; we seem, if we should connive at such Offences, to be equally guilty; and as far as those Laws are remitted, to be proportionably guilty of the same Facts.

But he goes on: "The Laws of the Old Testa"ment, in this Point, are mostly grounded upon Names "without Definitions along with them; and therefore, tho' they might be sufficiently known then, they can hardly be determined now so certainly,

"as to be made the Rule by which we may take "away our Neighbours Lives. Of all Kinds of Words, it is hardest to translate common Names " of Persons, because Length of Time fixes persed" ly different Characters to the very same Words.

"You know what a bad Man we mean by a Villiain; and yet anciently the very same Word sig-

" nisied only a Countryman, that lived in a Vil-

To which I answer; That the those Laws were writ in Words, or Names without Definitions, yet the Meaning of those Words was sufficiently known espect

cafpe-

a less

with

mand

y in-

Plea-reach

bound

fhall

le of

Al-

Com-

ether

ndul-

A to

eem,

ually

to be esta-

ames

nere-

hen,

inly,

take

s of

mes

fect-

ords.

Vid-

fig-

Vil-

vere

yet

OWN

uh-

To

without Definitions; and the Actions of those Perfons they were defigned against being manifest, it was certain such Persons were meant by such Names as commonly committed fuch Astions: And fince from Age to Age, the Meaning of Words and Characters are transferr'd, and carry'd down by Tradition, we may be as certain now of their Meaning as then. And it is plain that we are, by the Dostor's own Words: For if we know that Words are apply'd or made use of to signify different Things at different Times; our Knowledge of that Change in the Use of Words, makes their express Meaning as intelligible at one Time as at another. And we have as true and clear a Knowledge of Persons and Actions, tho' Names are apply'd to signify different Things; for that Alteration of their Meaning being understood and known, we have as distinct Ideas of those new-meant Things by that Name, as we had of those formerly-meant Things by that same Word; knowing that that Word is a Characteristick of fuch Ideas: For as formerly Villain fignified a Villager, or one that lived in a Village, and now is apply'd to denote a vile and scandalous Man, that Word now carries along with it the Character of fuch a Man, and represents that Meaning without confounding or intermixing the Notion of what it formerly represented. And as for the Difficulty of translating Words or Names, that is for small, that it appears to be none at all in confounding our Knowledge of Things: For if a Creature called a Horse, hath a Hibrew Name to denote such a Creature, and that Creature in Translation into our Language is called a Horse, the word Horse being of the fame Signification with the Hibren word, is as intelligible as it; and both Words with equal Certainty determine their Significations: And so the Words in the Old Testament having their original Meaning transferr'd by Tradition, and Words in English

01 ec

T

N

13 ad

0

a

d

0

I

•

t

English having the same Signification; the Drift and Design of those Laws are as well known now as then; and the Actions of the Persons those Laws were enacted against, which Actions denominate such Persons they were properly designed to express.

The Doctor goes on : " A Magician was one that was a wife Man and a Philosopher; and you know how Daniel endeavour'd to fave the Lives " of the Migicians in his Time. And Three Magicians came out of the East, to worldip our Sa-" viour." That Magicians were wife Men, no body questions; but they converted their Wit to an ill Purpose: And tho' they gain'd the Admiration of the People by the mighty Acts they did, (in some Cases being serviceable to the People) yet in other Cases, they were as pernicious and victous, in mifleading the People from the due Regard they ought to have to the Power of God; and his Works. Thus Pharaoh's wife Men, Exod. 5. 8. imitated a great many of the Miracles wrought by Mofes, which harden'd that wicked Tyrant's Heart. And this Thews, that their Power depended on the Affistance of a Diabolical Spirit, acting in Defiance of Moses's Works, which were done by Divine Affistance. And tho' Three Magicians came out of the East to wor-Thip our Saviour, this good Intention did not excuse those former ill Acts which they did by a Diabolical Affishance. Their Conversion to acknowledge the Divinity of our Saviour, was to his Glory; but ju-Rified not their wicked Practices, in dealing with famillar Spirits, by whose Affistance only they could play their Pranks. guage is called a tricle Page 183, he says, "A Conjurer is a very literal Translation of Exorcist; and yet Time hath made one Signification an Officer that is allowed in the Roman Church, and the other an infamous Cri-

Roman Church, and the other an infamous Cri-818673 rift

v as aws.

nate

ex-

that you

ives

la-

Saboiff i

of her

nifght

ius

eat ich his

SOF

s's

nd

or-

ufe

cal he

ua-

ild

ral

de

he

1

d,

" minal, both in their Church and ours." He goes on : " In the Time of Tacitus, and long after, fuch " ill People were call'd Mathematici; and if a " bad Name be an Argument against them, such a " good one should be as strong in their Favour." To which I answer; That the Name was no good Name when it signified bad People; but when it is apply'd to fignify that which is good, it becomes a good Name: So that the Goodness or Badness does not confift in the Name; that, when written, only confliting of Letters, and when spoke, of an articulate Sound; that is, to denote something it is apply'd to fignify. I fav, the Quality of the Body does not confift in its Name, but in the Nature of the Thing named; fo that altering the Names of Things, does not alter their Nature; for they retain that, let their Names be varied ever so much. For if the Name of Virtue was given to ill Actions, and of Vice to good ones, that would not make good bad, nor evil good; only Virtue would be frandalous, and Vice praise worthy. So that this Jargon about Words, will tend little to the Doctor's Advantage.

He further fays: " Sorcery is one of the most common Names in our Law-Books for Witch-" craft, and is made Felony by our Statute: But " to what little Purpose would they spend their " Time, who should go about to define the Crime " by the Name; for, in Strictness, Sorcery signi-" fies Lottery, and no more?" To which I anfwer, That if Sorcery be one of the most common Names of Witchcraft, and is Felony by the Statute; Sorcery and Witchcraft are in our Law fynonymous Terms, and confequently their Meaning is well understood; and there is no Occasion to define the Crime by the Name, fince the Nature of the Crime is well known, both by Fact, and the Names that express that Fact; And the Etymology of the Word Word is not concerned, if it is borrow'd to fignify Witchcraft; and we know it is made use of as a Characteristick of such a Crime.

He proceeds: "It seems very likely, that there hath happen'd as great a Change to the Word Witch; for Witch, if Dr. More interprets it rights ly, signifies a wise Woman; and we may be pretty sure that the Law was not, Thou shalt not fuffer a wise Woman to live." To which I answer, That the Magi were counted wise Men, because they knew and could do more than other People could do or know how to do; and so do Witches, But since all their Wisdom and Power proceeds from their Correspondence with evil Spirits, that Wisdom is what is condemned by the Law, and such wise Women are not fit to live.

The Doctor adds; "What the Hebrew Word et does fignify, I find Interpreters much at a Loss. " In the Popish Bible it is translated Inchanter; and et that does not imply a Person in Covenant with " the Devil, but one that thought to work Won-" ders by finging powerful Verses." To which I answer; That singing of no Verses can be so powerful, as to effect fuch Things as are done by Witchcraft or Inchantment, without the Affistance of the Devil or his Angels; and those Verses only serve to blind the World as a Charm, whilst the Devil fecretly does their Work for them. And as it is the Actions and the Person that does them that is punished by the Law, and not an empty Word or Sound; so it matters not whether that Person be denoted by the word Witch or Inchanter, as long as it means the Person guilty of such Actions.

The Doctor says further; "In the Vulgar Latin it is Venefica, or Poysoner: In the Septuagint it is paquares, a Word that favours the same Sense.

fanius and Tremellius translate it Prastigiatricem, a Juggler; and the French Church, a Sorcerer.

"The other Names in the 18th of Deuteronomy are interpreted as variously. Dr. More, and they that give great Credit to the Power of Magick, translate them into English Names that imply a great Power; as, Diviner, Inchanter, Charmer, Necromancer, Witch, Wizard, and Confulter with familiar Spirits. They that think all Magick to be mere Juggle, without any real Power, translate them Astrologers, Fortunetellers, Southsayers, Impostors, Observers of the Flying of Birds, Conjecturers, Consulters with Oracles, Ventriloquists, Gnosticks, and Jugglers. The Translations of the Septuagint, Junius and Tremellius, the old Translation of our English Bible, with respect to some of the Words, and very many Learned Men;

" incline this way.

gnify

28 2

Vord

ight-

y be

not anbe-

Peo-

ches.

rom

dom

wife

Vord

Loss.

and

with

on-

h I

wer-

tch-

the

e to fe-

the

ith-

nd;

by

the tin

tit

ife.

באוני

he.

The Doctor highly approves any Thing that inclines the way that he is inclined, but I fee not which way what he offers can tend to his Advantage: For tho' there may be a great many Appellations, that fignify Persons guilty of Actions of a finister Kind, yet the Difference of Words alters not the Nature of Things; and tho' these Words may fometimes be used allegorically and reciprocally one for another, by some particular Authors, confounding similar Cases one with another; yet that they have different Senses and Significations one from another, is plain from the Translations we ought to effeem most authentick, and that is our present Translation of the Bible; which as it is published by the Authority of the Church, and those whose judgment ought to be preferr'd before the Opinion of Two or Three private Men, we think what the Doctor fays not sufficient to call in question the Authority of so many Learned Menwell skill'd in Languages, and in the Sense of Words.

That Sorcery, Divination, Inchantment and Witchcraft, are of fimilar Kind of Actions is certain; fince all these wicked Practices are put in Execution by Virtue of a Diabolical Power, and confequently equally finful, and therefore equally condemned by the Scripture ; but that they differ'd in their Effects, and respect different Kinds of Actions, is as plain; there being a great deal of Difference betwixt one that pretends to prophely and foretel, and a wicked Spirit that tortures and torments, as in Witchcraft, And that there is a great deal of Difference in the Signification of these Words, is manifest from the Testimony of the Bible; where, Deut. 18. 10, 11. they are all distinctly mention'd in one or two Verses, the Scripture expresly saying, There shall not be found amongst you any one that maketh his Son or Daughter pass thro' the Fire, or that useth Divination, or an Observer of Times, or an Inchanter, or a Witch, or a Charmer, &c. Now if thefe Words had not different Meanings, what Occafion would there be to mention them all distinctly? But this Distinction implies a Difference.

But the Doctor, to favour his Cause, would needs confound the Meaning of these Words, and slies to particular Translations (not thinking it convenient to stand to that which the Church approves of) to gain his Point: He must have a Bible on Purpose; and would rather say the Bible is false, than his Opinion should be rejected; since one or the other must be erroncous. But I am still of Opinion, that the Bible, as now translated, is of greater Authority (being the Sense, and published by the Consent of the whole Church) than his single Opinion, or the Concurrence of one or two that may say something to favour his Cause. of to winofful A off notifier

Page 185, He quotes the Mirror of Justice, to prove "that Sorcery is the Art of Divination:" But this does not prove that Divination is Witchcraft;

CI

A

la

tl

V

"

CC

CI

S

0

I

V

1 itchfince

n by

ently d by

Fects,

ain;

cked

craft.

the

the

II.

tivo l'not

Son

Di-ban-

hefe

cca-

eeds

to

ient

to

ofe;

0-

her

hat

of

the

ing

to

h-

ft;

craft; the former only consulting the Devil and his Angels about what hath, or may happen; and the latter employing an evil Spirit to torment and torture their Fellow-Creatures, to satisfy their malicious, revengeful Tempers.

vengeful Tempers. But, Page 186, he goes on : " And the Holy " Scriptures teach us the same Doctrine; I Sam. 15. 22, 23. And Samuel faid, Hath the Lord as great delight in Burnt-Offerings and Sacrifices, " as in obeying the Voice of the Lord? Behold, to " obey is better than Sacrifice, and to bearken than " the Fat of Rams. For Rebellion is as the Sin of " Witchcraft, and Stubbornness as Imquity and Ido-" latry. Over-against the word Witchcraft in the Margin, is put Divination, which leads us to this " easy Sense of Samuel's pious Reproof." By this the Doctor would cunningly infinuate, that Witchcraft is Divination, because the Margin refers to a Sin of the like Kind, tho' different Practice: I say of the like Kind, because they both employ a Diabolical Spirit, tho employ'd in different Offices. The Doctor might as well fay, that Witchoraft is Rebellion, because the Text says, Rebellion is as Witchcraft. And indeed it is fo in respect of God and his Works, fince the Compact with the Devil is forfaking God, and their Actions war against his Works. But the the Doctor takes all this Pains to infinuate as if there was no fuch Thing as Witchcraft, or would endeavour to represent it so flightly, as by Divination, by Birds, 80%, yet if we look further into the faid Book of Samuel, we shall find that there is a Difference betwixt Divination, which is only a juggling Art, and Witchcraft: And tho' a Witch may also divine, and both may proceed from the same Diabolical Power, yet they seem to be different Actions of that Power. And tho' the Doctor makes so slight of such Creatures as Witches and Diviners, we may be fully fatisfied of the the Reality of fuch Actions, if we consult I Sam. 28. v. 3. Now Samuel was dead, and all Ifrael bad lamented him, and buried him in Ramah, even in his own City: And Saul had put away those that had familiar Spirits, and the Wizards out of the Land. Where it appears, that there were those that were familiar with evil Spirits, and with Wizards and Witches.

And tho' the Dostor, Page 185, and 186, would represent Witchcraft by Divination only, and that as a flight Divination by Augury, &c. yet that the Scripture testifies to the contrary, is plain, not only from what we have frequently quoted from Scripture, but further from Saul's Proceedings in this 28th Chapter of the first Book of Samuel, v. 6, to v. 15. And when Saul enquired of the Lord, the Lord answered him not, neither by Dreams, nor by Urim, nor by Prophets. Then faid Saul unto bu Servants, Seek me a Woman that hath a familiar Spirit, that I may go to her, and enquire of her. And his Servants said to him, Behold, there is a Woman that bath a familiar Spirit at Endor. And Saul disguized himself, and put on other Raiment; and he went, and two Men with him, and they came to the Woman by Night: And he faid, I pray thee divine to me by the familiar Spirit, and bring me him up whom I shall name unto thee. And the Woman said unto him, Behold, thou knowest what Saul hath done, how he hath cut off those that have familiar Spirits, and the Wizards out of the Land; wherefore then layest thou a Snare for my Life, to cause me to dye? And Saul sware to ber by the Lord, Saying, As the Lord liveth, there shall no Punishment happen to thee for this Thing. Then said the Woman, Whom shall I bring up unto thee? And he faid, Bring me up Samuel. And when the Woman faw Samuel, she cried with a loud Voice: And the Woman spake to Saul, saying, Why hast thou deceived me?

for thou art Saul. And the King said unto ber, Be not afraid: For what sawest thou? And the Woman said unto Saul, I saw Gods ascending out of the Earth. And he said unto ber, What Form is he of? And she said, An old Man cometh up; and he is covered with a Mantle. And Saul perceived that it was Samuel, and he stooped with his Face to the Ground, and bowed himself. And Samuel said to Saul, Why hast thou disquieted me, to bring me up? From whence it sully appears, that there are not only Witches and Wizards which deal with Familiar Spirits, but that they have power to Act by those Spirits, which may appear in what Shapes or Form they please.

Sam.

el bad

ven in

at had

Land.

were

s and would

nat as

t the only

Scrip-

this

6, 10

the

or by

o bis

niliar

her.

is a

And

ent;

ame

thee

me

the

obat

bave

and;

s, to

ord,

nent

Wo.

aid

Sa-

nan

ne !

for

But the Doctor would endeavour further to persuade us to be of his Opinion, by quoting some Texts of Scripture, which he wrests as well as he can to his Advantage; but if we take a full View of them, they appear wholly against him. The first is, feremiah xxvii. 9, 10. Therefore hearken not ye to your Prophets, nor to your Diviners, nor to your Dreamers, nor to your Enchanters, nor to your Sorcerers, which speak unto you, saying, Te shall not serve the King of Babylon: For they Prophely a Lie unto you, to remove you far from your Land. Where he makes a Distinction betwixt Prophets and Diviners, Sorcerers and Enchanters, and warns the People of their wicked Practifes. And again, Ifaiah xlvii. 12, 13. Stand near with thy Inchantments, and with the Multitude of thy Sorceries, wherein thou hast laboured from thy Youth; if so be thou shalt be able to profit, if so be thou mayest prevail. Thou art wearied in the Multitude of thy Counsels: Let now the Aftrologers, the Star-gazers, the Monthly Prognofticators fland up, and fave thee from those Things that shall come upon thee. In which Text we fee likewise, that Enchanters and Sorcerers are distinguished from Astrologers and Stargazers; and all of them are defied, fied, when God Almighty is pleased to interpose his bab. Superior Power, and to defeat their Works.

for Thus it appears, that what the Doctor urges in are favour of his Opinion, is against him; these Texts flin proving the Practice of Sorcery and Enchantments, wh though ineffectual, when opposed by that great Omnipotency, who can over-rule the Devices of Satan, and his evil Angels. And though he quotes a Text at out of Ezekiel xxi. 21, 22. to prove, That the King at of Babylon flood at the parting of the Way, at the Head of the Two Ways, to use Divination; what he adds, viz. he made his Arrows bright, he confulted with Images, he looked into the Liver. At his Right Hand was the Divination for Jerusalem. This does a not weaken the Testimony of those other Texts, " which positively acknowledge, and expressly mention witchcraft and Sorcery; nor does this Method w of Divining disprove that which proceeds from Corthese Cases, what was done by these Divinations, a might not be without the Assistance of evil Spiral rits, who might direct them in their Observations.

Nor does what he mentions in the Prophet Nahum, les disfavour his Opinion, Nahum iii. 4. Because of the Multitude of the Whoredoms of the well-favoured Harlot, the Mistress of Witcherafts, that selleth Nations through her Whoredoms, and Families through her Witchcrafts. For in this Place, the Harlot is charged distinctly, both with Whoredom and Witchcraft; so that the Prophet does not fay her Whoredoms were her Witcherafts, as the Doctor would suggest. And the like we find in Micah v. 12. And I will cut off Witchcrafts out of thine Hand, and thou shalt have no more Soothfayers. Verse 13. Thy Graven Images also will I cut off. In which Place the Prophet threatens Destruction to Witcheraft and Soothfayers, the latter of which probably fie

A

th

G

V

to

W

tl

CC

cc

11

t

t

le his bably making their Forms of Predictions only a Cloak for what they did by Familiar Spirits. But here we es in are further to observe, that he likewise makes a Di-phet

i. 4.

afts,

Fa-

lace,

ore-

not

the

in

t of

iers.

off.

n to

pro-

ably

for what they did by Pamiliar Spirits. But here we are further to observe, that he likewise makes a Diffinction betwixt Witchcraft, and those Idolatries which the Doctor would suggest to be meant by their Witchcrafts.

Page the 191st, he says, "The Sorcerers in the Witchcrafts.

Page the 191st, he says, "The Sorcerers in the Witchcrafts and Sorceries were their pretended Inspirations, Miracles and Visions, at he whiereby they imitated, and tried to outdo the sulfed true Apostles, —they had their seigned Visions, Right Revelations, and counterfeit Inspirations. That is the Reason that St. John, I Epist. c. 4. Verse I. exits, "exhorts the Christians he wrote to, To try the Spirathous trits whether they are of God, because many salse that Prophets are gone out into the World.— The Sons of Sceva ventured to make a Tryal, whether they could not venture to cast out a Devil; and though ions, at that Time he would not be ejected, at another Time he might give Credit to one of his own Instruments. Now if the Doctor allows that these l'ersons were Now if the Dofor allows that these Persons were the Devil's Instruments, and acted by virtue of his Power, so that they imitated what was done by the Apostles, why are not these properly Witchcrafts. fince they are done by a fupernatural Power, and by the Affistance of an evil Spirit, which was not of God? For, as we have observed, all the Actions of Witches are not alike; fometimes they torment and torture, fometimes they delude, and deceive Men with strange Apparitions and Visions, and so did these in the New Testament. But he fays, Page 192, "That St. Paul, when he speaks of Witchcraft, " usually joins it with Idolatry and Heresy." And well he may, fince they are all Acts of the Devil, though of different Kinds; by the same Power, though by different Agents, and after a different Man-

thi

h

Manner; yet this joining of these Words together. makes them no more fignify the same Thing, than joining Idolatry and Herefy, makes those Two Words of a like Signification. But supposing the Word Witchcraft were used allegorically in that Sense, because both Crimes are alike of a heinous Nature, and all proceed from the Power and Delufions of the Devil, who withdraws Mankind from the Worship of the true God, to serve him; yet this would not necessarily make it imply, that there is no such Thing as Witchcrafts; nay, Page 193, he owns that there were such a fort of People called Witches; and Page 195, that their Works were Supernatural, above the Power of Man or Matter. And Page 194, he fays, "Whofoever opposes" and corrupts God's Truth, whofoever promotes er Principles that give Liberty to Sin, (not meaning et himself) whosoever disturbs the Happiness of

"Mankind—every fuch Man Sacrifices to the De-

Works of the Devil.

From what we have observed, it may sufficiently appear, that both the Old and New Testament accused several of Witchcraft; and that they, as well then as now, acted by the Assistance of a Diabolical Power; which is the Notion we have, at this prefent, of Witches; only the Restraint of the Laws, as they did the Witch of Endor, makes them afraid to act and follow their ill Practifes openly; but were it not for that Restraint, no doubt but the Devil would be as ready to thew himself in the same Shapes as he ever did, and commit as great Enormities; but however cautiously these Creatures may now do the Devil's Work, though they escape the Laws of Men, and their Notice, they cannot Difguise themselves from the all seeing Eye of God, whose Vengeance will soon overtake, and fall upon them. And though the Doctor would extenuate their ether,

than

Two

g the

that inous

Delu-

from

yet

there

alled e Suatter. pofes

ning s of

De-

the

ently

t ac-

well

lical

pre-

aws.

raid

vere

evil

ıme

or-nay

the

Dif-

iod,

noc

ate

their Crimes, and excuse them, it is the strict Law of God, and his express Command, that they should not go unpunished. I shall conclude this Chapter with what the Doctor says himself, Page 188, after all his Puzzle to dissuade the same, viz: The Words of the Lord Chief-Baron Hale, which were part of his Direction to the Jury, at the Tryal of those Two that he condemned. Said he, "The Wisdom of all Nations hath provided Laws against such Persons, which is an Argument of their Considence of such a Crime.

CHAP. VIII.

Containing some Remarks on his Thirteenth Chapter, of the Laws of Nations.

THE Doctor throughout his Books, hath espoused the Cause of Witchcraft with a great deal of Art, Zeal and Tenderness over them, complaining of the Severity of Prosecutions, and the Strictness of the Laws, which he would have mitigated or annulled, for the Encouragement and Safety of those miserable Creatures, though Divine Laws condemn them, as pernicious Abusers of Mankind, and not sit to live.

And the better to dispose the World to Moderation in such Cases, or a plenary Indulgence for the worst of Crimes, in this Chapter he gives us an Account of the gradual Steps that were taken against such Crimes, in different Times and Nations, which we shall take a brief View of, that we may the better determine how far they were in the right,

...

(0

((

((

(6

K

V

tì

t

0

a

V t

I

a

and how far wrong, either to his Advantage, or God, and his express Command, this niege

Page the 199th, he thus begins; & And first, et Lambertus Danaus tells us, Chap. VI. that as colong as the Nations were Idolaters; they used " the Help of Magick and Sorcery without Scruple, " and had those that were skilled in it in Honour;

" and that to this Day, it is much in Use amongst

" the barbarous Nations, both in the North and Eaf. and amongst the Tartars, and the West-Indians.

" He proceeds, that in all the Empire of Perfia, the " Study and Arts of these Men are in Esteem ec now, as it was amongst the Agyptians for-ec merly.

"When Foseph asked his Brethren whether "they thought fuch a Man as he could not Di-" vine; he speaks not of Divination as a Fault,

" but as a necessary Qualification of a great ec Man.

Some Remarks on bus " In the Magick of Kirami and Carpocraet tion, it is said that it was a necessary Quali-" fication, required in the Kings of Persia. And

"Tully, in his Book of Divination, fays the the Caule of Witcheraft with a great demath

Most of the Ancient Philosophers, the Chalci deans, the Magi, Druids, Brachmans, and Plato-the Laws, which he would bear bewolf or all we

But for this Practice of the Ancients, the Doctor gives a Reason himself. - "Natural Reason co could no ways guess, that those Spirits were fallen " from their first Creation; or that they were Ene-"mies to Mankind. Their first Thoughts would raco ther be, that all reasonable Creatures, though inwifible, would be of a friendly Mind, and affifting

"to all with whom they had Communications, and either say nothing, or tell Truth to those that ence quired of them. This the first Men would na" turally hope; and without Revelation, nothing cc but

"but Experience could teach them, that either there was nothing but the Chance of Things, that seem- ed to answer their Tryals; or else, that those Spi- rits that dealt with them, were deceitful and missing chievous Things, that took a wicked Pleasure in " their Delusion and Destruction.

10

A,

as fed

ole,

ur;

gft

aft,

Ms.

the

em

or-

her

Di-

ılt,

eat

ra-

ali-

nd

the

al-

100-tor fon

len

ne-

ra-

in-

ing

and

en-

na-

ing but

From whence it appears, that the Doctor allows and acknowledges these wicked Spirits, or Beings; and that it lay in their Power to deceive and delude Mankind. And that it was only for want of a Knowledge of God, and his Goodness, and the Devil and his Angels, that made them give ear to the Devil, and do his Works; and all that made it no Crime, was, for want of Revelations, and Laws to restrain that Practice: But the Doctor would abolish those Laws, or hinder their Execution, let the Wicked go unpunished, and leave the World at Liberty to use their Freedom; for in the beginning of this Essay, he is for leaving all to the Righteous Judge after Death, and will by no Means allow what he now expresses of the Communications of the Spinits; but it is a long way from the beginning of his Essay, and a Man may alter his Opinion in less Time than he was writing of it.

But now we are undeceived as to the Nature of those evil Spirits, and know both their ill Intentions and Designs, we are to stand upon our Guard, and oppose such Practices with all our Might, we ought to abandon the Devil, and forsake all his Works, and to have no such Communication with him. To which End, and to discourage such mistaken Notions, Divine Revelation having put us into a better Light, as the Doctor takes Notice, Laws were made to forbid the Dealing with such wicked Spirits; and, as the Doctor fays,

"The Laws in the Holy Scripture, are the first that we know of: and it must ever be accounted to the Honour of revealed Religion, that it was the "first in forbidding such pretended, and very dan"gerous Communications." Here I cannot but wonder, why the Doctor should call them pretended Communications, if dangerous, since they cannot be dangerous, except real; and if not real, where would be the Honour of forbidding them?

And if it be an Honour to forbid them, Why would the Doctor have Religion lose that Honour, in not executing the Laws made against such Crimes? For though there was no Sin till Laws were made, now they are established, they ought to be put in Execution against such abominable Breaches of Laws prescribed by God's especial Command, by the Mouth of the Prophets.

He goes on, and says; "The next that I meet

"with, and which is often quoted to prove the real Power of Magick, are those of the Twelve Ta- bles: That they should not bewitch the Fruits of the Earth, nor use any Charms to draw their Neighbours Corn into their own Fields;"—And though the Doctor, by Seneca's Authority, calls the Truth of this in Question, yet, at that Time when those Laws were made, they must be fensible of some

ir

ge

m

extraordinary Effects of such Charms, or they would never have enasted Laws against them.

He goes on; "About a Hundred and Fifty Years after that, the Lex Cornelia, another Roman Law, was made, and is usually quoted as a Law against Sorcery. And indeed it was against Poisoning, mala Sacrificia, (i.e. Sacrifices to Devils) and was made when a Hundred and Seventy Roman Women, of the better Quality, were condemned for really poisoning those they had a mind to remove." This Law the Doctor would have to suggest, that Sorcery signify'd Poisoning; but that, notwithstanding this Insinuation, must be equally designed against what was called Sorcery, the Word Sorcery referring to mala Sacrificia, which I call Sacrifices lan-

but

pre-

ney

m?

bluc

not

For

won

ecu-

pre-

outh

neet

real

Ta-

s of

heir

And

the

ome

bluc

ears

aw,

inst

ing,

man

med

re-

ot-

deord

call

Sacrifices to Devils; because those which they allowed of, according to their Form of Worship, could not be called ill Sacrifices, but good; and we are told by Witches, that they often keep mock Sacrifices, or Sacraments to the Devil, in Contempt of the true Sacrament.

He proceeds, " The next Law that I know of, " was made by Constantine, the first Roman Empe-" ror: His Law required, that they should be pu-" nished, if they used Charms to do Hurt; but it " should be lawful to use them for restoring Health, " or preserving the Fruits of the Earth." From which Law it appears, that they had a Power to do Hurt, by Virtue of their Charms, and did a great deal, otherwise they had not been so far taken Notice of, as to oblige the Government to make Laws to prevent their ill Effects; and that they have a Power likewise to do Good, may reasonably be supposed, if we do but take Notice of the Wonders the Magicians performed, by Virtue of their Charms, in Imitation of the Miracles which Moses did, which were done to shew the Power of the true God, far exceeding the Efforts of the Devil and his Angels, who affifted those Magicians in their Performance. The Words of this Law, as the Doctor cites them, are as follows: "Their Skill is to be con-" demned, and very deservedly punished in the se-" verest Manner; who being furnished with Know-" ledge of the Magick Art, shall have acted any "Thing, either for the impairing of a Man's " Health, or drawing chaste Minds to unlawful Love. "But no Vexations are to be brought against Re-" medies that are fought for the Bodies of Men, " or Charms that are innocently used in Country " Places, &oc.

"About a Hundred Years after that, the Em"peror Leo the First, abrogated this Law, and for"bad all Use of them." He proceeds further, and fays: " Mr. Tyrrel, in his History of England, Wol. I. Book V. Page 340, fays, that the Sixth 1 Law of King Athelftan, was against Witchcrafts, st Enchantments, and the like Deeds that procure se Death. That if any of them be made away, and " the Thing cannot be denied, such Practifers shall be put to Death." Now if we take a View of all these Laws, we shall find, that as Virtue and Religion gave the World a better Taste and Disgust to these vicious Practices, they still inflicted severer Punishments on Offenders; but now Religion is slighted and funk to a low Ebb, and Vice flourishes without Controul, all manner of Wickedness going unpunished: we live almost as loose, as Mankind in their first Blindness, before the Will of God was rewealed to us. All manner of Punishments of Vice are fo mach remitted and mitigated, that it is no wonder a Stickler should set up in Defence of these Criminals, lest they should not have their equal share of Indulgence with the rest of Sinners.
H 2 says

After human Laws, the Doctor mentions some Canons of the Church, which condemn these evil Practices; and fays, Page 205, " These Canons es teach us, that such Wizards deserve Punishment, as it is most certain they do." And the next Paragraph he subjoins, "There are some other Canons that cenfure them, without defining their Art." Which shews that the Church hath in all Ages cenfured and condemned fuch Vices, and confequently believed them to be true; yet notwithstanding, the Doctor endeavours to infinuate the contrary of what he allows in the same Paragraph, in these Words, "But by joining them with those known "Chears, I think, they intimate to us, that they " thought them very like one another;" as if they could suppose what they thought true, like what they disapproved; yet in one Sense I am of his Opinion, that what is a Cheat, may be very like what is true, or it would not be very likely to impose upon any body.

Sixth

rafts.

ocure and shall of all

Reli-

of to r Pu-

light-

with-

g und in

Vice

S 110

these qual

fome

evil

nons

Pa-

Ca-

their all

nfe-

andrary

hese

own

they

hey

ion,

10

Here he goes on; "But that which I reckon to have fer this Point of Witchcraft upon the Foot that it stands on now, was something less than Law or Canon; it was that Bull I mentioned, of Pope Innocent's the Eighth." This is but a weak Argument to lessen the Belief of the Footing it is now upon; but it cannot lessen the Credit of its Footing, because the Pope believes Witchcraft; since it is rather an additional Confirmation of what we believe, since both we and they consent jointly to the same Sense of the Scriptures, which confirms both our Beliefs. But further, I do not understand why the Doctor should build our Belief upon this Bull, when, in the next Chapter, he says, it was from Scotland.

But, as I was faying before, this additional Confent in Opinion may confirm ours. I shall take a View of this Bull, as the Doctor gives it us. Which is as followeth:

"Innocent, Bishop, a Servant of the Servants of God, in perpetual Memory of the Thing, &c." It is come to our Ears, that great Numbers of both Sexes, careless of their own Salvation, and falling from the Catholick Faith, are not afraid to abuse their own Bodies, with Devils that serve to both Sexes. And with their Inchantments, Charms and Sorceries, they vex and afflict Man and Beast, both with inward and outward Pains and Tortures. They render Men and Women impotent for Generation. They destroy the Births of Women, and the Increase of Cattle. They blast the Corn of the Ground, the Grapes of the Vine, the Fruit of the Trees, and the Grafs and

th

66

CC

66

I

t

We, therefore, according to our Duty, being desirous to apply fit Remedies for so great an Evil, c do by our Apostolick Authority, appoint by these er Presents, soc. that the Persons aforesaid, shall exercise the Office of Inquisiti, and correct, imprier son, punish and fine, &gc. all Persons that shall be found guilty of the Crimes aforesaid, &c. " And whereas many, both of the Clergy and Laity, " feeking to be wife above what is fit, did not blush to affert, that the Persons were not to be or profecuted in those Points, we command all "Opposers, Contradictors, or hinderers of those "Profecutions, of whatfoever State, Dignity, Ex-" cellence or Præeminence they may be, to be excommunicated, or suspended, as Occasion shall re-". quire, or punished with greater or more formidable Punishments; and, if there be Need, that the " fecular Arm be called in to help. Given at Rome, " in the Year of the Incarnation of our Lord, ° 1484.

Upon this Occasion the Doctor builds, or at least endeavours to force a way to gain his Point, and make his Opinion more apt to be credited; he thinks all will espouse his Cause against a Popish Bull, though our own Church, and the Scripture believe the fame; therefore, after telling us that a great many were executed upon this, and that great Terror was spread about the Country, for fear of these Witches, and that great Numbers were condemned and executed; he fays, " The Writers of that Age " studied for Causes, which might be the Reason er why they had so many Witches above former Times; the Reason they assign is, that their Age was a Time of great Illumination, and therefore "God permitted the Devil the more Power, that their Temptations might be proportionable to "their Talents." But the Coffor not approving of this,

ing

vil,

hele

hall

pri-

nall

oc.

ity,

1100

be

all

ofe

Ex-

ex-

re-

la-

he

20,

d,

ft

nd

53

e

t

r

e

this, as not being to his Purpose, says, " But the " Reason I must give is, that it was an Age of Su-" perstition and Ignorance, and their own Creduli-" ty and Folly, and joining Witchcraft with He-" refy." But fince the Doctor owns that Witchcraft was in the Cafe, he might as well have faid so many Witches was the Reason; but Superstition and Ignorance always stand by the Doctor for Reasons: But I would ask the Doctor, whether the Times when Revealed Religion but just appeared, was not likely to be an Age of more Ignorance? And the Times of our Saviour were not also more Ignorant and Superstitious, before the Will of God, or the Light of the Gospel was well known, or shone through the World? Which I believe so plain and manifest, that I need no Arguments to prove the great Advantages we had of more Light, to disperse Ignorance and Superstition. And I suppose they were more brief in those Times, when God Almighty, by his Prophets, denounced fuch heavy Judgments, and severe Punishments. And this appears from what the Doctor himself hath observed; for before the Light of Revealed Religion, as he observes in the beginning of this Chapter we are considering, the Practice of Magick, and dealing with Familiar Spirits, was no Crime, they then not knowing the Devil to be their Enemy; and therefore so many being skilled in those Arts, it must be a long Time before so great an Evil could be rooted out; but a greater and clearer Light of Nature, and Severity of Laws, hath gradually cleared the World of those Practices in a great Measure; though I am apt to think, that the Devil hath a great many Agents yet of that Kind, though they work more cunningly, and do not act fo openfaced.

But the Dostor adds, "Some Observations concerning the State of the Age, and the particular H 4. "ArguArguments, with which they maintained their opinion.

"First, he says, the Authority of these Inquisitions was not grounded upon any Canon of a "Council, but a Pope's Bull." To which I answer, that the Pope's Authority in his own Territories, is counted sufficient; and consequently the Inquisition legal in their Constitution; and if they found them guilty, the Law of God condemns them.

The Doctor's Second Observation is, "That their Heads were full of Romances, Legends and Spi"rits, and Melancholy Notions." So that the Doctor will allow evil Spirits to be in the People, though not bewitched. And rather than want a bundle of Words, instead of an Argument, supposes the whole Country to be Hypochondriack, and the World a universal Mad-house, filled with a crazy Generation.

His Third Observation is, "That the Council of Aquileas had determined, they could not really change a Man or a Woman into any other Shape; but the Confessions of the Witches proved to the contrary." This is but a small Argument for the Doctor; for though they may not be transformed in Real Substance, yet they may in Appearance, as is manifest by what the Doctor adds against himself; or Satan may delude them, so that they think themselves transformed, and may appear so, though they are not. Instances enough of which Delusions, we have given in our Compleat History.

After some Banter, not worth Notice, the Doctor observes, Page 112, that the casting Evidence in most Tryals, was the Confessions of the Parties, and these Confessions were drawn from them by Tortures. Thus they use the Rack upon the Wheel, in other Crimes less heinous; but I should scarce make use of such Means, without very strong Presumptions of Reality; but that best appeared to those who were

WE

Ac

ou

an

be ou

fit

W

th

ar

W

((

(C

66

C

((

66

66

"

((

were to try them, and by the Circumstances of their Accusation and Tryal. But methinks the Doctor ought not to suspect those Confessions, since Page 210, just before, he acknowledges himself, that Heresy and Witchcraft joined, were the Occasion of so many being executed.

heir

nisi-

fa

ver,

, 18

ion

eir

pithe

ole,

: a

les he

zy

of

e;

he

1e

in is

f;

y

r

n

The next Chapter is wholly spent in Remarks on our Statutes against Witchcraft, &c. but since that consists either of Reslections on Religion, or Suppofitions of the Doctor's, I fee nothing that either wants, or is worth while to argue about; it is plain the Government thought fit to make Statutes against fuch Practices; and that Page 224, Agnes Sympson, and several others, confessed themselves guilty of Witchcraft. " And Agnes Sympson told King " James, she had been at Church at Eleven a Clock " at Night, with above a Hundred other Witches. "They had black Candles, the faid, fet round the " Pulpit, and the Devil, in a black Gown and Hat, preached to them, that they should keep his Commandments, of doing all the Ill they could. Them they opened Three Graves, and took the Fingers and Toes, and Noses of the Dead People, and she had a Winding-sheet, and Two Joints, for her Share. After that they kiffed the Devil's' Backfide, and went away." Upon which King: fames the First, a Prince of great Learning, and as great natural Parts, took Care to provide a Statute against such Proceedings. The Words to that Purpose being as follows: " If any shall take up any dead Man, Woman, or Child, out of his or her, " or their Graves, or any other Place where the "Dead Body resteth, or the Skin, Bones, or any " other Part of any dead Person, to be employed or " used in any manner of Witchcraft, Inchantment, " Charm or Sorcery." This the Doctor supposes was promoted by that good King; and if fo, it is of greater Force, and an additional Argument on our H. 5 Side ;

Side; for if so great a Prince, both in Parts, Learning, and Piety, thought Reason sufficient on his Side, to persuade him to such an Opinion, it ought to have the stronger Insuence, since it was not either with design of Profit or Advantage, that moved him to that Faith, but the Evidence of Reason, Scripture, and moral Testimony.

The Doctor goes on, "And I must add, that the Translation of our Bible being made soon after, by King James's particular Desire, hath received fome Phrases that favour the vulgar Notions, more than the old Translation did:" I am glad we have so worthy a Patriot on our Side, who was a great Scholar, and unbiassed in his Actions, and understanding that Language, was able to see Justice done to the Original.

But the Doctor fays, "At that unhappy Time, there was brought in that gross Notion of a Familiar Spirit, though the Hebrew Word hath no Epithet at all; and should rather have been transflated into some of those Words, that signify a cheating Ventriloquist." To which I answer, that shough there be no Epithet in the Hebrew, yet as those Spirits are made samiliar, by their Communication with such as employ them, the Epithet is just; but though the Doctor dislike the Epithet Familiar, yet he would gladly admit of the Epithet Cheating, because that would serve his Purpose; besides, the Word Ventriloquist, or some of those, would very well suit the Nature of his Discourse.

Page 227, the Doctor proceeds, "Not that I would have our cheating Fortunetellers, Jugglers, pretended Conjurers, Witch-Doctors, Gypfies, Calculators of Nativities, or any that are guilty

"I am so far from that, that I heartily wish the Grand-Juries would present such Misdemeanors,

and 66.

"

ce

th

ex

C

ha

fo

fo

W

10

a

th

th

di

th

V

tì

23 (0

cc

20

"

Ç

8 ŀ

2 3

&quot; of cruel Curses, and Threatnings, or any real outward Acts of Sorcery, to be suffered unpunished." I am so far from that that I heartily wish the

m-

his ght

not

hat

ea-

the

ter,

ved

ore

ave

eat

ler-

one

me,

Fa-

no

an-

7 a

hat

23 ni-

is

a-

net

be-

fe,

TS,

es,

ty

las

ed.

he

rs,

"and have them punished more severely than they are." Here the Doctor owns real Acts of Sorcery, and would have them punished worse than they are; though throughout his Essay, he was for excusing and mitigating both the Nature of their Crimes and Punishment. According to this, it is a hard Thing to know which Side the Doctor is on; for now he contradicts what he hath often said before, and just now in the same Page, where he would have Familiar Spirits called cheating Ventriloquists; the latter of which he explains elsewhere, a way of dissembling and seigning of Sounds. So that the Doctor represents Two Persons, but not like the Two Sosias in Amphitryon, which could not be dissinguished, but so much opposite and unlikely, that they are suite contrave to one another that they are quite contrary to one another.

We shall conclude this Chapter with this Observation, viz. That the Doctor, Page 227, fays further, "These Doctrines have often been made " Party Causes, both in our own and other Na-" tions. One Side lays hold of them as Arguments. " of greater Faith and Orthodoxy, and closer Adhe-" rence to Scripture, and calls the other Atheists, " Sadducees and Infidels. The People eafily fall in " with fuch popular Pretences." That these Do-Arines are made use of as Party Bufiness, is plain, by the Doctor's various Reflections; and I am not ashamed, that my Arguments and Opinion have this greater Truth, by their close Adherence to Scripture; and though I call the Doctor neither Atheist nor Infidel, because he thinks fit to vary his Opinion from such close Adherence to Scripture, yet I shall be glad to be one of those People always, that fall in with such popular Pretences. I take the Scripture to be the Rule and Standard of my Belief, as it is tranflated and published by the confent of the Church. and with their Approbation, who are the Heads of the Church, and have most Right and Probability of leading me in the right Way; but if the Doctor pleases to quit his Adherence to the Scripture, and disallows the Validity of its Testimony, he may be his own Chuser, but shall not be my Director.

Hitherto we have considered and examined what the Doctor hath said of Witchcraft, either as he defends his own Opinion, or is against it, or ours; in the next Place, he proceeds to a Collection of Impostors detected, as he calls them; but my Intent being only to vindicate Truth, and not to concern my self on purpose with Impositions, I shall leave the Doctor to enjoy the Satisfaction he may have in his Collection of Impostures, having said what is sufficient to vindicate our compleat History of confirmed Truths. And though the Doctor says, Page 286, "That that Judge that hangs a Witch, will never be thought a Conjurer:" Yet he that does not hang a Witch upon sair Proof, and lawful Evidence, neither acts according to the Laws of God nor Man.

Having thus finished the first Part, and examin'd what the Doctor hath said of Witchcraft, we shall next proceed to the Second Part, where we shall further consider what is necessary to determine the.

Power and Possibility of Witchcraft.

A Vin-

A Vindication of a Compleat History of Magick, Sorcery, and Witchcraft, &c.

In Answer to

Dr. Hutchinson's HISTORICAL ESSAY.

PART II.

CHAP. I.

Of the Nature of Material and Immaterial Substances.

nd

ay

at

in o-

e-

he his fi-

ed 6,

i-

d.

e.

HAT we may more clearly apprehend how human Bodies may be afflicted by by the Power of Witchcraft, and how those Servants or Agents of the Devilmay put their evil Practices in Execution, by the Mediation or Affistance of evil Spirits, we are to consider the Nature and Properties of human Bodies, and of Spirits, and how the former may be altered, and preternaturally indisposed by the Influence of the latter.

And first, that we may form the clearer and more intelligible Ideas, of the Nature and Properties of human human Bodics, we are to consider, that a human-Body consists of Material Parts, and an Immaterial Soul; which united to that Body, aptly organized, makes up the compleat Creature, called Man.

And as human Kind, which are chiefly the Subject the Devil and his Agents work upon, and affect in the Practice of Witcheraft, confist of a Material and Immaterial Substance united, both of which are affected by the Diabolical Power of Witcheraft; that we may the better understand how the former are or may be disordered by the latter, both as Material and Immaterial, we shall first consider the Nature of Material and Immaterial Substances, in Relation to human Bodies, and then of Spirits Good or Evil; especially Diabolical, as they act upon both the former.

And first, to form a clearer Notion or Idea of human Bodies, as material, we are to consider, that when that great Omnipotent Power, which was the first Cause of all Things, first created Matter, it consisted of Parts of an Homogeneous Nature; no one Part, as Matter, being different from another: So that material Substance in its Primitive State, and as the Substance of Accidents, was a similar Body, not diversified by different Qualities.

But when, by the Will of that eternal Power, who first created Matter, the Parts of it were put in Motion, they soon divided one another into Parts of different Sizes, Shapes and Magnitude; which again convening or being added together in various Manners or Modes, according to that different Contexture put on new Forms, and consequently Matter consisting of Parts in different Forms, became Heterogeneous, in respect of one another, being diversified from one another by those Forms.

Now when Matter had thus put on different Forms, by a new Convention or Coalition, and Contexture of Parts, they acquired different Qualities,

li

V

f qt

C

a

t

t

I

t

1

V

10

a

Q

an-

rial

ed,

ıb-

ect

ial

are

hat

are

ial

of

to il;

ייונ

of.

nat

he

n-

ne

So

as

at

er,

in

of

in

n-

re

1-

0-

G-ıt

d

-

S

fities, and acted upon one another after different Manners, still adding to the Variety of new Forms, and consequently different Qualities, as they were united and joined together variously, and modified after a distinct Manner. Those Compositions of new Forms, which were in Motion, and continued so, made up and composed different Kinds of Liquids, or fluid Substances, but those which happened to cease from Motion, and to unite in a perfect Rest, formed solid Bodies, various according to their different united Parts, or the Variety of concerted Forms.

If then, primary Matter came thus to be diverfified into different Substances, and Liquid Bodies confist of Parts in a constant and perpetual Motion, as long as they continue Fluid; it will follow that the Parts of Matter acting upon one another, by Virtue of their Motion, will still break the Parts of Matter so compounded, into Parts of different Size and Shape from what they were before; and those new modified Parts being again united, will make different Substances, or new Forms; and as these Parts are more or less Rarified and Subtle, they will infinuate themselves betwixt the Parts of other groffer Bodies, and subtilize and rarify them; but if they meet with Parts that result their Force, they will be entangled betwixt those groffer Parts, and losing their acquired Motion, unite with that Solid, and altering its Form by their Concurrence, will alter its Qualities.

Thus Bodies, or material Substances, by constantly acting one upon another, are subject to successive Alterations, and to put on new Forms, and consequently to be endowed with new Qualities. So that material Substances being always liable to these Alterations, are not only said to be corruptible, since their Forms are always liable to be changed, and their Qualities to differ; but as they compose human Bodies, Bodies, either in a Solid or Liquid Form, those Bodies are liable to Decay, and to be put out of their Natural State; for human Bodies confift not only of Solid Parts, which may alter their Qualities, as I just observed, by the addition of Parts in Motion, entangled in their Pores, and altering the Form of the whole; but Liquid Bodies also being made up, and composed of Parts of different and heterogeneous Qualities, they likewise become subject to Changes, and are liable to be depraved and perverted from their natural State, which renders human Bodies corruptible, and subject to Death, or those less pernicious Diforders, which occasion the various Symptoms both of internal and external Distempers; as Deliriums, Convulfive Motions of the Stomach, Intestines, and Diaphragma, and also of the Muscles; but when these appear, they are easily di-Ringuished, and known as the proper Symptoms that attend particular Distempers.

But the Liquid, and confequently the Solid Parts of a human Body, are not only subject to Alterations, by the Influence and mutual Coaction of the Parts of the same Body, but also by the Concurrence of external Causes, which are Extrinsick, and Nonnatural, in respect of those Humours that the Body confifts of; as the Temperature of the Air, the Qualities of which are variously diversify'd, accordingly as it is impregnated with the addition of Particles exhaling from the Bowels, or the Superficies of the Earth.

Human Bodies receive different Alterations likewise, from the various Natures, or the Temper of those Things they receive their Nourishment from; whether Solids, as common Food of different Kinds, or Liquids of several Natures, either altered by Fermentation, Digestion, or Distillation.

The Tempers of our Bodies also are very much altered, by the firong Impressions of Passions of the Mind;

M

cho

216 Te

che

fon cio

lin

are Te hea

and by

VII

dif

Pe cli

tra tec

10

Bo

or

Soi

leq

as

fub

ble

fen

im

or

col

con

mı

cai

Mind; for as the Mind is of a chearful or melancholy Disposition, so the Humours of human Bodies, are better or less digested; and consequently the Temper of the whole altered; thus we see those of a chearful Temper of Mind, of a hearty and wholesome Disposition of Body, brisk, lively, and vivacious; whereas those of melancholy Dispositions, linger and pine away; and accordingly, as Bodies are more or less inclined to either of these Two Tempers, so Constitutions vary, and are either healthful and strong, or infirm and disordered.

Nay, the Impressions of the Mind are so strong, and the Disposition of the Humours so easily altered by them, that daily Experience is sufficient to convince us, how the Temperature of the Body is to be discovered by the Instuence of the Soul. Several Persons, through Grief and Sorrow, gradually decline, pine away, and die; and others, by the contrary Passions, having their Spirits raised and animated, recruit and recover from a lingring Condition, to a State of Health.

30-

eir

nly

as

on,

of

up,

ne-

anted

304 ess

ous

mto-

he

di-

ms

rts

ra-

he

ice

ndy

d-

IT-

OF

e-

of 1;

ls,

1-

ne:

There is such a strict Union betwixt the Soul and Body, that they both Sympathize with their mutual, or each others Changes; if the Body be afflicted, the Soul suffers, and the Spirits are depressed, and consequently the whole languishes and decays.

Thus much being sufficient to our present Purpose, as to the Nature of Material Substances, which are subject to Changes, and are endowed with corruptible Qualities; we shall next, according to our present Intention, proceed to consider the Nature of immaterial Substances, as they relate to human Souls, or such immaterial Substances as may be united, and cohabit with them, and be of eternal Duration, and continue with them for ever.

What Changes Matter, in the State it is now in, must undergo, to become immaterial or immortal, we cannot so throughly understand, as to form adequate Notions

a

ma

Sub

the

and

AR

got

Ete

too

gin

feet

hoc

be

Notions of it; we can only affirm Negatively, that ter an immaterial Substance must have none of those W Qualities it now hath in a Mortal State; an immaterial Substance must not consist of Parts in Motion, that as Matter does, for then they would be apt and sub-dy ject to Decay, Parts flying away, and making a loss of Subfrance; they must not want Supplies of additional Substance, none of their former being wanting; their Sight must be of another Kind, and a cha different manner of Vision, having no such Organs fro. as are common to corruptible Creatures; nor must pia their other Qualities he like those of corruptible 7el Bodies.

But the we cannot form adequate Notions of this this Change, nor throughly comprehend how Matter is t may be so alter'd as to become immaterial, yet that it may and will be fo, is plain from the Testimony I of Scripture, and the Article of our Belief concerning the Refurrection. And first, 1 Cor. 15. 40. we what are told, There are also celestial Bodies, and Bodies and terrefrial; but the Glory of the celeftial is one, and for the Glory of the terrestrial another. And again, ing v. 51, 52. We shall not all sleep, but we shall be Te changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last Trump. For the Trumpet shall found, and the Dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. And to illustrate this Change; v. 53. the Apostle says, For this Corruptible must put on Incorruption, and this Mortal must put on Immortality. From whence it appears, that this Body must not only be incorruptible, but what now is subject to Corruption, must be so alter'd as to become immortal, and consequently an immaterial Substance; fince what is not immaterial, must be mortal.

But to shew further that Matter must be so alter'd as to become immaterial, the Apostle (v. 44. of the same Chapter) tells us more intelligibly the Immateriality

that

nose

ma-

ion,

ub-

loss

ddi-

ant-

hat

eye,

we ge,

neft

on his

OW

be-

ial

be

r'd

he

12ity teriality of this changed mortal Substance, in these Words; It is fown a natural Body, it is raised a spiritual Body: So that it must needs follow, that if this Celestial, incorruptible, immortal Body becomes spiritual, it must consequently be immaterial; fince all spiritual Bodies are immaterial Substances.

And that Material Substances may and will be d a changed into immaterial ones, is further evident ans from what we find in the Third Chapter of Philipnust pians, v. 21. the Verse before speaking of our Lord ible Fesus Christ, who shall change our vile Body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious Body; where of this vile terrestrial House we live in, made of Clay, tter is to be changed into an immaterial Substance.

ony From what we have faid it appears, That Matter we which must be united to and cohabit with the Soul, dies and be of Eternal Duration, and continue with it and for ever: And that this is the Sense and Meanain, ing of the Scripture, not only appears from the be Texts already mention'd, but from the Opinion of the Church deliver'd in the Articles of our Faith; and first in that of ARTICLE II. Of the Word, or Son of God, which was made very Man.

The Son, which is the Word of the Father, begotten from Everlasting of the Father, the very and Eternal God, of one Substance with the Father, took Man's Nature in the Womb of the bleffed Virgin, of her Substance: So that Two whole and perlect Natures, that is to fay, the Godhead and Manhood, were joined together in One Person, never to be dividedAnd that Matter must be so changed as to become immaterial, and lose its corruptible mortal Qualities, (given to Change, and subject to accidental Alterations) and that it must put on such a Form as will make it capable of Eternal Duration, is not only evident from this Article of our Faith, but also from the Fourth Article.

i

to fu

ti

d

al

ft

d

N

a

I

V

0

f

1

C

ARTICLE IV. Of the Resurrection of Christ.

Christ did truly rise from Death, and took again his Body, with Flesh, Bones, and all Things appertaining to the Perfection of Man's Nature, wherewith he ascended into Heaven, and there sitteth until he return to judge all Men at the last Day.

From both which Articles of our Belief it is not only manifest, that corruptible Matter must put on Incorruption, but also that Material Substance must become immaterial, otherwise it would not be of everlassing Duration: And that Matter must undergo this Change, and become immaterial, is not only plain from the Evidence of Scripture; as I Cor. 15. 49, 50. And as we have born the Image of the Earthy, we shall also bear the Image of the Hea-Now this I say, Brethren, that Flesh and Blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God; neither can Corruption inherit Incorruption: I fay, it is not only evident from Scripture, that Matter must undergo this Change, but Reason it self convinceth us of the Necessity of it: For as Material Bodies are constantly subject to Decay, and stand in need of fresh Supplies of Nourishment to support them, and are too of a perishing Kind; so it is necessary they should be transformed into Celestial, or Immaterial Spirituous Bodies, that stand in need of no such Sustenance, but may be durable and fit to continue,

tinue, without being subject to Alterations, to all Eternity.

s to ortal

den-

ch a

tion.

aith,

A.

igain

per-

here-

un-

not it on

must

e of rder-

on-

Cor.

f the

Hea-

and

ither

not

un-

h us

are

d of

iem,

Hary

ma-

no

con-

nue,

And here we may take notice and observe by the by, that the Soul does not only want and stand in need of a fleshly and carnal Body in this World, to make it a fit Habitation on this Globe, and adapted with proper Organs of Sense, to convey Ideas of carnal Things to it whilft it remains here, that the Soul may have a true Sense and Taste of worldly Objects, to render this World in some measure satisfactory to it; but also we are to take notice, that Celestial Souls or Spirits have Celestial Bodies joined to them, as proper Habitations for those more refined Substances in those Mansions of Bliss, and aptly formed to make them serviceable in those Celestial Regions, and fit to convey Spiritual Ideas of Heavenly Objects to that more Intellectual Subflance which is joined to these Celestial Bodies.

Having said thus much of Material and Immaterial Substances in their nearest Relation to one another, and as the one forms Terrestrial and the other Celestial Bodies; we shall next proceed to take a View, in some Measure, of those more refined Spirits which inhabit these Celestial Bodies, and which are more immediately concerned in the Actions of Immaterial Spirits; or which are Celestial Substances of a more refined Nature and Power, endowed with the Qualities of Thinking, Reasoning, and of Communicating their Ideas from one to the other.

The next Degree of Immaterial Substances (above that which consists of Matter, transmuted and changed into an Immaterial Substance, and which forms Celestial Bodies) is the Soul or Spirit of a Man, which hath the Power of Thinking, Reasoning, and receiving Ideas of External Objects, not only by the common Sensories which convey them from External Objects, but also of reciprocal Conveying and Receiving Ideas of Objects laid up in the common Repositories of the Mind from one to another.

from

end

and

tio1

Sou

liti

vet

ic

"

00

60

10

66

((

CC

"

50

This Power of communicating our Ideas from one to the other, is a strong Argument and Demonstration of the Sublimity and Excellency of a Rational Soul in Human Flesh subsisting: And the here we see but thro a Glass darkly, being clouded by the Incumbrance of Terrestrial Vapours about our Understandings, which obstruct the brighter Operations of the Mind; yet when we come to see Face to Face, in a refined, Celestial, and Immaterial Body, our Thinking will be more sublime, our Conceptions clearer, and our Ideas brighter. Yet the Soul, even as it is, in its darksome Cell of slessly Substance, is a glorious Specimen of Infinite Wisdom, and stupendous Power.

God Almighty hath not only endowed us with the Capacity of Thinking, and Reasoning, and Receiving as well as Communicating Ideas of Things about us, but hath enabled us to contemplate his Works of Superior Orders, and to know likewise that we are not much Inferior to some of them. Pfal. 8. 5. For thou hast made him a little lower than the Angels; and hast crowned him with Glory and Honour.

And this Capacity God hath given us of discerning our State and Station, till we shall be translated to his Celestial Mansions, gives a certain and undeniable Proof of the Existence of human Souls or Spirits little lower than Angels, and consequently of the Existence of those Superior Orders betwixt us and his Infinite Eternal Spirit. It gives us an indisputable Confirmation of our Existence, because we know that we have the Power to know, and therefore are certain that we exist, because we are sensible of the Qualities of our existing Substance, that is endowed Con- indowed with the Ability of Thinking, Reasoning, op in and Discerning: And as we discern those Qualificaions of our Soul, so we are assured that there is a Soul which is the Spring from whence those Qualities rife.

ie to

from

mon-

Ra-

tho'

aded

bout

0-

See

erial

con-

the

thly

Vif-

the cei-

ngs

his

vise

m.

an

nd

n-

ed

le-

or

of us

n-

e

2-

le.

is

d

And tho' we cannot form exactly adequate Ideas of that Immaterial Spirit, or Thinking Substance: yet, as the great Mr. Locke, in his profound Estay of Human Understanding, observes; "If a Man will examine himself concerning his Notion of " pure Substance in general, he will find he hath " no other Ideas of it, but by a Supposition of he " knows not what Support of fuch Qualities, which " are capable of producing simple Ideas in us; " which Qualities are commonly called Accidents. "Thus if we talk or think of any Corporeal Sub-" stance, as Horse, Stone, &c. tho' the Idea we " have of either of them be but the Complication " or Collection of those several simple Ideas, or sen-" fible Qualities, which we use to find united in " the Object called Horse or Stone; yet because we " cannot conceive how they should subsist alone, nor " one in another, we suppose them to subsist in, " and to be supported by some common Subject; " which Support we denote by the Name of Sub-" stance, tho' it be certain we have no clear or di-" stinct Idea of that Thing we suppose a Sup-" port.

" The same Thing happens concerning the Ope-" ration of our Mind, viz. Thinking, Reasoning, " Fearing, & oc. which we, concluding not to sub-" fift of themselves, and not apprehending how " they can belong to Body, are apt to think these: " the Actions of some Substance we call Spirit: "Whereby it is evident, that having no other No-" tion of Matter, but something wherein these ma-" ny sensible Qualities which affect our Senses do " fubfift, by supposing a Substance wherein Thinket ing, Knowing, Doubting, and a Power of Mo. A ving do substiff, we have as clear a Notion of the we a et dy; the one being supposed to be (without know- hav et ing what it is) the Substratum to those simple Met ! Ideas which we have from without; and the other the et supposed (with a like Ignorance of what it is) to mig be the Substratum of those Operations which we atel experiment in our selves within. It is plain then, ces that the Idea of Corporeal Substance in Matter Glo er is as remote from our Conceptions and Appre- fro hensions, as that of Spiritual Substance; and there-fore from our not having any Notion of the Sub-" stance of Spirit, we can no more conclude its not fro

"the Existence of Body; it being as rational to af- wi er firm there is no Body, because we cannot know the " its Essence as it's called, or have the Idea of the /ba

" Existing, than we can for the same Reason deny me

" Substance of Matter, as to say there is no Spirit, rit er because we know not its Essence, or have no Idea " of Spiritual Substance.

And this may not only be fufficient to fatisfy us as to the Existence of a reasonable Soul, or the Immaterial Spirit of a Human Body, which must be joined to an Immortal Substance, or Body, after Death.

And as this Immaterial Substance hath the Power and Capacity of thinking, reasoning, and retaining Ideas of Things (adequate or inadequate) about us, which are Objects of Sense, or Things without our Sphere, which we cannot comprehend, but only contemplate, tho' we are fure of their Existence; so we are as certain that we have the Power of retain ing Ideas of those Things, and of communicating them one to another: This we are convinced of, by our frequent Conversation and Correspondence with one another.

And

at

C

in of

lh

Mo. And by the same Rule and Manner of reasoning the we are as certain of the Existence (as I said before) Bo- of a Superior Order of Spirits above us. Angels now- have often made their Appearance upon Earth as mple Messengers of God, and Ministring Spirits, which is ther the Signification of their Name Ayea ; God Almighty employing those good Spirits more immediately under him, to execute those more sublime Offinen, ces which he hath thought necessary for his own ore- from several Places in Scripture, both in the Old and ere- New Testament: As Gen. 24.7. The Lord God of Sub- Heaven, which took me from my Father's House, and not from the Land of my Kindred, and which spake unto eny me, and which sware unto me, saying, Unto thy Seed af- will I give this Land ; He shall fend his Angel before now thee. And again, Exod. 23. 23. For mine Angel the ball go before thee, and bring thee in unto the Amorites. Again, John 5. 4. For an Angel went down rit, at a certain season into the Pool, and troubled the dea Water. And an Angel not only appeared to the Centinel that guarded our Saviour's Body when laid us in the Sepulchre, but to Zacharias before the Birth of John, to inform him that his Wife Elizabeth be should bear a Son. Luke 1. 11. And there appeared ter unto him an Angel of the Lord, standing on the right hand of the Altar of Incense. And v. 12, 13. When ver Zacharias saw him, he was troubled, and Fear fell upon bim. But the Angel Said unto bim, Fear not, Zacharias; for thy Prayer is heard, and thy wife Elizabeth shall bear thee a Son, and thou shalt call his name John. From whence it appears, that Angels have openly demonstrated their Existence, by their publick way of executing the Commands and Will. of God.

m-

ng

us,

our

n-,

fo

17 ng

of,

ice

nd

From what we have hitherto observed of the Nature of Immaterial Substances, it is evident, That the Souls of Men (which I reckon in the Second Degree

Degree of Immaterial Subflances) have not only the Power of communicating their Thoughts, and those acquired Ideas laid up in the Reservatory of their Minds: but that Angels, which may be reckon'd a Third Degree of Immaterial Substances, hold Correfpondence with Men, and can convey the Will of their Creator to them, when they receive his Order and Commands. And this they do, not only by open and naked Conversation and personal Appearances, but sometimes by a more secret way of Communication, conveying fuch Ideas into the Minds of Men as may represent their Thoughts without Speaking, or Vocal Sounds, to affect the External Senfory. As when an Angel appeared to Joseph in a Dream, Mat. 1. 18, 19, 20, 21. before the Birth of our Saviour. When as his Mother Mary was espoused to fo-Seph, before they came together, she was found with Child of the Holy Ghost. Then Joseph ber Husband, being a just Man, and not willing to make her a publick Example, was minded to put her away prinily. But while he thought on these Things, behold the Angel of the Lord appeared to him in a Dream, faying, fofeph, thou Son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy Wife, for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghoft: And she shall bring forth a Son, and thou shalt call his name Jessus; and he Shall fave the People from their Sins. And Facob when he flept in his way to Haran, faw in a Vision what we must allow to be true, being testify'd by Holy Writ, Gen. 28. 12. And he dreamt, and behold a Ladder set upon the Earth, and the Top of it reached to Heaven: And behold, the Angels of God ascending and descending upon it.

From what we have faid, it appears, how Immaterial Substances of a Superior Order and Degree to the Spirits of Men, may communicate their Thoughts not only by Words to the Souls of Men, but even ferretly may convey such Ideas as represent their

Thoughts,

7

1

n

2

1

I

h

2

t

0

I

C

ľ

Et

H

y the

those

their n'd a

orre-

ll of rder

pen

ices,

ica-

Men

ing,

As

am,

Sa-

70-outh

ind,

ra

bri-

old

2711,

ake:

ved

rth

be cob

ion

by

be-

it

iod

na-

to hts

fe-

eir

hts,

Thoughts, into the Minds of Men in Dreams, and whilst they sleep. We might add several other Texts of Scripture to the same Purpose; but these may be sufficient to our present Design, which is to shew how Spirits, or Immaterial Substances, may act upon one another, and communicate their Thoughts; which serve to illustrate the Nature of Immaterial Substances, and to make the Idea we have of them more clear and intelligible, as well as to give us a truer Representation of the Nature of them.

Thus much being faid of the Nature of these Immaterial Substances as they relate to good Angels, we shall next see what we are to think of those evil Angels which are the Authors not only of their own Destruction, but of all the Miseries and Misfortunes of Mankind. These, in their first State, were of the same Degree of Glory with the rest; and notwithstanding their Fall thro' their Folly and Transgreffions, yet they are still Immaterial Substances of the same Degree or Order as to the Nature of their Substance, tho' their Rebellion against the most High God (which is the Fourth, and most infinitely Superior Order of Immaterial Substances) hath made them Outcasts, or Devils : The word Aid Box @. which is derived from DiaBano, Transjicio, signifying Outcasts, or Angels cast out of Heaven for their rebellions Transgressions against the God of Thus 2 Pet. 2. 4. God spared Heaven and Earth. not the Angels that sinned, but cast them down to Hell, and deliver'd them into Chains of Darkness. And again, Jude 6. The Angels that kept not their first Estate, but left their Habitation, he hath referved in everlasting Chains under Darkness. And further, Mat. 25. 41. Depart from me, ye curfed. into everlasting fire, prepared for the Devil and his Angels. Thefe

These evil Angels had not long lest their first State before they began to contrive the Fall of Mankind, and made use of their Art and Cunning to bring us into the same Condition with themselves: And as good Angels have their Power to act as Mimistring Spirits to a good Purpose, so these having loft their Happiness by their Rebellion against their Maker, attempted to betray Mankind, and make us guilty of the like Transgression, in disobeying the Will and Commands of God. To this End, the Devil tempted Eve in the Shape of a Serpent to eat of forbidden Fruit, and break that first Commandment, which laid us open to the Wrath of God, which deprived us of the Bliss and Happiness we had otherwife enjoy'd in that delightful Paradife which our first Parents were placed in.

And as the Devil at the first made use of a Woman to betray us to Eternal Misery, so now and all Ages since, he hath made use of those Agents to execute his ill Designs; which is fully demonstrated by those Vassals of his, who concur with evil Angels to put in Practice the Diabolical Arts of Magick, Sorcery and Witchcraft. And that we may the better understand how the Devil is affisting to these deluded Creatures that enter themselves into his Service, and forsake their God to act under his Banner; having in this Chapter consider'd the Nature of Immaterial Substances, and shewn briefly how they may influence Material Bodies in some measure; we shall, in the next, proceed to observe more fully how Immaterial Substances may alter Matter, and affect Human Bodies.

CHAP. II.

first Mang to

ves:

ving

heir

the De-

t of

ent,

nich

ner-

our

Vo-

to ted

n-

la-

ay

to ito

his

Va-fly

ne

ve

It-

Of the Power of Immaterial Substances in altering Material Substances, and affecting Human Bodies.

FRom what hath been faid in the foregoing Chapter, it sufficiently appears how Immaterial Subfrances may affect one another, by communicating Ideas, and transferring them, or fecretly conveying. them into the Minds of Men. Now fince there are both good and evil Angels; accordingly, as the Mind is furnish'd with good or bad Representations of Things, and receives those different Impressions from Ministring Spirits of a Divine Nature, or from the Devil and his Angels, it will follow consequentby, that the Disposition of the Soul will be alter'd, and differently inclined to good or bad Works: And when the Devil hath thus fecretly gained the Advantage, he will pursue his Intention and Purpose in de-Juding those he hath prevail'd upon to put his evil Designs in Execution, and to transgress the Laws of God variously, as they are disposed to commit Crimes of feveral Kinds.

And fince it is evident that evil Spirits may have a private Communication with the Souls of Men, and incline them to commit Wickedness, and to transgress the Laws of God and Men; no doubt but they will be willing and ready to affist them in those ill Actions, which they are not able to commit themselves without Help. And the Sins of a less Degree may be put in Execution not only by the Consent of, but by the immediate Act of Human Bodies; as Thest, Murther, 50°c. yet since the Diabodical lical Arts of Magick, Sorcery and Witchcraft, require not only the Consent of the Person who is the Devil's Agent, but likewise his Assistance in putting their evil Intentions in Practice after a private and secret manner, it is evident he will be willing, upon all Occasions, and in all different ways, either their Envy and Malice or his cunning and crafty Devices can contrive, to execute their ill Intentions.

And forasmuch as those that are tormented and supernaturally affected with the Power of Witchcraft, are disorder'd both in Body and Mind, by the Mediation of an ill Spirit that puts the Intentions of such wicked Persons in Execution; we shall next consider how Immaterial Substances may alter the Forms of Matter, and consequently their Qualities, and assect human Bodies with Disorders and irregular Symptoms, contrary to the common Course of Nature.

How Immaterial Substances may affect one another, and after the Disposition of the Mind, we have already observed; viz. by loading it with Ideas of an ill or irregular Kind, which may either incline it to wicked Practices, as those wretched Creatures are that practise Witchcraft; or by the Consent or the Request of those Witches, these evil Angels may convey such Ideas into the Mind of the Person who is disorder'd by the Devil and his Agents, as may occasion irregular Symptoms, and create unusual Pains and Tortures.

And that Immaterial Spirits may not only disorder the Mind, and thus disquiet the Soul, but disorder the Body also, will be further evident, if we seriously reflect upon the great Disorders that happen in human Bodies only by the Instuence of our own Soul, when disquieted with irregular Passions of the Mind: Some with Grief and Sorrow pine away and dye; and others, tho' their Flesh is almost consumed and wasted away, yet when that uneasy Passion is removed

re-

the

ting

and pon

heir

ices

and tch-

the

ons

ter

aliir-

rfe

10-ive

of

ire

he

ay

ho

cns

er

er,

n

n

d

removed that before disorder'd the Soul, they prefently recover their Strength, and grow strong and lufty again. And that the Soul of Man, which is an Immaterial Substance, hath so great an Influence as to alter the Disposition of human Bodies so much, not only the common Observation of the World testifies, but even the Scripture: As Prov. 15. 13. A merry Heart makes a chearful Countenance; but by Sorrow of the Heart, the Spirit is broken. And again, Prov. 17. 22. A merry Heart does good like a Medicine; but a broken Spirit dries the Bones. And surther, Prov. 18. 14. The Spirit of a Man will sustain his Infirmities; but a wounded Spirit who can bear?

And if the Soul of Man, disquiet or disordered, occasions such great Enormities, and irregular Symptoms and Accidents, as often happen by the Passions of the Mind, and the Strength of Imagination, what strange Accidents may be produced by the forcible Power of an immaterial Substance, of a superior Degree, and endowed with far greater Strength and Capacity, as well as Disposition to do Mischief; and if the Devil can disorder the Soul with a much greater Force than Passions of the Mind, as he is a more active and subtle Spirit, Why may he not occasion much greater Disorders in material Substances, and natural Humours, that sluctuate in human Bodies; and as his Power is supernatural, it is but reasonable to suppose and allow, that this Power exerted, must produce supernatural Effects:

And fince a supernatural Power can produce supernatural Effects, and this Diabol cal Power goes about like a Lion, seeking whom he may devour, it is no wonder he puts his Power in Execution in deluding, and communicating with such deluded Creatures, who make that wicked Compact with him, to fulfil their wicked Desires, in tormenting and torturing other Land People,

People, whom Envy and Malice may move them to disturb.

And that the Devil and his Angels being immaterial Substances of more Power and Subtilty than human Souls, can produce more dreadful Accidents in human Bodies, than what are natural, is evident from the great Force they have in acting upon Matter, so as to be able to move Bodies of considerable Weight and Bulk, to distant Places, without any visible Contact. The Scripture tells us of his moving our Saviour into a high Mountain, and carrying him up, and fetting him upon the Pinnacle of the Temple: And it is recorded, and carry'd down to us by Tradition, how he hath moved Bodies more ponderous and heavy. There is a Church belonging to a Town, in Oxford Road from London, which stands upon a high Hill, remote from the Place, where no body would chuse to build such a Fabrick, it being both troublesome to the People to ascend fuch a Hill, as well as inconvenient in bad Weather; and if you ask the People who are Inhabitants thereabouts how it came to be built there, they will tell you, that the Stones which were prepared to build it in a more convenient Place, were carry'd away in the Night by a Diabolical Power, so that they were obliged to build it there, or not at all. There is another on a high Hill in Devonshire, that the Inhabitants give the same Account of, in the Road from Exeter to Plymouth. And in Cheshire, there is a Pavement some Miles long and broad, that was built or laid in one Night, without any human Knowledge or Affistance ever known. I might mention several other strange Actions of Diabolick Power of this Kind; but these are sufficient to shew. what Power immaterial Substances have to move and act upon material Substances, or corporeal Bodies.

n to

imathan

dent

Aat-

able

any

mo-

rry-

e of

nwi

ore

ing

ich

ce,

ck,

end

er:

re-

elk lit

IIL

ere

is

n-

ad

is.

28

in.

ht

k

W.

ve.

al

I.

But not to mention these Historical Accounts, which are carried down from our Ancestors to Posterity, we may be fully convinced of the Truth of this Diabolical Power, to act upon Matter, and consequently human Bodies, by Instances contained in Holy Writ; as the Magi, who by their Charms, imitated most of the Acts done by Moses, assisted by Divine Power.

And if those evil Spirits have so much Power upon Bodies of Bulk and solid Weight, how much easier may they act upon the Humours and Parts of a human Body; either as when they act in Possessions, or at the Request of a wicked Man or Woman, who hath made a Compact and Agreement with them, who hath forsaken her God, and given way to the Insinuations, and false Delusions of the Devil. And if these Spirits surther can transport Solid Bodies of vast Weight, how much easier may they move violently the small Minute Parts of Fluid Humours, and occasion violent Convulsions of the Parts, and exquisite Pain, by twinging the sensible Parts, which receive the Impression of such Bodies, and occasion the Sense of Feeling.

And if these Spirits, or incorporeal Substances, can convey Idea's of Things secretly into the Mind, and thus insinuate themselves into the chief and principal Seat of the Soul, where she performs the noblest Operations of the Mind; why cannot they pursue all the sine Meanders of the Body, and accompany the Soul in her Operations there, and produce ill Essees preternatural, and above the Power of natural Force? That they do, is certain, stom the Testimony of Scripture, and the different Actions mentioned in Holy Writ, of Diabolick Kinds, both in the Old and New Testament; a great many of which I have quoted and laid down, in the several Chapters of this Book, upon different Occasions, and therefore shall not have Occasion to repeat them again; as when the Witch of Endor raised Samuel; Devils of different Kinds, possessing the Bodies of Men and Beaft, Egc.

to

Thus much may be sufficient to shew the Capacity immaterial Substances have to instict Pains and Tortures, as well as evil Communications and Thoughts upon Mankind. But fince we have taken Notice of the different ill Effects produced by these evil Angels, and what various Ways they take to do Mischief; we shall further observe, that as we have distinguished immaterial Substances, by Four principal Orders or Degrees; Viz. First, that immaterial Substance that composes the rifing Body, and which is the eternal Habitation of the Soul. Secondly, That immaterial Spirit of Man, which is the Soul, and the Inhabiter of that Heavenly Celestial Body. Thirdly, That more exalted and refined immaterial Substance, which is given to form the Substance of Angels. And Fourthly, That eternal infinite Spirit, who, Genesis xvii. I. declares of himself, and his Power, saying, I am the Almighty God. Of this last there is no Difference; he having no Rival, and none being greater, and no Part of the Godhead being greater or less than the other. But in the inferior Order, viz. that of Angels, they are different in Strength and Power; as Pfalm ciii. 20. We are told of Angels that excel in Strength; and 2 Peter ii. 15. we are told of Angels greater in Power; and elsewhere, of Angels and Archangels. And as good Angels differ in Glory and Honour, so evil Angels are of different Kinds, as our Saviour declares, Mark ix. 29. And be faid unto them, this Kind can come forth by nothing, but by Prayer and Fasting.

And thus you find, by the different Histories, in our History of Witcher oft, that Witches made use of various Sorts of Spirits, which acted after a different Manner; and that Devils not only vary in their

Endor their manner of afting, but also have different fessing Names, is plain from what our Saviour said to the Devil, which enter'd into the Herd of Swine, asking pacity him what his Name was, who answered, Legion; and being of a different Kind from that Dumb Devil, and Mark ix. which would be cast out by nothing but taken Prayer and Fasting.

these Thus much might be sufficient to prove the Poske to fibility of evil Angels acting upon human Bodies, as we and pursuing the ill Designs of those wicked Crea-Four tures, which are deluded by them, and are called mma-Magicians, Sorcerers, and Witches; fince we have not only Moral Proof, and their own Confessions, Soul. but also the Testimony of Scripture, and the Eviwhich dence of Reason, to confirm the Truth of what we venly affert.

and But to demonstrate still more fully, the Possi-in to bility of those ill Practices, we shall consider further That the Power of immaterial Substances over Marter, de- and how the latter may be affected by the form the mer.

ence; and

at of

wer:

excel

d of

ngels

Glory

inds;

Said

but

, in ule

dif-

y in

heir

To demonstrate this, we may reflect on that grand Work of the Microcosin, or the Formation than of the Universe. For as that omnipotent Cau'e of all Things, must needs precede the Creation, which was the Work of that Power, and the Cause of succeeding Effects, when Matter was first Created if immaterial Substance could not affect Matter, the Parts of Matter had never been put in Motion; and not convening into new Forms, could never have acquired new Qualities. Nor can we suppose that rude and senseles Matter of it self, could ever convene into Worlds formed after fuch a curious Manner, as we see they are; nor into different Bodies, framed with the greatest Contrivance and Skill: The Curiousness of the Works, shew the stupendious Wifdom of their Maker, and their Harmony and Usefulness, the vast Forecast of Providence, But

But though the Universe was formed at the mighty Fiat, or Will of the Creator, out of primary created Matter, yet that Fiat, or Will, could not be put in Execution, without fomething to direct the Parts of Matter into the curious Order they are in ; they must be directed by something that gave them Motion, and which was able to model and conftitute the Form of the Universe; and fince in the Beginning God created the Heavens and the Earth, it must be that immateral Spirit of infinite Forefight and Knowledge, that impelled or directed Created Matter into different Worlds; and fince that is the immaterial Substance of the highest Order, and the Cause of all other Things, it follows, that an immaterial Substance may act upon Matter, otherwife the World would have been without Form, and all the Creatures in it unfashioned.

And as an immaterial Substance, of the purest ! Kind, and highest Nature, as well as profoundest Knowledge, even infinite in all his Attributes, was the first Director of Matter in all its different Appearances or Shapes, so his Providence, to shew the Greatness of his Power, hath, upon some Occasions, altered the Course of Nature, and put a stop to the Eternal Laws he had prescribed to natural Bodies. Thus when Five Kings were at War against Gibeon, Joshua x. 12, 13. Then spake Joshua to the Lord, in the Day when the Lord delivered up the Amorites before the Children of Israel, and he said in the Sight of Israel, Sun, stand thou still upon Gibeon, and then Moon in the Valley of Ajalon, And the Sun food fill, and the Moon flayed, until the Prople had avenged themselves upon ther Enemies. Is not this written in the Book of Fasher? So the Sun flood still in the midst of Heaven, and hasted not to go down about a whole Day. Which makes it plain what mighty Power an immaterial Substance may have upon Matter, though in so rapid a Motion as the Sun; and which must give it Motion again, when it had lost its first prescribed Motion. And though this was done by an infinite Power, yet that infinite Power being an immaterial Substance, it proves what great Effects immaterial Substances may have upon material Bodies; and though it lies not in the Power of an immaterial Substance of an inferior Order, to equal God in his Works; yet, it is sufficient to prove that they have an inferior Power upon Matter, according to their Force and Strength: and this is evident, by the Power of good and bad Angels, shewn in their different Actions, and demonstrated by their several Works, which we have often mentioned in this Book.

But to shew the Power of immaterial Substances, and what Effects they can produce upon Matter, let us consider briefly their Effects on human Bodies, in the Formation of the Microcosm, or human Bodies Ap- upon Impregnation and Conception.

Upon this Occasion we shall not enter upon a ions, Physical Discourse of the Reason of Impregnation p to and Conception, but only observe what is sufficient to our present Purpose, and to answer the Intention we here aim at.

migh-

imary

ot be

It the

e in;

them

onsti-

n the

arth,

Fore-

Cre-

nat is and

at an other-

, and

urest

v the

Bo-

ainst

o the

p the Said

upon

alon.

until mies. Sun

ot to

olain

may n as

the

Upon this Occasion, then, we are to consider, that human Creatures are composed of a Soul and Body; and that the Soul is the grand Agent in directing the Actions of the Body, as the immense immaterial God is of the Universe: I mean not in first forming Mankind, that being the Work of God in the Creation, as part of the Universe; but I mean the Soul, that immaterial Substance, added to human Nature, is the great Plastick Power which overrules the Actions within the Body, except a fuperior immaterial Substance interposes, and is chiefly concerned in directing the Parts of Matter in the Formation of a Fatus in the Womb; and that when upon Conception, the Ovum, or first Seed of Mankind is conveyed from the Ovaries into the Womb, and hath increased to that Maturity, that it grows fast to the Mother, and receives Nourishment; then the Soul directs and influences the Disposition or orderly Structure of the Parts, and actuates them into a proper Form, or the first Shape of a Body; which makes the little World, our Body, an Emblem of the greater World, the Universe, and illustrates the Necessity of a Power superior to Matter, or an immaterial Substance to form the Universe.

t

I

V

(

Now that the immaterial Substance our Soul is concerned in the first Formation of our Bodies within the Womb, is evident from the irregular Accidents that happen upon Womens longing for particular Things, which they never attain; the Marks upon the Child being fixed by the Strength of Imagination, and the Energy of the Soul, of those parricular Things they longed for. Now if the Soul hath Power by a firong Conveyance of the Idea's of fuch Things down to the Child, through such Mediums as properly belong to neither Mother nor Child, but are useful only to convey Nourishment, and return what is superfluous, and occasions an irregular Formation of a Fatus, or Child in the Womb it not only shews what a strong Influence immaterial Substances may have upon Matter; and that the Soul may be very reasonably the Cause of regular Formations; but it also gives us to conclude, that, fince immaterial Substances of a higher Nature than human Spirits, viz. those of fallen Angels, can insinuate themselves into our Thoughts; and consequently penetrate into all the Recesses of the Soul: I fay, it gives us just Reason to conclude, that such Substances can produce strange and supernatural Effects in human Bodies; not only when they ent r'into our Bodies, as in Possessions, but when they are employed by Compact with those deluded Creatures called Witches.

From what we have said, considered and put together, I doubt not but it will sufficiently appear, that immaterial Substances have the Power to commit all those Actions which have been mentioned in this Book, and our Compleat History of Witchcraft; when those immaterial Substances are of that pernicious Kind, which lost Angels proved to be, when they were cast out of Heaven, and merited the Name of Devils; being cast out of Heaven by the Power of that superior infinite Spirit, who was the Maker and Governor of all Things.

lan-

the

that

rith-

Dif-

ictu-

be of

ody,

erfe,

or to

the

Il is ith-

cci-

Itti-

arks

ma-

par-

Soul

s of

Me-

nor

ent,

rre-

mb

rial

Soul

ma-

nce

hunsi-

nt-

fay,

ub-

ects

our

yed

by

And though some may say, that God Almighty would not fuffer fuch Creatures to act jointly with the Devil, to inflict and torment innocent good Persons; yet the Scripture tells us, that the Devil, like a roaring Lion, goes about, feeking whom he may betray; and if he hath betray'd fuch, and they act by his: Power, no doubt but they will pursue the Works of: their new Master, whom they adhere to, having left. their true God; and though they can do nothing without God's Permission, yet, we know, that he suffered himself to be tempted, to learn us how to refift Temptations; and none can fuffer, that wholly confide in him, and follow his Example strictly, in: resisting Temptations; yet the Frailty of human Nature hath made us too apt to give way to them, and few grown Persons can say they are without Sin, and consequently have in some Measure forsaken their God, which may render them liable to the Infults of the Devil and his Angels, or those other inferior Vass Is, which act in Concert with them, and acquire that reproachful Denomination of Witches. And though some may say, that though grown Perfons may be liable to fuffer by fuch Persons under Contract with the Devil, who affists them, yet Infants, and those of tender Years, can have committed ted no Offence, notwithstanding they likewise suffer by the same evil Agents; to which I answer, that since the fall of Alam, we are from our Birth guilty of Original Sin; and the Commandment tells us, that the Sins of the Fathers shall be visited upon their Children, to the Third and Fourth Generation.

I shall therefore conclude this Chapter, with this Observation further, of the Nature and Power of those Diabolical Spirits, who are the chief Actors of those Tragical Arts of Witchcraft, &c. viz. That as they can infinuate their ill Representations into the Minds of Men, and torture their Bodies, so they have Power to assume Bodies when they please, and appear in different Shapes; as when the Devil enter'd the Swine, and transformed himself into an Angel of Light. And Angels not only appeared upon several Occasions, but our Saviour told his Disciples to feel that he had Flesh and Bones; which he needed not to have distinguished himself by, if Spirits could not render themselves. Visible; he would have said that Spirits could not appear.

Since then it appears, that the Art of Witchcraft is not impossible, but hath the Testimony of Reafon, as well as other Proof; all I shall add is, that as God spared not Angels that suned, nor Adam that transgressed, and hath strictly commanded that a Witch shall not live, the Laws against such Persons ought to be put in Execution, less we disobey God, and in excusing horrible Crimes, suffer the World to be overrun with Wickedness.

and those of tender regarded has Valle which ask in Concest value Concest value destinated from pany five three charges are of the they and enlife they and enlife they and enlife the they and enlife they are the are they are the are they are the

aft ea-nat am hat er-bey